probation

AUSTIN, Texas — The University of Texas football program was placed on a two-year probation yesterday by the NCAA because of rules violations over the past several years. Texas joined three other Southwest Conference schools on probation —

Southern Methodist, Texas Tech and Texas Christian. Of nine Southwest Conference schools, only Rice and Arkansas are not either on NCAA probation or under investigation. The penalties against Texas would reduce the number of football scholarships in 1988-89 from 25 to 20, and would reduce the number of recruit-ng visits in the coming year from 95 to 75. A report by the NCAA Committee on Infractions said the probation, which carries sanctions, could be reduced to one year if the university complies with 13 changes the school proposed at a hearing before the committee on June 3. UT President William Cunningham said there will be no appeal. "The NCAA has conducted a professional investigation and we are pleased that the process is now complete," Cunningham said. "The university will continue to work closely with the NCAA during the probationary period and beyond. Our goal is to have an exemplary intercollegiate athletic program," he The penalties, which also include a public reprimand and censure, were announced two weeks after the hearing in Kansas City, Mo., at which the university responded to 51 alleged rules violations cited by the NCAA after an 18-month investigation. The NCAA said a significant number of rules violations were found But with a single exception, "none of the serious violations involved the recruitment of prospective studentathletes, and it does not appear that the violations resulted in a significant competitive advantage for the University of Texas," it said. Braves 6. The organization said other violations, although less serious, were sufficient in number "to raise questions about the adequacy of athletics department administrative policies The NCAA said some of the violations occurred more than four years David McWilliams, new head footoall coach, said he was glad the investigation is over. "Speaking for myself, our coaching staff and our players, we are pleased to have this matter resolved so that we can move on to the upcoming season. We have all dedicated ourselves to be sure we do not make these or other mistakes in the future," he said.

McWilliams was hired in early December after UT fired Fred Akers. DeLoss Dodds, UT men's athletics director, said he thought the NCAA's action was fair. "I feel the committee heard all of the evidence and treated us fairly. This marks the end of an investigation in which our football program has undergone scrutiny as intensive as any university has ever faced.
