'Splash' set for Sun.

Members of about 40 fraternities and 15 sororities will swim their way to victory while raising money for the blind at the 18th annual Delta Gamma Anchor Splash at 1 p.m. Sunday in the McCoy Natatorium.

Anchor Splash Chairman Mary Adams said the philanthropy will benefit the Sight Conservation and Aid to the Blind, and is sponsored this year by Pepsi-Cola and Kaepa tennis shoes.

The Anchor Splash swim meet features three events, she said.

COG budget delayed by State College

By VALERIE BAILEY
Collegian Staff Writer

The State College Municipal Council will decide Monday whether to fund a new building for the Centre Region Council of Governments, the council President John Dombroski said.

State College was the only municipality at last month's COG meeting that refused to contribute to a fund meant to finance a building for offices for COG's 30 personnel. The fund is part of COG's new budget.

COG is a council consisting of the governing bodies from State College as well as College, Ferguson, Halfmoon, Harris and Patton Townships.

As a result of the refusal, members of the Centre Region Planning Commission voted yesterday to send a letter to COG's general forum recommending a formal study be conducted on the possibility of constructing the building, said Dennis Elpern, the commission's planning director.

The letter recommends that the study determine how much space is needed for the proposed building and what kind of facilities it will need.

The study will also propose a method of financing and a possible location for the building.

Already, $40,000 has been set aside for the building fund, Elpern said. The original plan was for the municipalities to collectively raise $40,000 every year for the next three years towards the fund, he said.

By 1988, the $120,000 raised will go toward 10 percent of the purchasing and development costs of the proposed building, Elpern said.

COG's Code Enforcement Office contributed $18,400 this year. The other municipalities gave $21,600 to the fund of which $9,618 came from State College.

Of the contributing municipalities, State College has the largest population and would therefore be the biggest municipal contributor to the fund. The refusal to contribute "is a serious problem," Elpern said.

At COG's Nov. 24 meeting, State College refused to further contribute to the fund, although the borough had agreed to finance the building in 1985, said Don Johnson, COG finance committee chairman.

At that time, State College representatives decided the new facility was unnecessary. Dombroski said the borough had already invested in the Fraser Street Plaza as a temporary COG facility.

In 1985, State College paid $350,000 to convert the plaza into facilities COG could rent, Dombroski said.

"After investing thorough finances, it is only fair and reasonable that we would want to get our money out of the facility," he said.

French students protest education plan

By CHARLES CAMPBELL
Associated Press Writer

PARIS — Hundreds of thousands of students marched through Paris on yesterday in the largest of a series of protests against the conservative government's plan to modify higher education.

The demonstration's organizers claimed that a million people paraded along a five-mile route through the Left Bank to demand withdrawal of a bill the government contends would improve universities. Police estimated the crowd at 190,000 to 200,000.

The march was peaceful, but after arriving at the grassy mall of the Invalides memorial after midnight, some of the protesters tried to push their way up the Quai d'Orsay to the nearby National Assembly building.

Some three objects at police standing guard with riot shields, and authorities used tear gas and water cannon to repulse several hundred unruly demonstrators.

Reporters at the scene said they saw several officers and protesters slightly injured by projectiles. A few demonstrators caught between the wall of police and the crowd appeared to faint.

There was no immediate word of arrests.

Protest organizers, speaking from a platform on the Invalides mall, urged the demonstrators to remain calm.

Across the city at the University of Assas, where many students have opposed a strike protesting the legislation, hundreds of police blocked the streets.

Student arrested for hot textbooks

A University student was arrested Wednesday for attempting to sell textbooks to the Student Book Store that were allegedly taken from the University Book Centre, State College Bureau of Police Services said.

Deborah C. Urbanski, 619 Pennypacker, attempted to sell textbooks valued at about $400 to the Student Book Store, 330 E. College Ave., Wednesday, said District Justice Keith Biery.

A bookstore attendant reportedly told the student that records did not show any previous purchase of books there. The Student Book Store then called the University Book Centre, 206 E. College Ave., and it was confirmed that the books had been stolen from the store on Monday, Biery said.

Urbanski was charged with theft by unlawful taking, receiving stolen property and theft by deception. She was arraigned before Biery's same day.

A preliminary hearing is set for Dec. 10 at 2 p.m. in the Centre County Courthouse. Urbanski is being held in Centre County Prison on nominal bail.

Prisoner search is on

MEDIA, Pa. (AP) — Authorities acting on an anonymous tip mounted a fruitless search yesterday at a suburban Philadelphia apartment complex for three Delaware prison escapees.

The operation, which included the evacuation of an elementary school and 80 apartments, began at 12:30 p.m. and ended shortly after 5 p.m., Capt. Dominick Spigarelli of the Pennsylvania State Police said.

Police conducted a search with "SWAT" teams of all 80 apartments and all public areas in the apartment complex and found nothing.
