

Trackmen face stiff competition at relays

By STACEY JACOBSON
Collegian Sports Writer

Sandwiched between the Dogwood Relays and the Penn Relays, two highly-acclaimed meets, the men's track team is hosting a meet of its own today and tomorrow — the Nittany Lion Relays. This meet, which starts at 1 p.m. today and 9:30 a.m. tomorrow, should give the squad a rest from the intense competition, right?

Wrong.

The Nittany Lion Relays, held at the outdoor track, features a field of competition mostly from the Northeast, but Canadian club teams will add former Olympians to the field. Bill Mott and Dave Steen, former Olympian decathletes from France and Canada, respectively, will push the field in open events such as the hurdles and discus.

Baseball team set for pair of twinbills

The time has come for the baseball team to get off the roller coaster of inconsistency and get down to the serious business of winning conference games.

Penn State will play a big part in the times and distances at the meet, but the meet will not be canceled due to inclement weather.

"I've never cancelled a meet in my life," Groves said, implying that the rain and cold scheduled to move into Happy Valley won't stop the show.

Trackwomen use relays to prepare for future

By JIM DEEGAN
Collegian Sports Writer

This is Easter weekend and many people are taking the opportunity to go somewhere they haven't been in quite awhile — home. The same holds true for the women's track team, as it hosts the Nittany Lion Relays today at 1 p.m. and tomorrow at noon at the Nittany Lion Track on University Drive across from newly-completed Hubbs Hall.

The last time the Lady Lions assembled at home for a meet was Feb. 28 in the Last Chance Invitational.

"It's really encouraging that we have such highly-competitive entries over Easter weekend," Head Coach Harry Groves said. Some of the events Groves expects particularly good distances and times in are the javelin, 110-meter high hurdles, and the 1,500-meter run.

Today's competition will feature decathlon events and the 10,000-meter run. All other events will be held tomorrow.

In the javelin competition, Bill Mitrovich — the former meet record holder at 235 feet — will be back to defend the record. However, the distance may be shorter due to a new design in the javelin. The balance point of this year's javelin has been changed to decrease the length of throws because some throws were extending onto the track.

Filmed during an all-star concert at Oakland's Paramount Theater, Gospel is a magnificent musical tribute to the top stars of black gospel singing. Unlike most concert films, Gospel does not rely on narration, interviews, or backstage scenes; it simply lets the music tell the story. It introduces the joy of contemporary gospel music to audiences of all musical tastes.
