A mere 35 seconds later, Moylan headed in a cross from midfielder Kamel Haddad to tie the score once again. Haddad brought the ball up the left wing and sent the ball into the middle of the UConn box. Moylan got to the ball in stride and beat Foley with a header into the lower left corner of the net. The goal at 48:11 was Moylan's second of the night and 10th overall.

Throughout the rest of the half, both teams had numerous chances to break the tie in regulation and in the two overtime periods, but were unable to convert them.

UConn made wholesale substitutions at almost every stoppage of play during the half and two overtime periods, while the Lions didn't substitute very often, but Bahr's team was able to stand up to the challenge. Bahr said he did not change players because the starting 11 seemed to be playing well together, he said he never believed in using a lot of players.

"I think a team has to play to get a rhythm," Bahr said. "To me, substitutions disrupt the flow of the game. I'm a soccer traditionalist.

"In international soccer around the world you can only use two substitutions," he added. "When you are playing an hour-and-a-half game, players can't run at a hundred miles an hour. I don't like the substitute rule because the game is played too fast.'

One substitute Bahr could not have used even if he had wanted to was sophomore forward Steve Morell. Morell watched the game from the sidelines in a cast after he broke his leg in a previous game versus Lafayette. After the game, Morell talked about his season-ending injury and said it wasn't much fun to be a spectator.

"It's terrible," Morell said. "This was the one game I was looking forward to all season. I kept saying to myself if I could play against UConn I'd be happy all year. I really wanted to play against them bad. I'm really bummed out but I was glad the team played well.

"(The injury) happened in the last 20 seconds or so of the game. I got the ball in the corner and tried to waste some time. I think I beat one man and I took the ball to cross it and a guy (from Lafayette) just came in at me. He wasn't going for the ball or anything. He just tried to get my legs.

"I was swinging my right leg and my shin hit the bottom of his cleats and that was it. It busted right

Bahr said although he would have liked to have Morell in the lineup, he was pleased with the way his team performed.

"We played well and really hung in there," he said. "We still have a few games to go with George Washington, Temple and other teams in our area. We're not dead yet. We still have a little bit of a heartbeat and a little bit of hope that we can still get into the NCAA tournament.

UConn Head Coach Joe Morrone was also impressed with the Lions' play.

"That was a hell of a game played out there for both teams," Morrone said. "Both teams went end to end and both had chances to win but that's the way it goes.

"Penn State played very well. Every time we play Penn State it's always a tough game. It's usually a one-goal game or a tie, as was evident

Women's soccer team wins

The women's soccer team shutout Slippery Rock this weekend by a score of 2-0, extending its record to 7-2-1. Like last weekends game, the Lady Lions once again got off to a slow start that saw a scoreless first half and then made a comeback in the second stanza.

The squad's first goal was scored at the 33:15 mark of the second half by Nadine Kokalis. Kokalis drove the ball downfield and booted an attempt that deflected off a Slippery Rock fullback and into the upper left hand corner of the goal.

Merely nine minutes later Kelly Bradway, off an assist by Angie Downing, answered Kokolis' goal and posted the second and final point of the game.

Head Coach Laurie Pinchbeck was quick to commend a strong defensive effort and the play of sweeper back Mary Jo Gordon.

"She (Gordon) really held the defense together and held off some really strong (Slippery Rock) offensive players," Pinchbeck said. "It was a very rough, physical game and the refs weren't calling much.' The Lady Lions will play Lock Haven tomorrow at 2 p.m. at Pollock Field

Equestrian team fares well at Kutztown

The Equestrian team was the high-point college and claimed both high-point and reserve high-point riders to their name at Kutztown this weekend. By compiling 37 points, the team outlasted Wilson College (35 points) to reign supreme in this weekend's show.

Both Kara Gibson and Lauren Welch won their two respective divisions to receive high-point and reserve high-point honors. Gibson clinched first place in both the intermediate flat and intermediate fences division while Welch nestled in second place in the same divisions. Mary Alin Wong won her division, novice equitation on the

Netwomen place 3rd at Old Dominion

The women's tennis team finished third in a twelve-team tournament held at Old Dominion University this past weekend. Boston College won the tournament and Virginia Tech was second.

In individual competition, the team advanced four players to the quarterfinals and three Penn State players were in the consolation finals. The team also had two doubles teams which reached the quarter finals and one which made it to the semi-finals.

In singles matches, Darnell Adams and Kelly Nelson (Flight A) both reached the quarter finals and lost by scores of 4-6, 4-6 and 1-6, 1-6, respectively.

Lisa Thomas reached the Flight B quarterfinals, but lost 5-7, 0-6. The Flight C consolation finals saw two Penn State players battling it out as Missy O Block defeated teammate Cathy Kissell by scores of 6-3,

3-6 and 6-4 In Flight D action, Melanie Gunne reached the consolation finals, but

Fans welcome back regulars with boos

By BOB GREENE AP Sports Writer

NFL fans grudgingly welcomed back their regular teams yesterday, but with scattered booing

"I'm glad they're back," Jim

Park of Villanova, Pa., said as he prepared to watch the Philadelphia Eagles take on the Dallas Cowboys. At Washington, where the Redskins fell behind the New York

Jets before rallying in the final minutes to win 17-16, the fans chanted, "We want the scabs. Although more fans showed up to see the regulars than watched the replacement games, attendance was down about 8,000 per game from the average of 59,824 for the last pre-strike weekend. The pergame average for three weeks of games played by replacement teams was 23,626.

At Pittsburgh, quarterback Mark Malone overcame a shaky first half in which some fans chanted "Malone Go Home." Malone had played poorly in th. Steelers' two prestrike games, and several fans displayed a huge banner reading.

'Malone, Stay on Strike.' At Houston, 29,062 showed up to see the Oilers play Atlanta. The replacement Oilers drew 26,294 last week. The Houston fans booed quarterback Warren Moon, the Oilers' player representative, when he was introduced before the game.

A crowd of 27,278 watched the Detroit Lions take on the Green Bay Packers in the 80,638-seat Silverdome. There were 12,334 no-shows. The crowd was much lower than a normal Lions' game, but much higher than during the strike, when 8,310 was the best crowd at the Silverdome. The Lions played, and lost, their two pre-strike games on the road.

One prominent sign told the Lions to get back to work quickly. It said, "Vacation's Over Boys: Detroit Scabs 1. Detroit Lions 0."

At New Orleans, the Saints lost to San Francisco 24-22 in a game marred by penalties and fumbles. Some New Orleans fans, who have never seen the Saints post a winning record, made their feelings known with a banner reading, "At Least We Saw Three Pro Games," referring to the replacement team's 2-1 record.

At Washington, the Redskins announced a sellout for 55,750-seat Robert F. Kennedy Stadium, but the crowd was depleted by 2,173 no-

At the Hoosier Dome in Indianapolis, the Colts and New England Patriots played before a crowd of 48,850. There were 3,000 no-shows.

Fans booed when the Colts were introduced, the loudest yells coming when Colts player representative Nesby Glasgow introduced.

The replacement Colts attracted 34.927 last weekend inside the dome.

At Miami, fans booed Miami quarterback Dan Marino when he was introduced. Three first-half touchdown passes brought only cheers, but Marino and the Dolphins left the field to more boos during a sluggish second half. There was an announced total of 61,295 fans at the 75,000-seat Joe Robbie Stadium, with 9,297 noshows. Miami drew 25,867 for its only home game during the replacement season.

"Deep down in my heart, I don't want to be here." Charlie Cordani of Point Pleasant, N.J., said before the New York Giants played host to the St. Louis Cardinals.

"I think the fans once again came out on the losing end," Cordani said. "We bear the brunt of the frustrations. The bottom line is the

Earnhardt clinches NASCAR Winston Cup

ROCKINGHAM, N.C. (AP) — Dale Earnhardt shared the moment and the credit with his crew after clinching his second consecutive NASCAR Winston Cup driving championship.

The Kannapolis, N.C., native claimed the title, and the approximately $600,000 prize that goes with it, by simply running the first lap of the AC-Delco 500 at North Carolina Motor Speedway yesterday

Earnhardt, who finished second behind Bill Elliott in yesterday's race, has an insurmountable 515-point lead with two races remaining on this year s schedule.

"The guys have done a super job all year long," Earnhardt said. "It's made it tough on me to keep the pace they've set. The team is always right there behind me. It makes me feel great just to be in the car.

"I never throught I'd win back-to-back championships, but the outlook for another one looks great Earnhardt wrapped up the title at the same track where he won the first of 11 races this season, the Goodwrench 500 in March. That victory tied him with Elliott for first place two races into the 29-race season. Earnhardt won five of the next six races and was well on his way to the championship.

Earnhart said his only regret during a two-year domination of the sport was that his father wasn't around to enjoy it with him. Ralph Earnhardt, himself a former Grand National driver, died in

"I wish my dad could've been here along with us when things have been going good," Earnhardt said. "When things started going good for me, he wasn't with us anymore, but I've kept him in my heart all along.

The championship was Earnhardt's third overall. He won his first title in 1980.

"It just gets sweeter every time," Earnhardt

Earnhardt also has four seconds, one third, two fourths and two fifths in the 27 races.
