John Bobbitt wants to reconnect with wife

ARLINGTON, Va. — John Wayne Bobbitt wants another whack at marriage with Lorena. With flowers and candy, he showed up Tuesday at the hair salon where his estranged wife works and tried to reconcile with her, but she refused to speak to him, The Washington Post reported yesterday.

"He came over here, and then he came back. Can you imagine the nerve?" The Post quoted one of Lorena's co-workers as saying.

In 1993, Lorena Bobbitt cut off her husband's penis, saying he had raped and emotionally tortured her. Doctors reattached it, and he has since made an X-rated video, "John Wayne Bobbitt . . . Uncut."

Mrs. Bobbitt was found innocent by reason of temporary insanity of malicious wounding. Bobbitt was acquitted of sexual assault.

The couple are divorcing. Mrs. Bobbitt's lawyer, Elden Sodowsky, said that she has agreed to a property settlement but that Bobbitt hasn't signed.

Cronkite recalls his 'first' reporting job

HOUSTON — Walter Cronkite has fond memories of his high school days as a Purple Pup reporter.

The CBS anchorman walked the halls Tuesday of Lanier Middle School, where he worked for the school newspaper more than 65 years ago.

"There's nothing like this thrill of coming back today," Cronkite, 79, told students. "I started my journalism career at Lanier. I was a contributing writer at the Purple Pup."

Cronkite visited the school after receiving the Denton A. Cooley Leadership Award.

Eastwood CD-ROM more than thorough

LOS ANGELES — The past got a blush out of Clint Eastwood.

At a party Monday night to introduce a CD-ROM on his life, the year 1960 was clicked on a timeline, filling a restaurant with the strains of Eastwood singing "Rowdy-Cowboy Wedding Song."

"There were things I would just as soon they hadn't delved into," an embarrassed Eastwood said. "But it's very impressive what they've been able to do with the technology."

Good old St. Louis not so good for Williams

ST. LOUIS — Tennessee Williams lived here, is buried here, even set his first successful play here. He also hated it here.

For that reason, scholars said Williams would have approved of the Postal Service's decision to hold a ceremony introducing a stamp for the playwright in Mississippi — not St. Louis.

The family lived in a crowded tenement. His sister began a long decline into mental illness.
