opinions.

editorial opinion

A time for action

believe that vandalism is just a problem for "Both fraternities and homes in the area Watch program.

est is just the sort of buck-passing that will Delie and the IFC should be commended persist.

six community concerns. This concern is most active. would seem to be well-founded — incidents 1980 when a year-long campaign against that burdens us all. vandalism ended.

a program to encourage awareness of the sponsibility of a leasee. problem and discourage vandalism.

The group, which consists of student, their neighbors' properties and keep closer — possibly through advising or pamphlets. contact with police to fight vandalism.

But whether the program is successful depends largely on the participation of college-age residents, who represent 70 percent of the State College population.

So far, the signs have been encouraging. The Interfraternity Council is already forming a "Fraternity Crime Watch Program" set to begin operations next week. Members from each downtown fraternity will patrol the area Wednesday and Thurs- other reason than our own self-interest.

Students and other area residents who day nights as well as during weekends.

RING © 1986 Collegian Inc

reader opinion

Constructive measures

measure to reduce racial bigotry.

under Hitler's regime

New light

may be time for somebody to come to his defense.

The ultimate goal of the divestment policy is to isolate

South Africa economically. Nazi Germany was quite well solated in the 1930s and 1940s, and it was exactly this solation which allowed the Nazis to rally the people

behind a ridiculous regime, against the whole world

conceived by the common citizen as the common enemy.

violently do racial tensions flare up. So if you want to foster and worsen racial tensions in South Africa, eliminate jobs and throw the country into a permanent eco-

I prefer to side with President Jordan's support for Daily Collegian. and I would like to repudiate some of mine.

Gert Aron, civil engineering professor constructive measures like the Sullivan Principles.

nomic depression, vote for divestment

The worse the economy in a country is, the more

those unfortunate enough to be living near had experienced a lot of vandalism recentfraternities are likely to find little to be ly," IFC Community Relations Chairman interested about in State College's Crime Vinnie Delie said. "The IFC felt that it should take the initiative and decided to And that's a shame, because this disinter- take some direct action against it."

allow the problems created by vandalism to for taking the initiative to help alleviate the problem. However, the IFC has attacked Vandalism was listed in last year's Resi- only the most obvious times when vandaldential Improvement Study as one of the top ism incidents occur - nights when the area

The challenge remaining is to convince of vandalism have increased annually since other students that vandalism is a problem

Every student who rents an apartment In the face of this increase, the Anti- should realize that vandalism is a potential-Vandalism Committee has been developing ly expensive and often not understood re-

In addition, the Organization for Town Independent Students should help make citizen and business organizations, will ask students aware they are responsible for State College residents to keep an eye on damages incurred as a result of vandalism

> Every State College resident should also be encouraged to join in the fight against vandalism.

But whatever is done, it is clear that awareness and the participation of all groups within the community — students included — is the key to combatting the problem.

The time has come to take action, if for no

William G. Landis Jr. Business Manager

The Daily Collegian's editorial opinion is determined by its Board of Opnion, with the editor holding final tors: Chris Raymond, Carol D. Rath. responsibility. Opinions expressed on the editorial pages are not necessarily those of The Daily Collegian, Collegian Inc. or The Pennsvivania State University. Collegian Inc., publishers of The Daily Collegian and related publications, is a separate corporate institution from Penn State.

tor: Doug Popovich; Assistant Accounting Manager: Lori A. Spos-Opinion Editor: Alan J. Craver; sey; Office Manager: Gretchen A. News Editors: Ron Yeany, Bob King, Patrick Collier; Copy/Wire Editors: Anita Yesho, Sue Graffius, Lori Goldbach, Tim Eyster, Denise Weav- Manager: Michael Kutch; Layout er; Town Editor: Phil Galewitz; As- Coordinator: Nancy George; Marketsistant Town Editor: Lori Heller; Campus Editor: Amy Fellin; Assistant Campus Editor: Celeste Mc Cauley; Sports Editor: Mark Ashenfelter: Assistant Sports Edi-Doug Frank: Arts Editor: Pat Grandiean: Assistant Arts Editor: Victoria Jaffe: Features Editor: Kris Sorchilla; Science Editor: Nan Crystal Arens; Business Editor: Rich Douma; Graphics Editor: Tony Ciccarelli; Photo Editor: Gregg Zelkin; Assistant Photo Editors: Jeff Bustraan, Cristy Rickard.

Funk; Assistant Office Manager: Aileen M. Stickley; Sales Manager Susan Shamlian; Assistant Sales ing Coordinator: Cathy Jones.

Complaints: News and editorial complaints should be presented to the editor. Business and advertising complaints should be presented to the business manager. If a complaint is not satisfactorily resolved grievances may be filed with the Accuracy and Fair Play Committee of Collegian Inc. Information on filing grievances is available from Gerry Lynn Hamilton, executive secretary, Collegian Inc.

BSCAR fights for divestment

open its opinion-editorial page to reader opinion con- percent cerning the formation of the Black Student Coalition Against Racism BSCAR, comprised of 13 black University organizations, formed in reaction to the University Board of page, double-spaced) or forums (up to three typed Trustee's vote not to divest University holdings in pages, double-spaced) in the Collegian office in 126 companies operating in South Africa. BSCAR pledged Carnegie Building. Deadline for any letters or forums to oppose minority recruitment efforts until the trust- is Friday, Feb. 14 at 5 p.m. ees reverse their decision.

The University is required by a court mandate to thor's phone number, semester standing and academic ncrease its black student enrollment figures to 5 major or University position.

Going home:

may have hit some people over Thanksgiving break, but I suppose I was too caught up in the raw excitement of parades, football games and real stuffing to notice it then.

On Monday, Feb. 17, 1986, The Daily Collegian will percent by 1987. The figure currently stands at 3.7 Students, faculty and other members of the University community are invited to react to BSCAR's plan. Authors must present letters-to-the-editor (one typed

All submissions should be signed, include the au game before. I was good at it.

"How was your chem exam?"

nearly two and a half hours. Next time I plan on packing light and taking the bus. Or home, we were basically in command of our walking. Or crawling. Anything to avoid those questions > the brain of a slow 12-year-old. I guess I shouldn't really complain be-think for myself. "I think you should take some medicine for that cold.

"Get a good night's sleep, you have a big day ahead of you tomorrow Dad may have been just a little bit trying with his questions, but Mom surpassed him packed the car and headed for State Col- gruesome grilling. I began to feel like I was with flying colors when it came to 'helpful dard speech that I shouldn't worry myself in secondary education and a columnist for front door chanting "Idonwannago" repeat- objective was to answer an endless amount In a time span of 24 hours, she told me I did not think this was a good time to really grateful that she gave me some truly added. "Remember, 3.9 is fine!" useful reminders on food preparation because I probably would have forgotten and

I tried to ignore it for the first few days, but eventually the "button your coat's" and the "drink your milk's" became hard to ignore. I finally lost it while out driving with my mother one day around the city I had only lived in for the last fourteen years and listening to her drop helpful driving tips ("stop the car when the light is red"), her last "turn left here" did There's a brick wall to my right. And there's nowhere else to turn. Mom, I'm in college now. That's C-O-L-L-E-G-E." Unfortunately, my mini refresher course had little to no effect on her as she continued to share bits of obvious information with me up until the day I left. By the new year, I was more than ready to the scratch marks on the inside of our front Before I left, my dad gave me his stan-apartheid; neither is a vote for divestment a rational racist government in South Africa? I think not.

overly fat pocketbooks!

college student faces when leaving home for breakfast and doing a dozen other things the first time. Leaving parents, family, friends, pets and especially the car can be an emotionally painful ordeal. But the frightening experience of the first time away from home is nothing compared to the mental shock that awaits the student returning home for the first time. and I'm sure many cried the first time we way home. Two hundred grueling miles of lege. Confess it now, how many clung to the on some sort of game show where the main advice.

family car? Okay, so maybe it was just me. But we were all filled with all kinds of fears the day we moved out, ranging from the fear of "O.K. No, it was that first long break away from having to use a campus map for the rest of school that did it for me. Over Christmas our natural lives to anxiety stemming from > ble for doing our own laundry and probably wouldn't see clean cluthes again. It may have been difficult adjusting to college life at first, but gradually the realization hit that now that we were no longer own lives. We were becoming independent and we liked it. Remember the joy of newfound freedom away from screaming siblings and prying parents; staying out all night, cutting classes for days on end, playing the stereo. at decibel levels only dreamed of when still Now everyone talks about the trauma a at home, eating cold pizza and Pepsi for our parents were likely to drop dead if aware of? At last we were really living! What a shock it was to our newly liberated egos to go home and be subjected to the tyrannies of familyhood! It started on the car ride home when Dad and I played our ritual game of 20,000 Sure, the majority of us really love home Questions. He asked. I answered. All the

I guess those few weekends home were edly until shot with a tranquilizer gun, tied of questions with as few words as possible so nine times to be careful because there was inform him that I spent finals week playing too short and too hectic to notice much. It up and secured to the luggage rack of the as to frustrate the interrogator thus causing ice on the sidewalk. She would call me from cards with my roomies. I just nodded my the realization that we were now responsi-

"I mean that it was O.K." "I did O.K." "How is O.K.?"

"What do you mean by O.K.?" "Well, do you think that you did well?"

"Alright, you know Dad." And so on, for

When I finally arrived home, for reasons unknown I expected that I would be treated differently now that I was a big-time college me in. I brought the car to a halt, looked her woman. Oh where did I conceive such an in the eye and carefully explained,"Look, asinine idea? Things were different. My Mom. There's a building in front of me. parents now treated me as if I suddenly had cause not once over vacation did I have to

"Drive carefully and wear a seat belt."

doo

him to ask more questions. I had played the work to see if I remembered to get up. I was head gravely as my comedian of a mother served the darn spaghetti dry had she not reminded me to boil it first.

After she had been giving me directions

go back to dear old State as evidenced by

12 The Daily Collegian Friday, Feb. 7, 1986

opinions

FREE Creamy Rice Pudding 1/2 Price Litre Coke or

Exp. 2-28-86 Cut & save

with any whole "Joann's

Veggie Combo"

Diet Coke with any 2

whole Heros.

Colonial Americans to have used violence in their fight for freedom against Britain? The University Board of Trustees' decision not to divest has nothing to do with morality or student opinion. Instead they merely want to make money (a fiduciary responsibility). Moreover, the current fundraising drive by the University would be hampered if we divest. What company involved in South Africa would donate money to I was very disturbed when I read the statements made Penn State after we have divested from them? The by Schumann and Sestito in the Jan. 30 edition of The trustees are not "in tune with student opinion," your's or

Michael S. Protevi, senior-French

Those visits with the parents who remind you to wake up in the morning and give you gifts of Dog Halt

At this time, my dad presented me with a small going away gift - a can of dog repellant that postal workers use when threatened with canine attackers. Not your standard going away present, I agree, but I have a job on campus and my parents, being the parents they are, worry about me walking home late at night. So let that be a warning to all those who stalk the neighborhood at night in search for innocent victims. I am armed and dangerous and can be identified by a small birthmark on the right side of my neck and a can of DOG HALT in my left hand.

I still found myself getting all misty eyed when it came time to say goodbye. As much as Mom and Dad seem to bother me at times, I know it's just because they miss me and I find myself missing them just as

So, here I am back in the dorm again contemplating whether I should do some studying or make some marshmallow krispies. I'm sure the krispies will win in the

It's good to be back.

Cheri Monaghan is a freshman majoring over grades as long as I was doing my best. The Daily Collegian. Her column appears every other Friday

LOOK WHAT'S IN IT FOR YOU Flexibility. When you take courses through Penn State's Department of Independent Learning, you choose the pace and the place. Selection. More than 190 credit courses, including many baccalaureate degree requirements, are offered.

Convenience. You can register at any time for an Independent Learning course.

Cup of Homemade

& Beverage (Hot or Cold)

$3.72

V 1855 121 121 121 121 121 121 121 121 121

Soup, 1/2 Hero Sandwich

Exp. 2-28-86

FREE - Bob's "World

Famous Chili' with any

Whole Hero

Exp. 2-28-86

If flexibility, selection, and convenience are what you're looking for, stop by the Independent Learning office at 128 Mitchell Building and pick up a free catalog with course descriptions and costs, or call

865-5403 University Park campus or toll free 1-800-252-3592

anywhere in Pennsylvania

The Daily Collegian Friday, Feb. 7, 1986-13

bowling shirt, and Tide got them out. (Chip the sheaves, we shall come rejoicing . . . Chip: Screw subtlety. Try accepting the Harry: Chip! I'll do anything you want! Chip: Okay. Swear on this. As an imperfect human who often swipes my jockey One day, you and I will go home to heaven. shorts, you will realize that life is a mys-Together. Oh, what a day that will be. I tery, and to go around telling everyone they're going to hell sounds foolish and crude, especially coming from the mouth of Chip: Man, I got to get my GPA up. Hey 20-year-old kid. Harry: No! Never! Chip: (singing and shaking Harry's legs) Kumbah Yah, my Lord! Kumbah Yah . . . Harry: Wait! I swear! I swear! And you Chip: Deal! (Chip pulls Harry back into the room and laughs uproariously. Harry slams his Bible Chip: Don't sweat it, Harry! You'll go shut, kicks some beer bottles and paces the Harry: God will get you for this, Chip! I don't know when, I don't know where. When you least expect it, expect it. (Chip swigs from a bottle of Cherry Kiafa. me that the whole point of your life is to go He burps the words, "Sure thing, Harry." and I let you go, I can help you get there. him grinning.) William S. Repsher is a senior majoring in English and a colmnist for The Daily Collegian. His column appears every Fri-$20°° off when you purchase a complete pair of prescription eyeglasses Offer expires 2/15/86 WISE EVES Mon.-Fri 9.5, Sat. 9-1 125 S. Fraser St. 234-1040 This summer get your PSU credits in ISRAEL * An exciting 7 week, 6 or 8 credit program * Includes 16 day, extensive tour of Israel and 1 month at Tel Aviv University Application deadline: March 15, 1986 Office of Education Abroad Programs 222 Boucke Building, 865-7681 BRIDES State College may be a small The Brides Shoppe in The Carriage House offers Big City Selections at Small Town Prices Plus Personal Service you won't find in Pittsburgh, New York, or Philly. All orders placed before March 1st will arrive before the end of the semester. Why not make it easy for yourself where ALL your wedding plans can be taken care of just a few feet off campus. Your gown, bridesmaids and tuxedos are all here and The Brides Shoppe 238-0162 across the street from the 'Skelle dially collegian CITS: the next best thing to being there!

To Be

town BUT

now at

The Carriage

House

09 S. Puah St