

NHL draft to be held in U.S. for first time

By HARRY ATKINS
AP Sports Writer

DETROIT — The NHL will hold its annual draft of amateur players outside of Canada for the first time in its 70-year history tomorrow because Detroit Red Wings General Manager Jimmy Devellano kept asking, "Why not?"

For years, the NHL draft was held in Montreal, a city steeped in hockey history. A few years ago, however, the draft date went head-to-head with the Montreal Grand Prix and the NHL governors didn't like it.

The league moved its draft to Toronto, but Devellano kept pushing to let some of the other NHL cities in on the fun.

"I thought it would be a terrific way for us to showcase our sport during the off-season and maybe help some of our cities where the NHL isn't so strong," Devellano said.

Somebody finally listened and the draft is coming to Joe Louis Arena.

In addition to the draft, the NHL has set up a Hall of Fame exhibit at Cobo Hall, next door to the arena. The NHL will induct 10 men into the Hall during a $150-a-plate induction dinner Monday evening in the Westin Hotel.

The governors also will hold their annual congress where, again, owners may be asked to hear the St. Louis Blues' complaint against the Red Wings for hiring away Jacques Demers as coach. The issue has been tabled several times. The public is welcome to attend the draft which begins at noon tomorrow.

The Buffalo Sabres have the first pick and they are expected to select Pierre Turgeon, brother of the Hartford Whalers' Sylvain Turgeon.

The younger Turgeon, a 6-foot-3, 210-pound center, is considered the most gifted offensive player available.

Turgeon had 52 goals and 48 assists in 40 games last season for the Granby Bisons of the Quebec Major Junior Hockey League.

The elder Turgeon said his brother "has really grown up as a person" and holds a longshot hope that he will be taken by the Boston Bruins, who have the No. 3 pick in the draft.

If the Sabres fail to take Turgeon, the New Jersey Devils, picking second, say they will.

"If they didn't take him, I wouldn't call a timeout," said Max McNab, the Devils general manager.

Also high on every scout's list is 6-3, 200-pound Brendan Shanahan, a big right wing with the London Knights of the Ontario Hockey League. Shanahan had 30 goals and 28 assists in 38 games last season.

The Red Wings, desperately in need of help at right wing, might be tempted to trade for a shot at Shanahan.

"I really can't see anybody trading away a chance to draft that kid," Devellano said. "I imagine we'll just try to pick the best athlete available when our time comes."

Among the other players high on the list of the NHL Central Scouting Bureau are Dave Archibald, a center from the Portland Winter Hawks of the Western Hockey League, and three defensemen — Fortland's Glen Wesley and Chris Joseph of the Seattle Thunderbirds of the WHL, and Wayne McBean, a defenseman from the Medicine Hat Tigers of the WHL.

Some scouts believe McBean is the closest competitor to Turgeon's No. 1 spot.

The Scouting Bureau ranks goaltenders separately, and Jimmy Waite of Chicoutimi of the QMJHL is a clear-cut No. 1.

Unlike last year, this does not appear to be a good year for players from the United States. With the exception of North Bay Centennial defenseman Adam Burt, a native of Detroit, the first round is likely to be all-Canadian.

It is not a good year for Europeans, either. In fact, Winnipeg Jets assistant GM and director of scouting Mike Smith said it's possible no Europeans will be taken in the first three rounds.

As far as drafting position is concerned, 11 of the CSB's top 20 are defensemen, another turnaround from last year, when offensive players were in the majority.

Steelers waive linebacker Station

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers yesterday waived linebacker Larry Station, who was drafted in the 11th round last year.

Station was active in the Steelers' last 10 games last season after being on the physically unable to perform list with a back injury, according to team spokesman Dan Edwards.

Florida athletes' grad rates low

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Fewer than half of the 673 male athletes on scholarship at the University of Florida in the last ten years have earned degrees within five years at the school, a newspaper reported yesterday.

In some sports, fewer than 20 percent graduated, according to a study by the Gainesville Sun.

The Gator basketball team in a recent five-year period graduated only five of 29 scholarship players, or 17 percent.

Turkowski transfers to Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (AP) — University of Miami Quarterback Bill Turkowski says he plans to transfer to the University of Pittsburgh, even though he won't be given a scholarship immediately.

Turkowski said he was leaving Miami because he wasn't given a fair chance to play.

to Kevin Elster. Andre David then hit a two-run double and Mark Carreon had a sacrifice fly.

In the second, Seaver struck out two batters but allowed a fourth run on three singles.

Carreon and Clint Hurdle singled in the third and Steve Springer hit an RBI double off the center-field wall. Seaver left the game with one out, and both runners eventually scored.

Seaver had been throwing at his home in Greenwich, Conn., prior to the game. He has a 31-205 lifetime record and holds many Mets pitching marks, including 198 victories, 44 shutouts and 2,541 strikeouts.

"I definitely came back to be a starting pitcher," Seaver said when his return to the Mets was announced last Saturday. "If, however, that means I have to pitch in long relief to do that, that's fine with me."

After a contract disagreement with the Mets in 1977, Seaver requested a trade and was dealt to the Cincinnati Reds in midseason. The Reds sent Seaver back to the Mets on Dec. 16, 1982, and he went 9-14 with a 3.55 ERA for New York in 1983.

The Mets did not protect Seaver in the free-agent compensation draft after the 1983 season and the Chicago White Sox selected him. Seaver was 15-11 in 1984 and was 16-11, among them his 300th career victory, in 1985 for the White Sox.

Seaver became a free agent when he did not re-sign with Boston after last season. He had a 7-13 record overall, including 5-7 with a 3.80 ERA for the Red Sox. Seaver did not pitch in the American League playoffs or the World Series loss to the Mets because of the knee injury. He underwent arthroscopic surgery on his right knee at the end of October.

Seaver won the National League Cy Young award with the Mets in 1969, 1973 and 1975.

Baseball

After Griffey stole second, Andres Thomas drew a walk, and both runners advanced on Ozzie Virgil's sacrifice. Hubbard then lined his double into the right-field corner.

Garber pitched the final two innings for his sixth save of the season. He became just the sixth major-league pitcher to reach 200 saves. Rolfe Fingers is the all-time leader with 341.

Reliever Charlie Puleo won his first decision of the season.

Dale Murphy hit an RBI double in the first and Dion James, stuck in a 5-for-52 slump, had a run-scoring single in the second that gave the Braves a 2-0 lead off Ted Power.

The Reds scored four times in the bottom of the second off Larry McWilliams, making his second start for the Braves since being recalled from Class AA Greenville. Tracy Jones had a one-out RBI single, and Barry Larkin — hitting just .211 — hit a three-run homer to center field, his fifth of the season.

James had another RBI single in the fourth and Griffey's solo homer tied it 4-4. Four of Griffey's seven homers this season have been against the Reds, with whom he spent eight seasons of his 13-year major-league career.

Bill Wegman, 5-5, was the winner, allowing four runs and eight hits in six innings. Chris Bosio pitched the final three innings for his second save.

McWilliams lasted five innings and gave up four runs on seven hits. Power was removed for a pinch-hitter in the sixth after giving up eight hits and four runs.

Brewers 8, Tigers 5
DETROIT — Mike Felder had five hits, one of which started a three-run seventh-inning rally in which two Milwaukee Brewers beat Detroit 8-5.

With the Brewers trailing 4-3, Felder led off the inning with a single to right off Eric King. Rick Manning reached on a fielder's choice when catcher Mike Heath's throw to second on his bunt was too late to catch Felder and Cecil Cooper, attempting to sacrifice, beat out another bunt for a hit.

Pinch-hitter Glenn Braggs then lined back to King whose throw to first doubled off Cooper and Greg Brock was walked intentionally to re-load the bases.

King walked Jim Falcione to force in Felder and hit Bill Schroeder with an 0-2 pitch to force in Manning. Morris Madden, making his major league debut, took over with a 1-0 count on Jim Gantner and threw three successive balls to force Brock across.

Juan Castillo singled home two more runs in the eighth to make it 8-4 and Darrell Evans hit his eighth homer in the ninth for Detroit's final run.

Bill Wegman, 5-5, was the winner, allowing four runs and eight hits in six innings. Chris Bosio pitched the final three innings for his second save.

Ripken leads in All-Star balloting

NEW YORK (AP) — Baltimore's Cal Ripken Jr., seeking his fourth straight All-Star start at shortstop, leads all American League players in the fan balloting for the July 14 All-Star Game at Oakland, the Baseball Commissioner's Office announced yesterday.

Ripken, who ranks among the league leaders in home runs, RBI and runs scored, received 501,949 votes. He led the AL in voting last year with 1,486,806 votes.

Outfielder Rickey Henderson, the runner-up with 394,096 votes, is among three New York Yankees leading their positions. Don Mattingly tops the first basemen, while Henderson and Dave Winfield are 1-2 in the voting for the three outfield positions.

Mattingly has 359,866 votes to 174,103 for California's Wally Joyner. Henderson, Winfield (243,868) and Minnesota's Kirby Puckett (239,615) head the outfielders with Kansas City rookie Bo Jackson next at 191,846.

Beaston's Wade Boggs (384,729) leads the third basemen, ahead of Kansas City's George Brett, who has been the AL's starting third baseman for 11 straight years.

The National League leaders announced Monday were: New York Mets catcher Gary Carter, St. Louis first baseman Jack Clark, Chicago Cubs second baseman Ryne Sanberg, Philadelphia third baseman Mike Schmidt, shortstop Ozzie Smith of St. Louis and outfielders Eric Davis of Cincinnati, Darryl Strawberry of New York and Andre Dawson of Chicago.
