

Netmen look to snap losing string

The men's tennis team (6-10) will try to end a five-match road losing streak this weekend when it visits Harvard tomorrow and Sunday and Yale on Monday.

Netwomen rout Bucknell

Wednesday's rain showers certainly didn't dampen the spirits of the women's tennis team. The Lady Lions raised their spring record to 2-1 by sweeping Bucknell 5-0.

The match, which was originally scheduled to be at Bucknell, was played indoors at the Penn State Tennis Club because of the rain.

Lady Lion Pam Trafford easily won the first singles match over Bucknell's Laura Kirschstein 6-1, 6-3. Trafford also paired up with Linda Leermann to win the first doubles competition 6-2, 6-2 over Kirschstein and Sylvia Gross.

Laxers hope to gain confidence

Lions face another top-ranked team in No. 7 Hofstra

By JEFF SAUKAITIS Collegian Sports Writer

All season long, Penn State Head Coach Glenn Thiel has said the men's lacrosse team possesses the talent to be successful, but it needs to have confidence when it takes on some of the national powers on its schedule.

The Lions began the most demanding stretch of their schedule with a 12-8 loss to highly-regarded Towson State Wednesday afternoon. Things will not get any easier for Penn State in the following weeks since its next three contests are against nationally-ranked teams.

Freshman midfielder Scott McKoon said the Towson State defeat may have temporarily hurt the team's confidence, but he hopes the Lions could get past games aside and just concentrate on the tougher games ahead.

"(The loss) is probably going to affect us a lot," McKoon said. "We practiced hard on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. We really wanted to win (Wednesday), we thought we could win. We're just going to have to work real hard, forget about what's behind us and keep plugging away against Hofstra."

Thiel said the Lions have played well against some weaker opponents this season, but they cannot gain enough confidence until they are consistent against tougher competition.

Baseball team may finally play

By MARK ASHENFELTER Collegian Sports Writer

Scheduling baseball games in early April is a lot like playing football in the summer — it just doesn't make sense.

Baseball coaches, however, are an optimistic group. They schedule games in the winter and hope that nature will cooperate enough to let their teams see some action before the season shifts into high gear. Some years this plan has worked, but 1984 isn't one of them.

After a seven-game swing through Texas the baseball team ran into disaster, managing to play a doubleheader against Navy before rain and snow postponed 12 straight games.

Penn State's leading scorer, attackman Gary Martin (14 goals, 17 assists), said he is most concerned about Hofstra's depth. He said the Lions will need to play solid for 60 minutes in order to beat Hofstra.

"It's going to take 100 percent from everyone, from the bench all the way down to the last guy," Martin said. "We know we can play with them, but we have to get over the hump and get the attitude that we could beat them. We're probably not as strong as a lot of these nationally-ranked teams because of their depth. We might go two-deep, and other teams can go three or four-deep."

Penn State has not been a model of consistency this year. But Thiel said, however, that a just a little luck the Lions will be ripe to get a big win under their belts tomorrow.

Softball team on the road again

The Lady Lions have never played the University of Virginia, Liberty Baptist, however, beat them in a game last year.

"I think that was due to the fact that the game was at 9:00 in the morning," Rankin said. "And we weren't ready to play."

Rankin said Liberty-Baptist is an "up-and-coming" team. Last year, it received Division II status and now it is considering making the move to Division I.

She said, however, this would not affect Lady Lions' preparation for the weekend.

"The caliber of the teams is so close whether they are Division I or Division II that you don't change the way you prepare," she said. "You go into each game ready to play."

Fultz said the Lady Lions should improve.

"This weekend I look for us to play even a little better than we did against West Chester," she said.

Pirates' cable station in trouble

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates' multi-million dollar pay-TV package may be in jeopardy because Home Sports Entertainment, which has a five-year contract to carry Pirates' games, is in danger of disbanding, a spokesman confirmed yesterday.

"It's really unfortunate when you get ready for a game and then it is pushed back," he said. "It's great when you know you are going to be playing and you can get ready for the game. Now you almost have to start over like it's the beginning of the season."

"We got prepared before the Texas trip and then we had to get ready to start the season up here and we only got two games in. Now we have to start all over again before we play our next game."

The pitchers, on the other hand, are able to throw inside, which allows them to stay sharp. The biggest problem they face is the mental aspect of preparing to face a certain team on a certain day and then wake up to find its raining outside.

"You try to save yourself for the game and when you don't know when you're going to pitch again, it can put a strain on your arm," said sophomore hurler Eric Hohn. "You have to stay ready or you might want to get out from too much throwing indoors."

Stoner is also worried about the effects that the break will have on his team. He said his list of disappointed season will make things easier for some of the weaker teams his club is scheduled to face.

"The biggest danger we face is that a break like this can neutralize teams," Stoner said. "Weather like this can take a good team and make it average."
