

Booters lose to Lafayette 2-1

By MATT MICHAEL
Collegian Sports Writer

It looks as though it's "Wait 'til next year" time for the men's soccer team.

Penn State (10-8-1) initiated its youth movement yesterday and the result was a 2-1 loss at the hands of Lafayette College in Easton, Pa.

"We'll give some different people a chance to play," Head Coach Walter Bahr said following Penn State's 5-1 loss to Temple on Saturday. "We'll make a few changes and see what happens."

Senior co-captains Jeff Maierhofer and Pete Jobling were among the many familiar faces absent from Penn State's starting lineup yesterday. Although they lost for the sixth time in their last eight outings, Assistant Coach Mike Ditchfield was encouraged by the Lions' effort.

"We put a very young team in there to see what they could do in a game situation," Ditchfield said. "We learned that we have the nucleus of a very good team."

Maierhofer, Jobling and senior utility man Ray Ballantine are the only players who will not return next season.

"(This team) lacked experience and that can only come with time," Ditchfield said.

Sophomore utility man Larry Miller is one of the players Penn State will use as a foundation for its rebuilding program. His unassisted goal about eight minutes into yesterday's game gave Penn State a short-lived 1-0 lead.

The goal was Miller's seventh of the season, which ties him with Maierhofer for second on the team behind Bob Waizonger. He also leads the Lions with 19 total points.

Ditchfield said Penn State struggled a little bit following Miller's goal and Lafayette tied the game 12 minutes into the half. The goal was scored against junior goaltender Marko Bulatovic, who was starting his first game of the season in place of junior Greg Kenney.

"Marko did everything asked of him," Ditchfield said. "Their first score came off of a corner kick and the defense failed to clear the ball out of the goal mouth."

The Leopards scored the game-winning goal with about 12 minutes remaining in the game. Ditchfield said Penn State dominated the second half but failed to capitalize on numerous scoring opportunities.

"We created the chances but we just didn't finish them off," said Ditchfield, noting the Lions outshot Lafayette 22-12. "That is something we haven't done all year."

Penn State's inability to finish off its scoring opportunities is perhaps the major reason why Bahr has had to make so many lineup changes this season.

"I like to make only one or two changes a year," he said. "This year we had to make wholesale changes."

Bahr said he will continue to give different players an opportunity to show him what they can do during the winter and spring seasons.

Hagler, Duran engage in battle of stares

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Roberto Duran and Marcelino Hernandez glowered at and threatened one another yesterday at a news conference, while Sugar Ray Leonard watched.

"I am ready to fight right now if Mr. Marvin Hagler wants to fight in front of everybody here," said Duran through an interpreter.

Duran then shook a fist at Hagler, who was sitting on the dais to Duran's left. Hagler said something to Duran, while engaging him in a battle of stares.

Duran then approached the microphone again, looked at Hagler and said in English, "I promise, Thursday you're no more champion."

After being introduced, Hagler smiled broadly and said, "Two more days, I can't wait man... and I thought this man couldn't speak English."

Hagler will defend the undisputed middleweight championship tomorrow night at Caesar's Palace in a scheduled 15-round bout against Duran, the World Boxing Association junior middleweight titleholder.

Duran, who once held the lightweight and World Boxing Council welterweight titles, is hiding to become the first man to win four championships.

"There's no way I will underestimate Roberto Duran," said Hagler. "I'm ready in every way."

"I think it's going to be a good fight... ah, I love a good fight."

Before introducing the two principals, promoter Bob Arum introduced Leonard, the former undisputed welterweight and WBA junior middleweight champion. Leonard retired last year after he suffered a detached retina.

Arum introduced Leonard as a "man who really wants to fight the winner."

Before the news conference ended, Duran went to the microphone and, again in English, said, "No more fight, ain't that right Leonard?"

Both Duran and Hagler make no secret of their hopes that Leonard would come out of retirement to fight them, but Leonard has steadfastly maintained that he never will fight again.

Duran's desire for a Leonard match traces back to Nov. 25, 1980, when he badly tarnished his reputation by quitting in the eighth round and losing the WBC welterweight title back to Leonard, from whom he had won it on a decision five months earlier at Montreal.

"Duran's got a lot of pride, but there's a lot of pressure on him because of that thing that happened to him (the quitting against Leonard)," Hagler said to some reporters before the news conference. "It could be a bad thing because he might stand in there and take a beating."

"I'm positive I'm going to win," said the 29-year-old Hagler.

Murphy captures 2nd MVP award

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK — Dale Murphy of the Atlanta Braves captured his second consecutive National League Most Valuable Player award yesterday, winning in a landslide over Andre Dawson of the Montreal Expos.

Murphy, 27, became only the fourth player since the award was instituted in 1951 to be the NL MVP in consecutive years. Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs won the award in 1958 and '59; Joe Morgan of Cincinnati in 1975-76 and Mike Schmidt of Philadelphia in 1980-81.

Murphy received 21 of 24 first-place votes cast by a panel comprised of two members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America from each National League city. He wound up with 319 points as each panelist voted for 10 players.

Dawson got one first-place vote and 213 points, followed by Schmidt with 191 points and Pedro Guerrero of Los Angeles with 182. Schmidt and Guerrero also each received one first-place vote.

Murphy also had two second-place votes and one for fifth.

In winning the award, Murphy immediately became $100,000 richer. Three months after winning his first MVP, he signed a $1.5 million-per-year contract with Atlanta that promised him another $100,000 if he repeated as MVP.

Despite the big-money bonus, Murphy told The Associated Press on the telephone from his home, only moments after learning of the award, that he felt no pressure to repeat.

"In this game, if you're doing something right, you've got to do it every year," Murphy said.

In any case, he said, "I'm thrilled just as much as last year. I'm extremely honored and happy to share this award with all my teammates and coaches who've helped me. It's just a tremendous honor. I never thought of something like this happening."

Last year, Murphy won the award despite a season-ending slump as the Braves won the National League West Division. This year, with slugging third baseman Bob Horner out of the lineup, Murphy carried the club through September, although the Braves finished three games back of the Los Angeles Dodgers in NL West.

At season's end, Murphy had become only the fourth National League 30-30 man with 36 homers and 30 stolen bases. He batted .302 with a league-leading 121 RBI and 131 runs scored.

With Horner felled on Aug. 15 by a broken wrist, Murphy carried the club. As the league's player of the month in September, he hit .327 with 10 homers and 28 RBI.

"Even with Horner out of the lineup, I didn't feel any pressure," Murphy said. "I'm still going to get pitches to hit."

While he said he would like to cut down on his strikeouts, his biggest disappointment of 1983 was not making the playoffs again.

"Thinking back from the experience of last year, that's the biggest thrill anyone can experience," he said of the playoffs.

Pitt climbs back in poll Nebraska still on top

By The Associated Press

The University of Pittsburgh, which knocked off Notre Dame last Saturday, also succeeded in knocking the Fighting Irish out of The Associated Press College Football Poll yesterday.

Pitt's Panthers, 21-16 winners in South Bend, Ind., improved their record to 7-2 and returned to the Top Twenty for the first time in seven weeks, clinging to 20th place.

Notre Dame, absent from the list for four weeks before moving into a tie for 19th place two weeks ago and edging up one spot last week, fell back out of the rankings.

At the top of the chart, Nebraska, Texas, Auburn and Georgia retained the top four positions while Miami, fifth a week ago, and Illinois, formerly sixth, traded places.

Nebraska, an easy 72-29 winner over Iowa State, received 58 of 60 first-place votes and 1,198 of a possible 1,200 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and sportscasters.

Texas, which squeaked past Houston 9-3, got the two remaining first-place ballots and 1,140 points. Last week the Cornhuskers received 57 of 59 first-place votes and outpointed the Longhorns 1,178-1,123 in the balloting.

Auburn, receiving 1,063 points in the voting, held on to third place with a 35-23 victory over Maryland that dropped the Terrapins from seventh place to 11th while Georgia, a 10-9 winner over Florida, remained fourth with 999 points and dropped the Gators from ninth to 14th.

Illinois moved up to fifth with 975 points by virtue of its 59-23 pounding of Minnesota and Miami, following its 12-7 victory over East Carolina, slipped down one place to sixth with 951 points.

Southern Methodist, a 20-7 winner over Rice, rose from eighth to seventh, Michigan ripped Purdue 42-10 and moved up four places to ninth, and Ohio State crushed Indiana 56-17 and also rose four berths to 10th, replacing North Carolina, which dropped from 10th to 19th as a result of its 16-3 loss to Clemson.

Referees, NBA look to break deadlock

NEW YORK (AP) — The NBA and its locked-out referees, having made minor progress at its latest negotiating session, spent yesterday trying to come up with new ways to break the deadlock that has existed for more than two months.

No new talks were scheduled in the dispute, which is primarily over salaries and fringe benefits for the refs.

Richie Phillips, counsel for the Referees' Association, said after Monday's talks: "I don't feel we're close at all." Phillips also maintained that despite the new offers, the sides remain $80,000 apart. He said salary progress was made only at top scale.

The contract between the referees and the NBA expired Sept. 1 and substitutes hired by the league have been officiating both exhibition and regular-season games.

The two sides agreed Monday on increases in life insurance from $50,000 to $100,000 per man and in disability from $2,000 to $3,000 per month.
