

Harriers look to restore pride

By MIKE FRASSINELLI

The men's cross country team will look to restore the pride it took a week earlier when it competes in the Atlantic 10 Conference Championships tomorrow at 10:30 a.m. at tradition-filled Van Courtland Park in the Bronx, N.Y.

The Lions are coming off last Saturday's disappointing second-place finish to Eastern rival Bucknell at the Syracuse Cross Country Classic. Head Coach Harry Groves said his team may have beat itself in that race.

"Quite simply, we didn't respond well," Groves said. "We have to work more at getting our back runners closer to the front of the pack."

At the Syracuse Classic, All-American Eric Carter finished his strong running, winning his third race in the last four meets. The only freshman on Carter's state came Oct. 11, when he finished third at the University of Minnesota Burger King Classic. He previously anchored the team to victories in both the Spiked Shoe Collegiate Invitational and the University of Western Ontario Invitational meets.

Another bright spot for the Lions in the Syracuse Classic was senior Keith Jendricks, who finished fourth on the team. That marked the first time Jendricks had entered the top five.

"Keith ran the race of his life," Groves said. "He didn't hold respect for any pecking order and he just went out and ran his kind of race."

Penn State is pegged as the favorite this weekend, but the Lions must contend with defending A-10 champ West Virginia. Also participating are Temple, Rutgers, St. Joseph's, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, St. Bonaventure and Duquesne.

The course at Van Courtland Park is one of the oldest in the country, and Groves said it should make for an exciting race.

"On this course, you can compete against the ages," Groves said. "You can compare your times with the times of other runners over the years."

Chargers to use backup QB vs. Eagles

PHILADELPHIA — San Diego Chargers' quarterback Mark Herrmann tries not to think of himself as a stand-in for Dan Fouts.

"It's too difficult to live up to standards set by Fouts," said Herrmann, who will lead the Chargers Sunday against the Philadelphia Eagles.

"He is one of the greatest of the game. I just go out and do the things I can do, stay within myself."

Fouts, the Chargers' six-time Pro

Bowl quarterback, is sidelined because of a concussion suffered in last week's 41-10 loss to Kansas City.

The Eagles aren't exactly celebrating over the prospect of facing Herrmann instead of Fouts.

"Herrmann may not be as good as Fouts, but he's good," Eagles' safety Andrew Waters said.

"They don't cut anything out of their offense when Herrmann is in the game. I just go out and do the things I can do, stay within myself."

Netwomen ready for Penn

It seems only fitting that the football team is not alone in meeting its most formidable foe this weekend. As the Lions prepare to take on the football team's 6-0 slate, the Lady Lions sport a perfect 4-0 dual match record, dominating 9-0 in three of those contests.

The Lady Lions are not expecting the same kind of competition from Penn, however. Nelson said the biggest difference between Penn and Penn State's previous opponents lies in their depth.

"Our previous opponents have had one or two good, solid players, but then they'd have no depth," Nelson said. "So we knew that further down the lineup we'd win. With Penn, no one is going to have an easy match."

Against Penn, Bortner will use three freshmen in his singles lineup, two of which will be Karabedian and Claudia Karabedian, Christie Ellis, and Lisa Thomas will play at the second, fifth, and sixth spots, respectively. Karabedian will pair up at No. 2 doubles play with Darnell Adams, and Ellis joins Caroline Pierce at No. 3.

Rounding out the singles lineup are Adams at No. 1, Nelson in the third spot and Pierce at No. 4. Nelson and Romi Walker will compete at the top doubles position.

Bortner believes Penn's experienced lineup, which consists mainly of juniors and seniors, will be their biggest advantage over the Lady Lions. He knows his younger players are anxious to play, but he hopes the excitement does not work to their disadvantage.

"The main thing I have to worry about as a coach is that sometimes young players 'press' and try too hard, which can have a negative effect on their play," he said.

He feels that Penn State's doubles strength still has a slight edge over that of the singles lineup, but also does not want to rely too much on his doubles squad.

"We can't afford to be down, say we don't want to have to win three doubles matches against Penn, who has very strong doubles team. I think our singles are coming along. I think our doubles team will be the real test for them."

Although the Lady Lions do not have dreams of a national championship, they are looking ahead to next weekend's ECAC Championships. A win against Penn would undoubtedly give the Lady Lions the confidence they'll need in their "tournament of the season."
