MX missile essential to keep Soviet Union from being obnoxious

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Two ranking Cabinet members put the MX hard-sell on Congress yesterday, saying it is essential to deploy the new missile because "the weaker we are the more bold and obnoxious" becomes the Soviet Union.

But a trio of Democrats made clear they were not buying the wares of Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger and Secretary of State George Shultz.

"Despite the president's super-salesmanship that is being launched here today, I cannot support the recommendations," said Sen. James Exon, D-Neb. "It simply makes no sense to me."

Sen. Carl Levin, D-Mich., said the administration's plan to put 100 missiles in fixed and vulnerable holes

"turns logic on its head." "It doesn't deter," he said. "It does the opposite."

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said that by Weinberger's own testimony the so-called window of vulnerability still exists "and basically these weapons systems would be sitting ducks."

Weinberger and Shultz insisted to the Senate Armed Services Committee that the weapon's military value is that it would enable the United States to match the capability of the Soviet Union to hit and destroy hardened targets with great accuracy.

Politically, they said, it would demonstrate the defense will and determination to defend itself and its allies.

And they said the signal of strength it would send would enhance prospects for success in arms control talks with the Soviet Union.

Drug epidemic threatens country's mental health

By FRED BAYLES
Associated Press Writer

BOSTON — The increase in divorce and single-parent households may be partly to blame for an epidemic of drug use that threatens the nation's physical and mental health, a Harvard researcher says.

"There appears to be something going on in our society that we don't understand that has to do with a vast portion of our population snorting, sniffing, ingesting a wide assortment of psychotropic drugs," said Armand M. Nicholi Jr.

Nicholi, a psychiatrist at Massachusetts General Hospital and Harvard Medical School, said his review of research by various groups and federal agencies found a steady increase of drug abuse over the past 20 years.

He studied findings of the National Institute of Drug Abuse, the University of Michigan and Washington University.

This increase in drug use followed a jump in the nation's divorce rate, he said in a study published in the New England Journal of Medicine.

Nicholi cited figures from the National Academy of Sciences that said the nation's divorce rate started increasing in 1958, hitting 400,000 divorces a year by 1960. In 1967 the number of divorces was over 500,000 a year and eight years later there were 1 million a year.

"The character traits of drug users parallel the same kinds of traits that we know are common among children that grow up with one or both parents absent," he said in an interview.

Other traits common to drug users and children from broken families, he said, include anger.

Walesa declares workers' right to observe May Day, their way

By BRYAN BRUMLEY
Associated Press Writer

GDANSK, Poland — Lech Walesa declared yesterday that the working class has a right to observe May Day any way it wants, despite a government warning that Solidarity's call for protests on the holiday may jeopardize the pope's upcoming visit.

"I am a worker. I will celebrate May Day in a working man's way, but I cannot tell you exactly how," Walesa said at a news conference at his Gdansk apartment.

"The working class has a right to celebrate its own holiday the way it wants," Walesa said.

The leader of the outlawed Solidarity labor union also said he hoped to meet with Polish-born Pope

John Paul II during his scheduled June 16-22 visit. May 1, the international labor observance, is a major holiday in the Soviet bloc, where it traditionally is marked with large, officially orchestrated and controlled marches of workers through main city streets.

"If not, I will seek more effective means," said Walesa, declining to specify what tactics he might propose.

Last May Day, the Solidarity underground staged peaceful mass rallies in more than a dozen Polish cities in the first major public protest of the December 1981 declaration of martial law. Authorities suspended Solidarity in the military crackdown, and interned most of its top leadership.

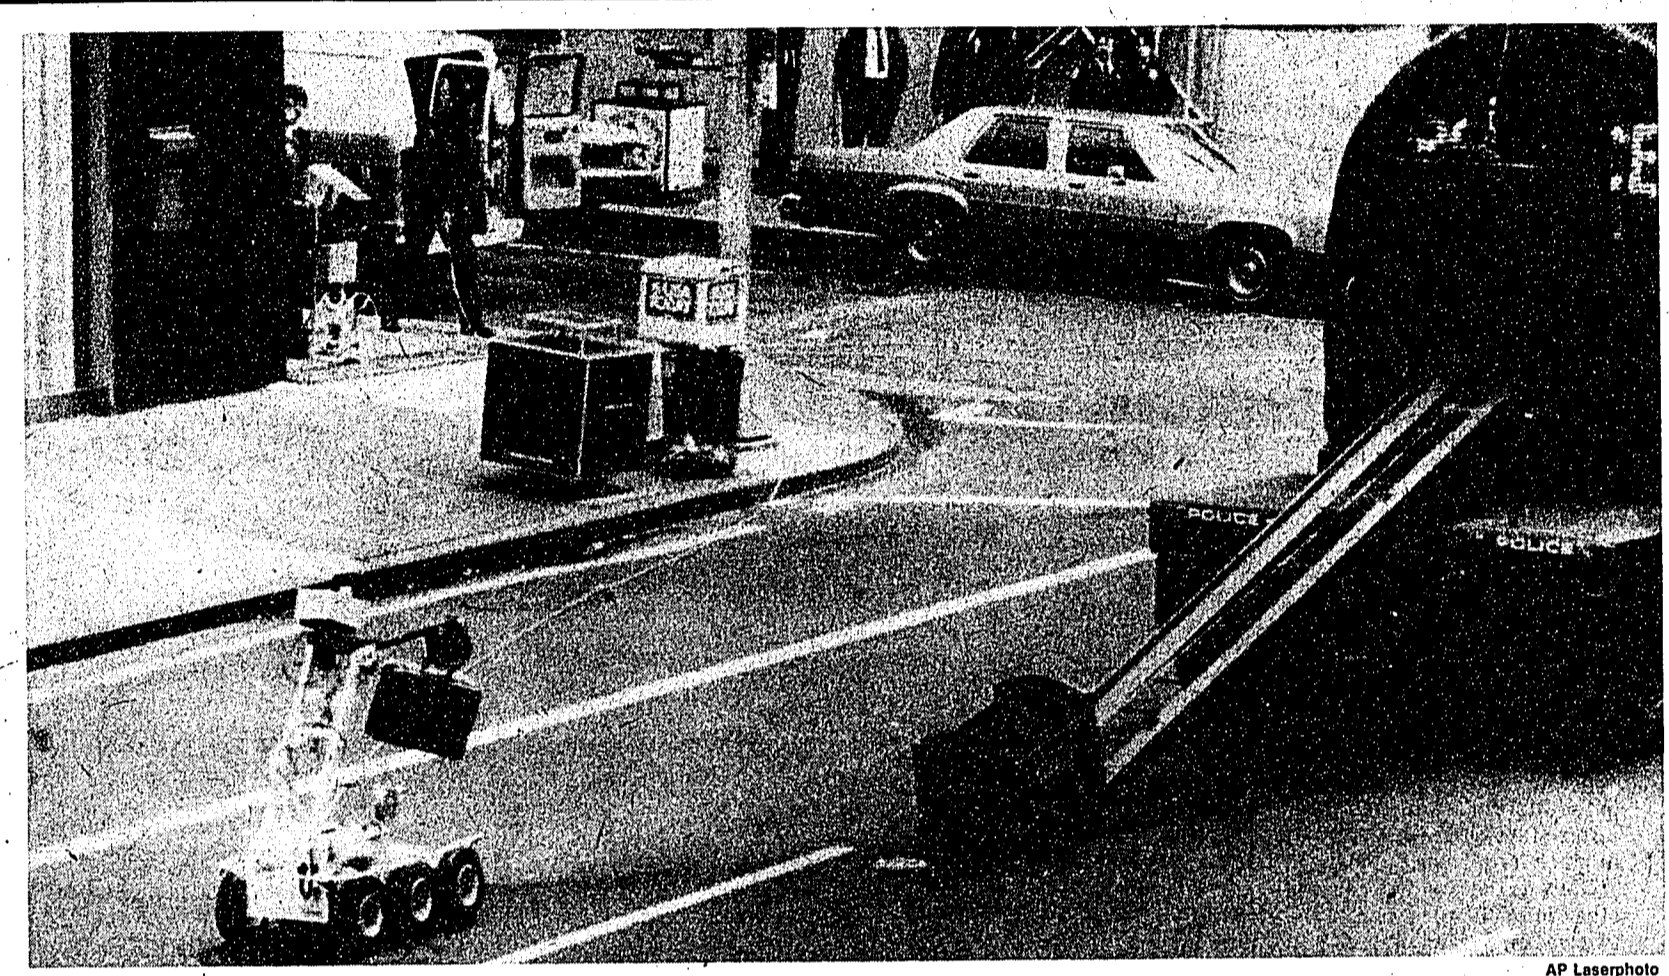

Walesa reportedly held a clandestine meeting with Solidarity's fugitive leaders April 9-11, but has declined to endorse publicly the underground's call for protest marches this May 1.

with union leaders. "I still hope for a dialogue and for solving our problems around a (negotiating) table," Walesa said.

Underground leaders of the outlawed Solidarity labor union have called for nationwide protests on May Day.

On Tuesday, the Communist Party Politburo and the government issued a joint statement warning against protests and saying the underground sought to "cast a shadow over preparations for, and put into question, the conditions necessary for a papal visit."

Walesa also urged the government to negotiate

Emissions bill stalled in committee

HARRISBURG (AP) — Talks on the controversial auto emissions bill broke off yesterday, with House and Senate negotiators as far apart as when they started and no new meetings scheduled.

The three Republican conferees have not budged on the Thurgood administration's position that any kind of customer reimbursement for emissions repairs is a bad precedent and unacceptable. The two House Democrats were just as insistent on approving some type of reimbursement, at least for the poor.

With the bill stuck in the conference committee, a federal judge's freeze on nearly $500 million in federal highway funds continues, with losses piling up as the construction season arrives. U.S. District Judge Louis Bechtle ordered the freeze because of the state's failure to institute a limited auto emissions program agreed to under a 1978 consent decree.

The inspections would be required of 3.1 million cars in the Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Allentown areas.

Juries give less sympathy to drunks

HARRISBURG (AP) — It's too soon to tell whether Pennsylvania's new drunk driving law is effective, but since its enactment, juries have had much less sympathy towards offenders, legislators learned yesterday.

The new law, which took effect in January, levies stiff penalties for driving under the influence and mandates a three-year minimum prison term for any drunken driver convicted of vehicular homicide.

After just three months, officials said yesterday too few cases have reached the courts to test effectiveness of the new law. But the public's attitude, in trial juries and among drivers, seems to be changing, lawmakers learned at a workshop on the drunken driving law.

David Heckler, counsel to the Senate Finance Committee, said the law has made the public more sensitive to the hazards of drunken driving.

"It's no longer something you joke about. It is unacceptable, dangerous behavior," he said.

GM announces high quarterly profit

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp., bolstered by profitable subsidiaries and investment income, reported yesterday net earnings of $63.1 million in the first three months of this year, its best quarterly showing in nearly four years.

The earnings, which amounted to $2.08 per share, compare with a $128.3 million profit, or 41 cents per share, in the first quarter a year ago.

It is the best showing since GM earned $1.19 billion in the second quarter of 1979, when the auto industry sales slump was just beginning. It is GM's best first quarter since it earned $1.25 billion in the first three months of 1979.

In a statement, GM's top executives said "the fundamentals are in place for a recovery year for the industry."

GM was the first automaker to report earnings this quarter. The other major U.S. firms are expected to report results in the next two weeks, with all of them but American Motors Corp. expected to be in the black.

Reagan not sure of Volcker's future

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan personally assured Federal Reserve Board Chairman Paul A. Volcker yesterday that he has not decided whether to replace him as head of the nation's central bank, senior White House officials said.

As Reagan left a White House meeting on the economy attended by Volcker, he whispered in the Fed chairman's ear that he had "simply not addressed this issue yet" of whether to name a new chairman when Volcker's four-year term expires in August, according to the officials.

The officials said Reagan, an outspoken critic of news leaks, was particularly upset by several published reports earlier this week that he either had already decided to name a new chairman or was leaning toward doing so.

Argentines denied visit to Falklands

LONDON (AP) — The government said yesterday it won't allow a group of Argentines to visit war graves in the Falkland Islands next month because the Red Cross has withdrawn its participation 015000in the trip.

"In these circumstances there can clearly be no question of our agreeing to the visit," a Foreign Office statement said.

In Buenos Aires, the organizer of the trip defied the British and said about 100 relatives of Argentines killed in the war last summer would sail April 30 for the islands 250 miles off Argentina's south coast.

"British forces prevent us from realizing this humanitarian journey," said Osvaldo Destefanis, "it will demonstrate to the world the fallacy of so-called English humanitarianism."

McCartney will appeal child support

LONDON (AP) — Ex-Beatle Paul McCartney said yesterday he will appeal a West German court order that he pay $287 a month in child support to a girl who claims to be his illegitimate daughter.

McCartney said in a statement issued by his London press agent that a blood test performed here by leading English and German pathologists — but not accepted by the court because it wasn't done in Germany — "proved conclusively" that he is not the father of 20-year-old Bettina Huebers. "I am willing to make myself available at any time to have as many blood tests as the German authorities wish," the singer said.

Erika Huebers, the girl's mother, told the court she was McCartney's lover in the early 1960s when the then-little-known musician performed at a club in Hamburg.

Huebers, 41, also claimed McCartney made secret child support payments totaling $12,500 for 14 years, ending in 1980 when Bettina was 18.
