

Rice claims news media exploitation in Hart affair

By KATHRYN BAKER
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK — Donna Rice, whose publicized involvement with Gary Hart led to his withdrawal from the presidential race, says she was exploited by the news media and betrayed by her friend, Lynn Armandt, ABC says.

Rice says she never slept with Hart, but the network wouldn't reveal the answer in advance of the interview's airing on Thursday night's edition of the newsmagazine show "20/20."

The interview is sure to draw big ratings, since it is the first time Rice has talked at length about her relationship with Hart.

ABC said Walters also asked Rice if she had heard from Hart and what she thinks of him, but would not release her responses to those questions, either.

The Rice-Hart affair began May 3 when The Miami Herald ran a front-page story saying Rice had spent the night with Hart in his Washington townhouse while his wife was away.

Hart and Rice denied any impropriety, but Hart angrily quit the race a few days later, complaining that reporters would not let the story die. The National Enquirer subsequently printed snapshots of Rice sitting on Hart's lap during a yacht trip from Miami to Bimini.

ABC released excerpts from other portions of Walters' hour-long interview, conducted Tuesday in New York. About 25 minutes will be broadcast on "20/20."

"I feel like I've been exploited," Rice says at one point. "I've been painted as a person that I'm not. It isn't fair. And that makes me angry. I think it's unfair. I don't think the media has the right to make a private person a public person."

Walters: "A public person? And you were the person he was involved with?"

Rice: "Right..."

Walters: "You're saying that the press has gone too far."

Rice: "Well, I was involuntarily made a public person."

Walters asks Rice about the circumstances surrounding the taking of the photographs on the yacht trip.

"When you were on the boat, there were pictures taken. Who took them?" Walters asks.

"Lynn Armandt," Rice said. "She took them. She encouraged the taking of the photographs, and she suggested the shot to sit on Gary Hart's lap."

Contamination causes 27 cities to be evacuated

By CAROL J. WILLIAMS
Associated Press Writer

KIEV, U.S.S.R. — The explosion at the Chernobyl nuclear power plant left at least 27 nearby cities and villages too contaminated for people to live in for the foreseeable future, a government official said yesterday.

Soviet officials have halted decontamination work in these areas, said Konstantin T. Fursov, deputy chairman of the Kiev regional government committee in the Ukraine.

Fursov told a group of Moscow-based reporters that the areas include the city of Pripyat, which was home to more than 50,000 people before the April 26, 1986, disaster.

Pripyat is only two miles from the nuclear power station, where an explosion and fire tore apart the No. 4 reactor, spewed radioactivity that killed 31 Soviets and spread eventually around the world.

Regional officials contend most of the 60 cities and villages evacuated will eventually be resettled, but said they could not predict when the process will be complete. All the towns were in an 18-mile danger zone around the plant.

"There are 27 populated points that will not be resettled in the foreseeable future," Fursov said. The others will be repopulated gradually, he said.

Fursov said two towns in the 18-mile danger zone, Chermoshynya and Nevlitskoye, had returned to normal with fully operating schools, stores and public transportation.

Fursov said 52 new towns like Tavriya have been built in the Kiev region, but he did not say how many evacuees have been housed there or how many of the settlements are temporary.

Some residents have returned to another 16 towns that have been decontaminated but still lack many public services, he said.

"People are returning there without permission, mostly elderly people," Fursov said during a meeting with reporters at the regional government headquarters in Kiev.

"Conditions there are safe, but the social services are not ready yet. These people are coming back of their own volition. It's their home."

The reporters, on a trip organized and controlled by the Soviet Foreign Ministry, also visited the new village of Tavriya, built last year to house 205 families evacuated from the city of Pripyat.

Many of the evacuees told reporters they were satisfied with their new home but would prefer to live in the towns and villages where they grew up and raised their children.

Officials have said 135,000 people were evacuated from the northern Ukraine and southern Byelorussia after the Chernobyl accident. Fursov said 91,000 of them were from his Kiev region.

Another deputy chief of the regional government, Anatoly Duda, said the two towns that have been completely resettled account for only about 500 of the evacuees.

Fursov said 52 new towns like Tavriya have been built in the Kiev region, but he did not say how many evacuees have been housed there or how many of the settlements are temporary.

Local emergency medical services awaiting funds

HARRISBURG (AP) — The State Health Department has been slow to distribute millions of dollars for local emergency medical services, a legislative audit said yesterday.

Between July 1985 and April 1987, less than 30 percent of an available $8.7 million was spent, the Legislative Budget and Finance Committee said.

Money for the emergency medical services fund is collected from a $10 surcharge on every moving traffic violation fine paid in Pennsylvania.

"They literally have not gotten off the ground after two years," said Richard Dario, the committee's executive director.

In its report, the committee said the Health Department did not have a systematic plan for identifying emergency medical service needs and funding them. The report recommended the department prepare a spending plan and written application procedure.

Gary Froese, spokesman for the Health Department, said officials will review the report and develop a comprehensive response. Most of the period covered in the report was during the tenure of then-Gov. Dick Thornburgh's administration.

"The report also noted that revenues from the $10 charge are not meeting the fund's projected $9.5 million level."
