

collegian notes

- The Mathematics Department will announce the winners of the Annual I.M. Scheffer Prize Exam at 3 today in 212 McAllister Building.
- The Geosciences Club will present Professor Emeritus W.O. Williams speaking on the geology of Egypt and the Pyramids at 7:30 tonight in 541 Deike Building.
- The PSU Fencing Club will meet at 7 tonight in 33 White Building. Lessons will be given until 8.
- Penn State Students for Life will meet and hold elections at 7 tonight in 318 HUB.
- The Free University will hold a satisfying vegetarian cooking course at 6 tonight in 389 Willard.
- Alpha Phi Omega and Gamma Sigma Sigma will hold registration for a bloodmobile from 10 to 4 today on the HUB groundfloor.
- The College of Science Student Council will meet to elect officers and organize the banquet at 7:30 tonight in 307 Boucke.
- Al-Anon will meet at 7 tonight in 135 Boucke.
- Women in Agriculture will present speaker Denise Chase at 7:30 tonight in 301 Agricultural Administration Building.
- Energetics will hold an energetic exercise hour at 5:30 tonight in the Assembly Room of the Walnut Building.
- Paul Antolosky, Centre County waterways patrolman, will present a free fishing school on the fundamentals of fishing at 7 tonight at the State College Intermediate High School.
- The Penn State Science Fiction Society will meet at 7:05 tonight in 217 Boucke.
- The Association for Barrier-free Living, Environment and Design will meet to nominate next year's officers at 7:30 tonight in 205 Boucke.
- The Association of Residence Halls Students will meet at 6:30 tonight in 225 HUB.
- Alpha Lambda Delta Freshman Honor Society will initiate its 291 new members at 7:30 tonight in 301 HUB.

police log

- An 18-year-old State College man suffered minor injuries Saturday as the motorcycle he was driving collided with a car driven by a University student, the State College Police Department reported. Jeffrey Rachael, 451 Brezewood Drive, was struck by a car driven by Julie Ann Papalia (senior-speech communication), 128 S. Barnard St., as she was backing her car from a driveway at 826 W. Beaver Ave. Rachael was transported by ambulance to Centre Community Hospital, where he was treated and released, a hospital spokeswoman said. Damages to Papalia's car were estimated at $50 and damages to Rachael's motorcycle were estimated at $100, police said.
- Monique L. Marshall (freshman-science), 114 Tener Hall, told University Police Services Sunday her purse and its contents were missing from the sixth level stacks of Patee. Loss is estimated at $138, police said.
- Andrew J. Burgess (sophomore-advertising), 236 Beam Hall, told University police Sunday the rear wheel of a bicycle was missing from bike racks on the north side of Beam Hall. The wheel is valued at $50, police said.
- David M. Corwin (graduate-business administration), 207 McKee Hall, told University police Sunday he backed his vehicle into a concrete flower planter at the west end of lot Brown F. The value of the flower pot was unknown, police said.
- Barry F. Frank (sophomore-science), 710 Sprout Hall, told University police Sunday three shirts were missing from the laundry area of Sprout Hall. The shirts are valued at $50, police said. —by Leslie Thomas

Phi Psi 500 citations issued

By LESLIE THOMAS
Collegian Staff Writer

This year's Phi Psi 500 festivities resulted in a significantly higher number of citations issued to individuals than in past years, according to figures released by the State College Police Department.

Police Chief Elwood G. Williams Jr., said about 40 citations were issued Saturday to individuals during the event sponsored by the Phi Kappa Psi fraternity, 403 Locust Lane. Citations were issued for underage drinking, disorderly conduct and criminal mischief, he said.

"The increase, he added, was not the fault of the fraternity. "They have no control over the crowd, and many things went smoother as far as the run itself than in past years," he said.

The Phi Psi 500 committee put an additional emphasis on getting the runners into and out of the bars, without giving them a chance to settle down in one place for an extended period of time, Williams said.

He said the police department had not changed any enforcement tactics for this year's race and the same number of officers were patrolling the area as last year.

"I haven't been able to put my finger on the cause of the problems," Williams said. "I don't know if the crowd as a whole was any more belligerent than in previous years."

Williams speculated that the cold weather may have been part of the problem, because people were moving around more, trying to stay warm. He added that he was amazed that the crowd was as large as it was considering the adverse weather.

"The crowd was relatively well-behaved, considering there were 10 or 15,000 people along the route," he added.

No misdemeanor citations were issued during the event, but Williams said he will not know what major problems occurred until police reports are complete.

Bond issue will answer to the voters

By BEVERLY IVENS
Collegian Staff Writer

The main track, which would accommodate private businesses opening new facilities.

Also tentatively included are $20 million for encouragement of small business programs development through incubator center programs and a $15 million program to provide jobs for unemployed youths.

Vocational-technical schools and community colleges could receive $27 million to modernize equipment and the 15 state universities could receive funding to update engineering facilities.

The question which will appear on the ballot is:

Do you favor incurring indebtedness by the Commonwealth of $190,000,000 to promote economic redevelopment throughout Pennsylvania through job producing programs; grants and loans for industrial degree-granting schools; acquisition of equipment for vocational programs in secondary schools; community colleges and engineering degree-granting schools; agricultural development; and the acquisition, rehabilitation or development of facilities for community services and public services and public recreation purposes subject to implementation by law?

sports

Gault case challenging amateur profit picture

By NORM CLARKE
AP Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES — If an anti-trust suit filed by Willie Gault, the world-class sprinter who signed with the NFL, is successful, it would "redefine the profit picture of amateur sports" and open the Olympics to professionals, Gault's attorney said yesterday.

Everett Glenn said the suit, filed last Friday in Los Angeles Federal Court, is "analogous to the Curt Flood, Spencer Haywood and Bob Borris cases."

"We are arguing that the athletes are the game," Glenn told The Associated Press in a telephone interview from his Oakland office. "World-class athletes like Curt Lewis, Mary Decker, and Alberto Salazar would get a share of what they bring to the sport."

Gault, who started 18 games at wide receiver after signing with the Chicago Bears last summer following the World Track and Field Championships in Helsinki, is suing the International Olympic Committee, the International Amateur Athletic Federation and the Olympic Congress for the right to compete in the Los Angeles Summer Games.

Glenn said federal and state antitrust laws prohibit monopolies and group boycotts. The lawsuit alleges that amateur sports is "a business for profit. We are alleging the IOC, IAAF and IATC have a monopoly over track and field. And we are alleging these three organizations have conspired to boycott Mr. Gault and others similarly situated," he said.

Gault "had resigned himself to never competing as an amateur again until all these inconsistent tendencies in the interpretation of the rules dropped up," Glenn said.

He was referring to the IOC's inconsistent application of Rule 26 of the Olympic charter. As ruling body of the Olympics, the IOC decided during the Winter Games in Sarajevo that hockey players who signed with the NHL and had played at least one game in the NHL were ineligible for Olympic competition. Players who had competed or signed with other professional hockey leagues were not barred.

Under international amateur rules, prize money and payments for advertising have to go to the athlete's national federation and be held in trust.

Glenn also cited the manner in which the IOC stretches its eligibility rules for top skiers.

"We obtained a declaration from Steve Mahre that he carried over $400,000 in one year while competing as an amateur and over $600,000 another year," Glenn said.

"In his opinion, the trust fund was ridiculous because it was just a bookkeeping entry. He received a check for $20,000 and they immediately cut him a check for $20,000."

After the 1968 Mexico City Olympics, United States basketball star Haywood successfully sued the NBA over its rule against drafting underclassmen.

In another landmark case, Flood won a restraint of trade lawsuit against major league baseball, a ruling that did away with the sport's reserve clause binding a player to a team until he was sold, traded or released.

Earlier this year, a federal judge in Los Angeles ruled in favor of Boris, a punter from the University of Arizona who argued that the United States Football League's rule against drafting underclassmen violated antitrust laws "in that it was a group boycott against underclassmen," Glenn said.

Lions pound Duquense, 13-8

By MARK ASHENFELTER
Collegian Sports Writer

The members of the baseball team must have thought they were dreaming when they woke up to see the sun shining yesterday morning.

After all, they were scheduled to make their sixth attempt at playing their home opener — a simple formality that had previously been greeted by rain or snow.

The Lions, however, weren't about to let the opportunity of playing in front of the home fans pass them by quietly, jumping all over Duquense starter Dave Kiluff for eight runs in the first two innings on their way to a 13-8 decision.

The win evened the squad's record at 7-7 and increased their Atlantic 10 Conference record to 3-1. Penn State has won four of its last five games and will be looking to post two more victories when it finishes up its series against the Dukes with a 1 p.m. twinbill at Beaver Field.

Coming off of a 13-6 pounding of George Washington on Sunday, the Lions were hoping to continue their offensive tear and they did just that, stroking 18 hits on the afternoon.

Over the course of the last four innings, the squad has tallied 53 hits on its way to 36 runs.

Duquense scored quickly in the first as Eric Werner touched starting pitcher Kevin Ferringer for a two-run homer. From that point on however, it was all Penn State as the bats roared to life with a vengeance. The Lions bunched three singles to even the score after one and then simply overwhelmed Kiluff, tallying four line singles and two errors to hand Ferringer an 8-2 lead going into the third.

Despite not having pitched since the team's swing through Texas close to a month ago, Ferringer, who was also hampered with a sore adjustment to be outside. I'd gotten used to throwing inside with the cages and it takes a little time to adjust."

Lion First Baseman Perry Napolitano (right) jumps high attempting to pull in an errant throw as a Duquense batter reaches first safely. Despite the error, the baseball team went on to defeat the Dukes 13-8 yesterday at Beaver Field.

The Lions added a single run in the fifth and added two more in both the sixth and eighth innings to finish off the scoring.

Ed Washell opened the sixth with a shot over the fence in right and Wes Olsen picked up two of his three RBIs with a double in the eighth.

Another Lion who remains red-hot is senior first baseman Randy Simcox, who added two more hits this afternoon.

"After a double in his last trip to the plate against Navy on March 24, Simcox, in his next 11 trips, connected on eight consecutive hits as well as walking three times and being hit by a pitch. His streak of reaching base was finally snapped at 12 after a strikeout against George Washington Sunday afternoon.

"I've never done anything like that before," Simcox said of his streak. "I'm just real relaxed and confident at the plate. I'm seeing the ball real well and the more I hit the ball the more my confidence improves."

Despite the final score Head Coach Shorty Stoner said the team has room for improvement. He was concerned that although Ferringer picked up the win he could have thrown a better game.

"I'm a little concerned that they were able to score seven runs off of him," Stoner said. "I was worried about his ankle but the bats gave us some room to breathe with. He said that his arm felt good so we could afford to let him continue."

"You have to give them (Duquense) credit for staying in the game and hitting the ball," the Lion coach said. "Their catcher (Werner) hit the ball a ton today."

Stoner went with Ferringer to work out his proven pitchers because "if I rest them to let others pitch then my proven pitchers will be rusty when I need them."

Stoner plans to give everybody a chance once the schedule becomes full and the team is playing daily to get in the games that had been postponed.

"We've been so close to having a blowout these last two games, but just when it looks like we might do it the other team has been scoring to make it close," he said. "Since these are conference games I've been very conservative with my substitutions. I'm only changing people if I think it will make us a stronger club."

Stoner was very pleased with the offensive output of the Rangers that night. "I'm not sure how good they are going to be a hard team to beat."

AUSTRALIAN THEATRE FESTIVAL II

WILLIAMSON²
— Two plays by David Williamson
— One of Australia's Leading Playwrights
— Author of the Screenplay for "Gallipoli"

"THE REMOVALISTS"
A Blue-Comedy Comedy
Previous: Wednesday/March 29 (8:15)
Thu/March 29 Fri/March 30
Sat/March 31 Sun/April 1

"THE PERFECTIONIST"
A Drama of Modern Marriage
Wednesday/April 11 (8:15)
Thu/April 12 Fri/April 13
Sat/April 14 Sun/April 15

KELLER CONFERENCE CENTER THEATRE
(near the Nittany Lion Inn, Alport Park Ave.) Call: 865-7557

TICKETS AT THE DOOR
Students $2.00
Patrons $3.00

CURTAIN TIME 8:00 PM

Sponsored by
Australian Studies Center
Pennsylvania State University

AVOID EXTINCTION: READ THE COLLEGIAN

NEW MORNING CAFE
Presents:

Mexican Fiesta
April 11th and 12th
Ensalada de Noche Buena
Pescado Vera Cruz en papillote with peppers, tomatoes, onions, olives & capers

Julienned sweet potatoes with tequila & lime

Churros
Mexican pastry

In addition to Our Regular Dinner Menu
Wed. & Thurs. Evening
5 p.m. to 9 p.m.
131 W. Beaver Ave.
no smoking restaurant

CUSTOM CAPS

TTKO Penn State YOUR LOGO

HAVE IT YOUR WAY FOR ONLY $3.99 ea.
Silk-screened baseball caps with your logo, design, or lettering.

- Minimum 10 caps
- Printed in-house
- Quick turnaround
- Price includes screen set-up for 1 color
- Price is good through April 30th

LIONS PRIDE
112 E. COLLEGE AVE.
234-2153
DOWNTOWN STATE COLLEGE

The Fishmarket
Pet Emporium

8110 N. AETHERTON ST. STATE COLLEGE, PA. 16800

FEATURING SMALL ANIMALS & BIRDS FOR EASTER!

PARAKEETS: $10.99 GUINEA PIG: FROM $6.99
HAMSTERS: $3.99 COCKATIELS: FROM $7.00

With this coupon
RECEIVE 25% OFF THE PRICE OF A NEW OR BIRTHDAY BIRTHDAY PRESENT OF A HAMSTER, GUINEA PIG, PARAKEET OR COCKATIEL. VALID APRIL 10-15

We Care About Your Pet!

OUR ONCE-A-YEAR DIAMOND SALE

1

Just once a year, Crabtree's, State College's prestige jeweler, offers a diamond sale — a true sale, not an adjustment of prices. Diamond rings, earrings, pendants, bracelets reduced 30% through April. No gimmicks, just an honest sale with the kind of real savings Crabtree's customers look forward to.

OVER 70 YEARS OF FINE SERVICE

CRABTREE'S JEWELERS
One Main St. 830-5000
One Three Two South Allen Street

gj JEWELERS
117-141
Member American Gem Society

women's studies
AT THE PENNSYLVANIA STATE UNIVERSITY

Fall Semester 1984 Course Offerings

Women's Studies 200
Introduction to Women's Studies
T-Th 11:15-12:30 P 203 Sackett S. Chapman
NOTE: Class time has been changed from Fall Semester. This is a 150-level course.
Women's Studies 200 will meet Tuesdays 6 Thursdays 11:15-12:30 P.M.

Women's Studies 496
Independent Studies
204 HUB S. Chapman

Administration of Justice 497E
Women and the Criminal Justice System
T-Th 11:15-12:30 P 205 S Hum. Dev. L. Goodstein

English 194
A Century of Women Writers
M-W-F 1:25-2:15 P 206 Chambers A. Rodgers

History 117
Women in Modern History
T-Th 2:30-3:45 P 206 Chambers G. Cross

Journalism 250
Women, Minorities, and the Media
T-Th 1:00-2:15 P 351 Willard To Be Announced

Nursing 497E/Women's Studies 497A
Women's Health Issues
Thurs. 2:30-5:30 P 205 S Hum. Dev. To Be Announced

Psychology 471
Psychology of Women
T-Th 9:45-11:00 A 321 Boucke T. Abbey

Sociology 30
Sociology of the Family
M-W-F 10:10-11:00 A 362 Willard E. Snyder

Sociology 110
The Sociology of Sex Roles
T-Th 1:00-2:25 P 256 Willard M. Johnson

Speech Communication 455
Gender Roles in Communication
T-Th 9:45-11:00 A 206 Chambers G. Phillips

For further information concerning course offerings or the Women's Studies Minor, contact:
204 Hazel Union Building 814-865-4025
Dr. Sabrina Chapman, Coordinator of Women's Studies Program/Center
*Satisfies University Baccalaureate Degree Requirement in Social and Behavioral Sciences
Satisfies University Baccalaureate Degree Requirement in Humanities

Sixers' Cheeks injured

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia 76ers' Maurice Cheeks has tendonitis in the right knee and will miss at least the next two games, the NBA team announced yesterday.

A 76ers' spokesman said Cheeks, the team's playmaking guard, would not play at New Jersey today or against Detroit here tomorrow.

Cheeks' knee will be re-evaluated Thursday to determine if he can see weekend action against the New York Knicks on Saturday and Chicago Bulls on Sunday.

Cheeks first felt a problem with the knee March 31, and missed three games. He returned last week against Indiana, but was forced to leave the game Sunday when a doctor told him he had a torn ligament in the knee.

Coach Billy Cunningham said after Sunday's game he was concerned about Cheeks' knee, especially with the playoffs little more than a week away. Cheeks is the 76ers' leader in assists and triggers their set offense.

Soviet Union attacks Summer Games

By ANDREW ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW — The Soviet Union yesterday requested an emergency meeting of the International Olympic Committee to consider charges of United States violations of the Olympic charter and indicated it still has not decided whether to attend the Los Angeles Summer Games.

In a statement distributed by Tass, the official Soviet news agency, the Soviet Olympic Committee charged that the 1984 Games are badly organized; claimed that American groups were mounting a "large-scale" anti-Soviet campaign backed by the government, and demanded that the Reagan administration take steps to prevent protests during the Games.

The Soviets also complained about the State Department's refusal to grant a visa to a Soviet Olympic attaché and charged that U.S. visa requirements discriminated against the Soviet Union.

The statement warned that this "jeopardized" the agreement between the Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee and the Soviet Olympic Committee. It stopped short, however, of making any direct threat to boycott the Games, which begin July 28 and run until Aug. 12.

In another development yesterday, Pak Mu Sung, chairman of North Korea's delegation, walked out of talks aimed at fielding a joint North and South Korean Olympic team. He said he wouldn't continue negotiations on the joint team until South Korea retracted charges that North Korea was responsible for a bombing attack on South Koreans in Burma last October and an alleged 1978 kidnapping of two South Korean film stars from Hong Kong to North Korea.

On the Soviet matter, Juan Antonio Samaranch, president of the International Olympic Committee, declined immediate comment on the request for an emergency meeting. "Up to now, I have seen only news dispatches reporting the request," he said.

Samaranch noted that a regular executive committee meeting was scheduled at Lausanne, Switzerland, May 28, and said that "theoretically," an emergency meeting could be convened before then.

"From our viewpoint, we abhor any political intrusion into the games," said F. Don Miller, chairman of the U.S. Olympic Committee. "The Games are now rapidly coming upon us. It is in everyone's best interests in the Olympic movement to have the Soviet Union and the other countries participate in those games."

"Right at the very beginning we recognized that from time to time they (the Soviets) would have various items on the games to talk about, and not necessarily in a most favorable manner. We feel we must constantly be aware of these and do whatever is required to maintain the ideals of the Olympic movement and stay within the Olympic Charter."

A U.S. Embassy spokesman in Moscow said the United States was working to expedite arrangements for Soviet Olympic delegation members and that Soviet participants would be treated "exactly like all countries throughout the world."

In Washington, deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said, "We were surprised by the Soviet Olympic Committee making such accusations."

Isles gain momentum, face Rangers tonight

By DAVE GOLDBERG
AP Sports Writer

The New York Islanders, just 20 minutes away from an early end to their quest for a fifth straight NHL championship, suddenly seem to have all the advantages in their opening-round playoff series with the New York Rangers.

But don't tell the Rangers that. The team from Long Island, trailing 2-1 in the series with their arch-rivals from the big city and behind 1-0 entering the third period, erupted Sunday night for four goals to beat the Rangers 4-1 and keep alive what they call their "drive for five."

That put the Islanders, seeking to tie the Montreal's 1956-60 record of five straight Stanley Cups, into a fifth and deciding game on home ice at the Nassau Coliseum tonight. The home ice advantage is compounded by the fact that the Islanders will be playing without star defenseman Tom Laidlaw. "Somebody else will just have to step in and do the job."

The Rangers, one of hockey's deeper teams, are not without their someone else. The most likely candidate to replace Beck are Ron Greschner and Dave Maloney, two longtime regulars who have been benched during the series.

In Minnesota, the Black Hawks will be trying to knock out the North Stars for their third straight season.

"It's down to one game, winner take all," says Chicago goalie Murray Bannerman. "In a situation like this I don't think there's a home-ice advantage."

Soviet Union attacks Summer Games

By ANDREW ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW — The Soviet Union yesterday requested an emergency meeting of the International Olympic Committee to consider charges of United States violations of the Olympic charter and indicated it still has not decided whether to attend the Los Angeles Summer Games.

In a statement distributed by Tass, the official Soviet news agency, the Soviet Olympic Committee charged that the 1984 Games are badly organized; claimed that American groups were mounting a "large-scale" anti-Soviet campaign backed by the government, and demanded that the Reagan administration take steps to prevent protests during the Games.

The Soviets also complained about the State Department's refusal to grant a visa to a Soviet Olympic attaché and charged that U.S. visa requirements discriminated against the Soviet Union.

The statement warned that this "jeopardized" the agreement between the Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee and the Soviet Olympic Committee. It stopped short, however, of making any direct threat to boycott the Games, which begin July 28 and run until Aug. 12.

In another development yesterday, Pak Mu Sung, chairman of North Korea's delegation, walked out of talks aimed at fielding a joint North and South Korean Olympic team. He said he wouldn't continue negotiations on the joint team until South Korea retracted charges that North Korea was responsible for a bombing attack on South Koreans in Burma last October and an alleged 1978 kidnapping of two South Korean film stars from Hong Kong to North Korea.

On the Soviet matter, Juan Antonio Samaranch, president of the International Olympic Committee, declined immediate comment on the request for an emergency meeting. "Up to now, I have seen only news dispatches reporting the request," he said.

Samaranch noted that a regular executive committee meeting was scheduled at Lausanne, Switzerland, May 28, and said that "theoretically," an emergency meeting could be convened before then.

Peter Uebroth, president of the Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee, makes a statement in a news conference yesterday concerning allegations from the Soviet Union that U.S. athletes have violated the Olympic Charter.