Celebrity Dirt

Reeve ready for another child

LOS ANGELES — He can't move his limbs and is still working on breathing on his own, but Christopher Reeve is ready to do one thing: produce a baby.

"We plan to, we do. It (conceiving a child) is not exactly the same, but it can be done. We just want to pick the right time," the actor's wife, Dana, told TV's "Extra" in an interview broadcast yesterday.

They already have a 3-year-old son, Will, and Christopher Reeve has two children — Matthew, 16, and Alexander, 12 — from a previous relationship.

As for his other activities, Dana said her husband has turned down several roles since he broke his neck in a fall during an equestrian competition in May.

WESTPORT, Conn. — Paul Newman, who races cars as a hobby, had little room to maneuver when an oncoming car sideswiped his Volvo wagon on a narrow road near his home last week.

The actor was at the wheel and his wife, Joanne Woodward, was in the passenger seat Thursday night when the car sideswiped them and knocked off a side mirror. The oncoming car also hit a second car and a utility pole.

A bone in Newman's hand was broken, assistant Darice O'Mara said. Woodward was unhurt.

The driver of the other car, Lloyd Saunders of Weston, was charged with failure to drive to the right and unreasonable speed.

Tupelo Coliseum: haven for country stars

TUPELO, Miss. — Some of country music's big stars have found a woodshed that fits their fame: the Tupelo Coliseum, where Reba McEntire has been rehearsing her upcoming tour.

"We chose Tupelo because last time we were here the folks were so nice to us and it's a great facility and the dressing rooms are just to die for," McEntire said Monday.

The Coliseum had enough room for McEntire's full-size arena stage, 94 crew members, 11 band members and 10 dancers — not to mention equipment to fill 16 big trucks.

Mother of Live bassist receiving prank calls

YORK, Pa. — Fame has its price, even for a rock 'n' roll mom.

The mother of Live bassist Patrick Dahlheimer filed a police complaint last week after a caller repeatedly hung up on her.

Using the star-69 service, which allows people to ring the last person who called them, Dorinda Dahlheimer said she reached the caller and learned he was trying to get back at her son.

The man claimed Live copied his songs and said he would keep calling her number to get even, her complaint said.
