■ Burglary: About $2,400 worth of jewelry was reported taken from Benjamin and Margaret Whisler's home, 625 Holmes St., sometime between July 18 and Sunday, State College Bureau of Police Services said. The items, including an antique gold watch, two pins and seven rings, were taken from an upstairs room.

■ Criminal Mischief: A man, whose name police would not release, was cited for tossing two trash recycling bins onto Pugh Street at about 2:50 yesterday morning, State College police said. A damage estimate was not available.

■ Health and Safety: Two male students were cited for firing pellet guns at birds in Eastview Terrace between 6 and 6:30 Sunday night, University Police Services said. They will be referred to the Office of Conduct Standards.

It is not known if any birds were injured during the shooting spree.

Fatal fire strikes Lancaster house

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — A fire that was set at a three-story brick row house yesterday left five people dead and two injured, authorities said.

Police had been called to the house and neighborhood four times Sunday night to calm domestic disturbances, but they said they didn't know whether or not those problems were related to the fire.

"The first arriving company reported they had fire blowing across the street 15 to 20 feet," Fire Lt. Ed Knight said. "People were reporting there were people trapped on the second floor. And there were. That's where the victims were found."

Those killed in the fire were Margarito Daniel Rodriguez, 36; Yolanda Valentin, 17, who was two months pregnant; her 2-month-old daughter, Carmen Elisa

Solei; and an 8-year-old boy, Jaime Nazario, and his 7-year-old sister, Madeline Nazario, authorities said. Carmen Milagro Cintron, 37, the mother of Ms. Valentin and the Nazario children, was listed in serious condition at Community Hospital of Lancaster with burns, cuts and smoke inhalation, hospital spokeswoman Angela Giurlando said.

Rodriguez was Cintron's boyfriend, said Dr. Barry D. Walp, the county coroner.

Angelica Marie Vazquez, nearly 14 months, also a daughter of Valentin, was flown to St. Christopher's Hospital for Children in Philadelphia. She was in critical condition in the intensive care unit being treated for smoke inhalation and a slight burn, hospital spokeswoman Phyllis Probert said.

The fire was ruled an arson by Trooper David Fisher, a state police fire marshal. He said it was deliberately set on the porch.

The fire was reported at 3:11 a.m. and declared under control at 3:44 a.m., firefighter Terry Bracken said. A neighbor whose smoke detectors were set off by the blaze reported the fire, authorities said.

The body of 7-year-old Madelina was found at the top of the steps to the second floor, Fire Lt. David Amico said.

In the front, second-floor bedroom was a double bed, a crib and a single bed. Valentin was lying in the double bed with her babies on each side, he said.

Firefighters found Jamine in the middle bedroom and Rodriguez in the rear bedroom, Amico said.

Specter wants review of Thornburgh aide

By RICH KIRKPATRICK
Associated Press Writer

HARRISBURG — U.S. Sen. Arlen Specter has asked that a special prosecutor investigate cocaine use allegations against a former top aide to U.S. Attorney General Richard Thornburgh, the senator's spokesman said Monday.

Specter, R-Pa., asked for an independent counsel to look into whether former U.S. Justice Department lawyer Henry Barr used cocaine. The senator acted after former state Auditor General Don Bailey wrote to him July 17, complaining that an ongoing investigation into allegations of cocaine use by former government officials was "a mockery of decency."

"It is my conclusion that independent counsel should be appointed in the matter involving Mr. Henry Barr," Specter said in his letter to deputy Attorney General William P. Barr. Henry Barr and William Barr are not related.

Specter also asked U.S. Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Delaware, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, to hold a hearing into the confirmation of acting U.S. Attorney James West, whose office has been handling the cocaine use investigation, Specter spokesman Dan McKenna said.

A federal grand jury investigation has focused on allegations that former Pennsylvania Deputy Attorney General Richard Guida used cocaine and gave it to friends. Specter also said Monday that a special prosecutor should decide whether or not to take control of the Guida case, as well.

According to documents filed in federal court, Guida gave the FBI information about supposed cocaine use by Henry Barr. The documents also indicated that investigators believe Guida falsely denied knowledge of any cocaine use by Henry Barr after September 1988, when he joined Thornburgh's staff. Henry Barr was a special assistant coordinating criminal investigations until he resigned in May 1989.

Bailey has complained that the investigation will be tainted because West and Guida are friends who worked together for the state attorney general. Henry Barr also worked for Thornburgh when he was Pennsylvania governor. West recused himself from the investigation last year and it was turned over to his chief deputy, Gordon Zubrod.

McKenna noted that it would be "very unusual" for the Senate to hold a hearing on West's confirmation. U.S. attorney nominations are usually acted on without hearings, he said, but Specter feels the case warrants special attention.

"He feels it's necessary in light of Bailey's allegations," McKenna said. "He and others should have a chance to air their views on this."

U.S. Justice Department spokesman Dan Eramian said officials there had not received Specter's letter Monday.

A press aide for Biden did not immediately return a telephone call to a reporter Monday. Bailey also was not in his office and could not be reached for comment. West declined to comment.

Zubrod received a judge's approval two weeks ago to dissolve a plea agreement the government had reached with Guida, clearing the way to proceed with drug-distribution and drug-use counts.

Despite the government's apparent progress on the case, Bailey told Specter the FBI "is more intent on assuring us of how limited Guida's activities were than on really investigating this thing in depth. This whole process is a mockery of decency."

Bailey, who lost a re-election bid in 1988, has had a longstanding political feud with West over unrelated matters.

But since he nominated West, Specter has asked for the confirmation hearing "to make sure everything is as it should be," McKenna said.
