Garrity out for revenge vs. Cards

By RALPH BERNSTEIN AP Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA — Eagles wide receiver Gregg Garrity says he really doesn't think about it, but he can't forget.

Garrity returns to St. Louis against the Cardinals Sunday. That's where it happened last year.

The Eagles had trailed the St. Louis Cardinals, 13-10, with seconds left in the game. Garrity took a short pass from Ron Jaworski, shook off several tackles and headed for the end zone with a blocker in front of

"I thought I had a touchdown for sure," recalled Garrity yesterday. But he didn't. The blocker, Kenny Jackson, missed taking out Cedric Mack, and Mack caught Garrity at the 2 yard line as time ran out.

Garrity in hindsight wishes he had run out of bounds and given the Eagles a chance to kick a field goal and send the game into overtime.

"The funny thing is that you don't expect me to break a few tackles," said the former Penn State receiver.

"Even Len Smith, one of the best safeties in the league missed me. Unfortunately I broke those tackles," Garrity recalled.

Garrity said it was a nightmare at the time.

"It's one of those things. Sometimes you make it. Sometimes you don't. Unfortunately for the team that time I didn't."

Garrity said the game between the Cardinals and Eagles, both 2-4, is going to make things more interesting for him.

There is the revenge factor," he

Garrity said what made the incident worse was that the Eagles were 4-4 at the time, and felt they had a shot at the playoffs.

"We never recovered from that game. I think it put us out of contention. I hope we can redeem ourselves this time.

Garrity hasn't played much this season. He caught only one pass for 18 yards. He's hopeful of getting more action Sunday.

The Eagles are fresh from a 37-20 victory over the Dallas Cowboys, while St. Louis lost 30-7 to the New York Giants last week.

Both teams are in a hole because of the strike games. The Eagles' replacements were 0-3, and the Cardi nals 1-2.

Steeler's assistant coach says Lipps in poor shape after strike

burgh Steelers assistant coach Walt Evans said wide receiver Louis Lipps returned from the 24day NFL strike in poor condition, resulting in a strained hamstring that kept him out of last Sunday's game against the Cincinnati Beng-

Evans, the Steelers' strength and conditioning coach, said Lipps must realize the importance of keeping himself in good shape if he is to again become one of the NFL's top offensive weapons.

Lipps, a fourth-year pro who was the Steelers' 1984 first-round draft choice, caught 104 passes for 1,994 yards and scored 26 touchdowns in his first two pro seasons. The last two years, Lipps, hampered by toe, hip, hamstring and back problems. has 46 catches for 602 yards and three touchdowns.

"It's a result of conditioning more than anything else," Evans told the Tribune-Review in Greensburg, Pa. "During the strike, it was pretty obvious the conditioning wasn't as intense as it would have been here. That was one of the problems. His past history (of injuries) is what's been a problem for Evans expects Lipps to play Sunday against the Miami Dolphins "but how effective he's going to be, I don't know. As far as the hamstring goes, that shouldn't happen this time of year.

"He just has to realize the importance of (conditioning). You can't play his position and take that punishment and not be in condition. If conditioning isn't important to him, he's not going to be here very long," Evans said.

Steelers wide receiver Louis Lipps, left, is recovering from a hamstring pull which, an assistance coach said, is the result of lack of conditioning during Evans said Lipps' problem is "he has to realize he has to put as much time in the weight room and conditioning room as he does in meeting rooms and watching game films. He doesn't do that. He still doesn't realize the importance of that.'

Lipps will continue having hamstring problems until he increases his conditioning, said Evans, who has been the Steelers' assistant coach since 1983.

'The strike and being off didn't help, so I look for him to have this little problem on and off until we get this thing corrected," Evans said. "Anytime you lift your leg up to stride, the hamstring is affected somewhat. He can't afford that. We can't afford that.

Steelers quarterback Mark Malone said Lipps usually attracts double coverage, so his absence from the lineup allows defenses to concentrate more on stopping the Steelers' running game.
