

Field hockey team defeated Rival Lock Haven delivers 3-2 overtime loss

By LIZ KAHN
Collegian Sports Writer

It wasn't much of a ride, but when the field hockey team arrived at Lock Haven State College yesterday afternoon, they had no inkling of just how long of an evening they would be spending in the nest of the Lady Eagles.

And although the miles traveled were few, the trip back to University Park was probably one of the slowest ever for the two-time national championship team which suffered its first loss of the season by one goal and brought down its record to 3-1.

Lock Haven downed the Lady Lions 3-2 after two 10-minute overtimes were deadlocked, and the game was forced into penalty strokes.

Penn State tallied first in the game when junior transfer student Anne Hopkins scored on a pass from wing Lindsay Sheehan at 5:45.

But Lock Haven's Tracy Coates came back with a strong shot passing goalie Vilma Cicchinielli, and the Lady Lions faced halftime with a 1-1 tie on their hands.

It was the fourth time this season that Penn State went into the second half of play without a lead. Unfortunately, it was the first time they didn't gain one by the end of the game.

Playing on a very bumpy Lock Haven field that caused the ball to move excessively was a definite disadvantage for the Lady Lions, said senior offensive captain Brenda Stauffer.

"It's very hard to field the ball on that ground," she said, "we really weren't used to that type of field."

After Anne Hopkins scored her second of the day, giving the Lady Lions a 2-1 advantage at 3:35 into the second period, it appeared as if it were Penn State's game.

Actually, with only half a minute left in the entire match it looked like Penn State would be heading home winners once again. But instead, for the usual victors, things were spliced.

"We began the second half with a lot of intensity," sophomore Marsha Florio said, "then they started taking it to us and we got a little panicky. They put a lot of pressure on us and just took control."

With a mere 15 seconds remaining in regulation time, Lady Eagle Sherry Derr tied the score with a quick, hard shot and sent the game into overtime.

The Lady Eagles made all four of their penalty strokes and Penn State scored on only two, leaving the Lady Lions nothing but a bus ride home.

"We should have won," Florio said, "but I think now we really know what we have to work on — playing better together as a team."

Pitt part of Illinois' poll climbing plans

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The University of Pittsburgh may have dropped to No. 3 in this week's AP college football poll, but the Panthers are No. 1 in the heart of Illinois Coach Mike White.

White's 19th-ranked Illini (3-0) plays the Panthers (2-0) at 2:05 p.m. (CDT) tomorrow at Camp Hill, Pa.

White's Illini are the national title hopes — and crucial to the Illini's chances of making their first big move in years in the national rankings.

"Pittsburgh is the best team in the nation," says White, the former coach of the University of California. "I don't care what the polls say. It ticks me to hear people say Pittsburgh has had a couple of dull victories. They're 2-0 right now and there was nothing dull about either of their wins."

After opening the season with a turnover-filled 7-6 victory over North Carolina, the Panthers fell behind unranked Florida State 10-0 last Saturday before rallying to win 37-17.

But White, taking the same line that hundreds of coaches have over the years, says that while he respects the Panthers, he doesn't think they are the best team in the nation.

"The past few days have been really good in practice," co-captain Jan Mosier said. "If these practices are any indication of how we will play this weekend, then we'll be tough."

Mosier and Patty Skadeland on the outside to start. Starters at setting and weak side are undecided, but everyone should see play.

Lion booters return home tonight

By MICHAEL FELICI
Collegian Sports Writer

After a two-week, three-game road trip, the 18th-ranked men's soccer team returns to Jeffrey Field tonight to start the home stretch of the Lion's rigorous schedule. Five of the team's next six games are at home.

Tonight, Penn State hosts the Vikings of Minnesota State. The Vikings are ranked 10th in the nation.

These Vikings seem to be as tough as the famed purple people-eaters — the Vikings of Minnesota State. They are unbeaten in two games and goalkeeper Jay Longworth has not allowed a goal. However, Coach Walter Bahr is well-versed on Cleveland State's style of play.

"Cleveland State has had a good team for the past 10 years," he said. "They try to play a technical game, an interesting game. They don't rely on their physical strength. Penn State, we hope, to play the same way."

The Viking's top-scoring threat is second-team All-American Ali Kazemani, who has scored in both of the team's games. Cleveland State is known for their recruiting of foreign players and for attracting the cream of the crop from the Ohio Valley.

The Lions will start Greg Kenney in goal for the eighth straight game. He sports a 9-0 goals against average and has allowed only two goals in the last three games. The defense has kept opponent's shots to a minimum.

and more importantly, is in good shape after two consecutive overtime games.

"We have some minor stuff (injuries)," Bahr said, "but we'll have it all season long. We're probably in the best physical shape we'll be in all season. Now has been the first time we've had any kind of rest between games and I'm hoping that will be a plus."

In seven games the team has netted 13 goals, six less than last year's squad did in the same amount of time. The graduation of leading scorer Peter Janowski and assist leader Duncan McEwan might be one reason, but Bahr says the scoring opportunities are there.

"Last year we had a couple of early games where we buried six goals in one game and four in another," he said. "I'm disappointed we're not getting more goals. But I'm pleased that we're getting more shots. Against West Chester and Southern Illinois, the goalkeepers both had outstanding nights and held on to some shots that in other games might have slipped through.

"Also this year they've all been more games. That might be the reason (for less goals)."

The Lions played seven games before Oct. 15. It is during this period that the Lions can rack up some victories and almost assure themselves of consideration for a post season berth. It could also put optimistic National Collegiate Athletic Association tournament hopes to rest early.

Canter NASL rookie of the year

By MICHAEL FELICI
Collegian Sports Writer

Dan Canter, the men's soccer team's Most Valuable Player in 1981, was named NASL Rookie of the Year this week by Soccer America Magazine. Recently, Canter placed second in the league's voting for top newcomer, and he was named Rookie of the Year.

Canter was drafted by the Fort Lauderdale Strikers at the end of the 1981 collegiate season and joined the team for the start of its season in April. Under Canter's leadership, the Strikers posted a 15-14 record, winning the Southern Division championship. They were eliminated by the Seattle Sounders in the semi-final playoff.

The Sounders went on to lose the championship to the New York Cosmos.

"I was surprised (at the announcement)," Canter said from his Fort Lauderdale home. "Since I finished second for the other award, I wasn't expecting it. It was a nice surprise."

The 21-year-old native of Chatham Township, N.J., said the adjustment from college to pro soccer was eased by Penn State Coach Walter Bahr who told Canter what to expect at the pro level.

"He played his position here as well as anybody has," Bahr said. "It wasn't hard to identify Danny Canter as an outstanding player with a professional future."

"Dan's a composed player. He's more of a finesse and a thinking player. Dan has excellent field vision and reads the game very well."

"The Penn State program is top-notch," Canter said. "We played many top 10 schools and even in practice you faced tough competition. I also picked up good habits from those practices."

The Strikers should not be surprised by Canter's play. When he made his first career start and 7th choice overall, they commented that they had chosen "the best athlete available."

Canter was defensive MVP in the 1982 Senior Bowl after starting in 79 of Penn State's 88 games over a four-year period. During that span, the Lions were 63-14, including four appearances in the NCAA Tournament.

Lady Lion harriers travel to quad meet

By ANDRIA SILICH
Collegian Staff Writer

The women's cross country team will face its first challenge of the young season tomorrow when the Lady Lions travel to North Carolina to compete in a quad meet with North Carolina State, the University of Texas at Austin and Virginia Tech University.

N.C. State is one of the top teams in the country, and Penn State Coach Gary Schwartz regards them as the favorite to win the meet this weekend. Texas is also ranked as one of the top teams in the country.

"I expect this to be a very close meet between Penn State, Texas and ourselves," said N.C. State Coach Rolfe Geiger. "I'm excited because both teams (Penn State and Texas) have quality programs and excellent coaches."

However, N.C. State is coming off a poor showing in a narrow 26-31 victory over the University of New Carolina.

"We're a much better team than in our original meet, it was not a good meet for us. We didn't run enough for our quarter mile. It was a different type team than last year. Our success will have to come from a light group of five. In the past we relied on having two or three strong runners up front."

Unfortunately, said Geiger, N.C. State will not be at full strength tomorrow. They will be competing without their top two runners Sue Overbey, an All-American, and Betty Springs, the defending NCAA national champion.

"We stand a much better chance without them (Overbey and Springs) competing, but they (N.C. State) will still be very strong freshmen class including Pennsylvania one-mile and two-mile state champ Lynne Strauss, Florida State champion Sharon Chang, and National High School champion Connie Sue Robinson from Ohio."

Schwartz said the talent of these younger girls, combined with the experience of the upper classmen such as Sandy Culliane and Lisa Beck makes the team strong enough to be the favorite going into this weekend's meet.

Panther brawl under way for lady spikers

After last week's 3-0 rout over Rutgers, the women's volleyball team is on the prowl for some real competition.

It looks like the Lady Lions (1-0) will have to wait as they wait for the Lady Panthers (12-1) in back-to-back contests in a dual match tonight at Pitt and again at the Pitt Classic Tournament tomorrow. Ohio State and University of Tennessee are also slated for appearances at the tournament.

Both Pitt and Ohio State finished in the top 10 in AIAW tournament play last year. Tennessee finished its season 16th in the NCAA tournament last year. Ohio State also captured second in the Big 10 Conference. So this weekend the Lady Lions will finally get a chance to see how they match up against some good volleyball.

"Pitt has the edge as far as competition is concerned, they have played 13 games and we have only played one. Tennessee plays all summer."

Coach Russ Rose said. "Because we've only played one game so far, I wouldn't say we're the team to beat. Although we are ranked nationally and none of the others are."

Mosier and Patty Skadeland on the outside to start. Starters at setting and weak side are undecided, but everyone should see play.
