Michael Carter, the Lions' No. 1 seed, and Colin Smeeton will compete in singles. The No. 1 doubles pair of Smeeton and Dale Cathell will enter the doubles competition.

The tournament will feature teams from Harvard, Dartinouth, Penn and William and Mary. Teams from the South and Midwest will also be represented. Lion Coach Jan Bortner said each team will send its top two or three players.

"It's going to be an elite field," Bortner said. "These will be the top players for each respective school."

The Lions are coming off a strong showing at the ECAC tournament two weeks ago, when the team finished fifth. Bortner said he thought it was a good boost for the team.

The Penn Classic is also a stepping stone to the Rolex Eastern Regional in November. Bortner said that hopefully the players can do well in this tournament and go into the Rolex as seeded players.

"You're trying to get some good wins," Bortner said. "Ultimately, you want to be in a good position going into the Rolex."

Lady Lions will face Iowa today and then travel to Northwestern on Sunday.

By STEVE FEITL Collegian Sports Writer

When the field hockey team last met Iowa, the Lady Lions were searching for respect. They got little from the Lady Hawkeyes.

Iowa came to the Holuba Hall turf on Sept. 24 and outshot then-No. 16 Penn State 27-5, leading to a 2-0 shutout.

Now the fourth-ranked Lady Lions (10-6, 4-2 Big Ten) have found a home in the top five and are ready to try their hand at beating the No. 2 Lady Hawkeyes (12-2). That opportunity will come at 3 p.m. today at Grant Field in Iowa.

Penn State will also play at noon Sunday at No.8 Northwestern (10-

The Lady Lions at the time of the first Iowa contest stressed that they felt they could have played a much better fundamental game. And despite their inept shooting, they were still only down by two goals when the final buzzer sound-

"We're going to come in with a strong game plan against Iowa, she said. "We feel we are a much better team than when we played them the first time.'

An added obstacle for the Ladv Lions this time around is the prospect of playing on Grant Field in Iowa. The Lady Hawkeyes thrive on their home turf and Penn State's win there last season was the first in school history.

The Lady Lions want to return the favor for the September game and show Iowa what it is like to lose on their home turf, sophomore Meghann Spratt said.

"It's not about revenge, but more of pride," Morett added. "It's always tough to win at Iowa, but I feel really good about where we them this time."

The challenge of stealing a game in Iowa is not lost on senior Jen Coletta.

"It's going to be tough but we are not going to give up," she said. "Penn State never gives up."

The Lady Lions easily handled Northwestern easily in their first meeting on Sept. 22. The offense exploded for six goals and goaltender Shelly Meister collected the
