

Student missing

University Police Services reported Friday that a University student has been missing since April 16.

Richard Tadrzynski, 21, 504 Beaver Hall, was reported missing by a University employee who was contacted by his family. Police described Tadrzynski (6th-recreation and parks) as caucasian, fair complexion, 5 feet 8 inches tall, and 150 pounds.

He has short, straight black hair, a moustache and brown eyes. He also wears silver wire-rimmed, tinted glasses.

Police said he was probably wearing a red nylon Phillies jacket, blue jeans, black army boots and carrying a blue hiking back pack and sleeping bag. Tadrzynski was last seen at the Hand-in-Hand Festival at the White Building, police said. Tadrzynski's vehicle has been found at the University's Stone Valley Recreational Center where he was believed to be hiking, police said.

Anyone with information is asked to contact University police at 865-5458 or 863-1111.

Central American policies questioned

By MIKE NETHERLAND
Collegian Staff Writer

An international boycott of the El Salvadoran government led by the United States would mean a Marxist-Leninist revolution in that Central American country, a former U.S. Ambassador to Nicaragua said yesterday.

Mauricio Solaun, professor of sociology and Latin American studies at the University of Illinois, said in an interview with The Daily Collegian, the downfall of the present Salvadoran government also depends on continued Nicaraguan and Cuban support of the rebellion.

While former ambassador Solaun deplores active interventionist policies to maintain governments friendly to the United States in Central America, "The policy of laissez-faire (non-intervention) does not lead to liberal democracy." He added later that one should not be enthusiastic to see a group not liberally democratic take power.

Solaun said self-determination in Central America is not possible because the electoral process is not well established.

"So what you ultimately get is a government that is not responsible to the will of the people," he said.

Although the Marxist-Leninist nature of the Sandinista National Liberation Front (FSLN) was obvious when the decision to boycott the Somoza regime was made, it was not foreseen that the FSLN would quickly take power in Nicaragua, Solaun said. The Sandinista revolution was also supported by the Cuban government.

"Whether you have revolution or not is based on a complex set of factors," he said.

Solaun described the situations both in Nicaragua and in El Salvador as unpleasant and tragic. The decision by the Carter administration to cut off aid to Somoza was based solely on human rights violations by the Nicaraguan National Guard, he said.

"The policy was to dissociate ourselves from dictatorships that were violating human rights," he said. Previously, the policy was "interfering without intervention," he said.

However, U.S. foreign policy toward El Salvador should be based on the lesser of the two evils: continued intervention or laissez-faire policy followed by yet another Marxist-Leninist revolution in Central America, he said.

The former ambassador will address the El Salvadoran issue tonight at 8 in 101 Chambers. His presentation is being sponsored by the Latin American Studies Society and the College of The Liberal Arts.

Burgers gobbled in Guinness record try

By JODIE DORNAN

"On your mark, get set, eat!" cried co-chairman Alan Cohen to officially start yesterday's preliminary hamburger eating contest, part of this year's Sy Barash Regatta.

Eight entrants participated in an attempt to top the current world record — 20 1/2 hamburgers consumed in 30 minutes, according to the Guinness Book of World Records.

Yesterday's competition was held in two 30-minute rounds with chairman of the event Dave Pollack acting as official time keeper. Each contestant had a judge and timer with him during the event, sponsored by Beta Sigma Beta fraternity, Phi Mu sorority and McDonald's.

John Peper took first place during the first round after consuming 8 1/2 Quarter-Pounders.

Peper said he hoped to eat more, but all the excitement and people made the event really nerve-racking.

Gary Burbacker who ate 4 1/2 burgers and David Lindley who ate 6 1/2 also participated in the round.

The crowd favorite Mark Petrucci competed during the second round. "We are a force to be reckoned with," claimed his judge Ken Caplin. Unfortunately after an amazing start of finishing six burgers in the first five minutes, Petrucci had to quit due to nausea.

"I've seen a lot of nausea, but that's about it," said Susan Henderson of the University Ambulance service.

First place in the second round was captured by Michael Jasmin who downed 6 1/2 hamburgers during the 30 minutes. Other contestants in the second round were Dave Stapleton who ate 5 1/2 burgers and Joe Nester who ate 4 1/2.

The three participants chosen for the final competition at the Regatta on May 1 were Peper, Lindley and Petrucci. Despite not being able to finish the preliminary round, Petrucci will still compete in the finals.

"Our goal today was not to make money, but rather attract publicity to kick off the Regatta week," Cohen said.
