Lady fencers seek experience at open

By JOHN BARANOWSK! Collegian Staff Writer

The women's fencing team will travel today to New York City to take part in the Michele Aleaux Open held at Hunter College. The open is one of four U.S. Circuit events in which a fencer can score points towards the Olympics. The competition will host 120 women fencers of all ages in individual competition. Not all participants will be at the colle-

Penn State Coach Beth Alphin has entered the Lady Lion fencers in this preseason competition for experience, which she feels will help the team in the upcoming season. Alphin said the Open will give the fencers the opportunity to ompete against the best fencers n the country.

"The experience will help the vears." Alphin said. Penn State's best hope in the Open is sophomore Jana Angelakis. She is ranked as the No. 1 women's fencer in the United States and is among the top 25 women fencers in the world. Angelakis just placed lith in a Class B International Competition in Cuba. Alphin said this was quite an achievement considering Angelakis had to borrow equipment

Alphin said she expects Angelakis to do well in the Open and said she has a good chance of winning the entire event. Angelakis has won three of the last four U.S. Circuit events she has entered. Angelakis finished third in last year's Michele Aleaux Open and is seeded first going into this year's event. Angelakis said she expects girls later on in the season when the Lady Lions face Eastern fencto do well in the Open.
