Stickwomen dominate Big Ten awards

Oh, what a night. Last Thursday night to be specific. The Big Ten held a chest-thumping ceremony for the Penn State field hockey team at the conference's annual awards dinner. The Lady Lions took home four individual honors, and had eight players named to All-Big Ten squads.

Heather Gorlaski, last season's Big Ten Defensive Player of the Year, upped last year's accolade by being named the conference's Most Valuable Player. Gorlaski, a center/midfielder and team co-captain, has been a solid defender and dangerous offensive threat to opponents this season.

Forward Dawn Lammy, the conference's leading scorer, took home Offensive Player of the Year honors.

Sweeper Traci Anselmo nabbed Defensive Player of the Year accolades.

All three players were also first team All-Big Ten selections. They were joined by teammates Maegan Galie, Tracey Larson and Jamie Smith. Smith repeated her all-conference performance, having been named to the team last year, but Galie and Larson were first-time honorees.

For Sonje Volla and Angie Haas, twice is nice.

Lady booters receive No. 7 NCAA seeding

The Penn State women's soccer team received a first round bye and a seventh seed in this year's NCAA Tournament, the final of which will be played on Dec. 6 in Greensboro, N.C.

The Lady Lions are set to face the winner of Wednesday's match between Wright State and Big Ten rival Indiana.

"I would have been happy just to get the bye," said coach Pat Farmer. "Give the committee credit because they think strength of schedule has a lot to do with it."

Penn State's first game, will be held at 1 p.m. Sunday at Jeffrey Field.

This year's NCAA bracket was expanded to 48 from last year's 32. The Big Ten and Southeastern Conferences received a majority of the berths, each garnering six selections.

Hospitalized DiMaggio showing improvement

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — Baseball great Joe DiMaggio showed improvement Sunday following a relapse last week in his fight against pneumonia and a lung infection.

"He's not dying," said longtime friend and attorney Morris Engelberg, who complained about the media's portrayal of DiMaggio's illness.

"His X-rays the last two days show he's improved. He's lightly sedated, but he's sitting up. He's breathing much better."

Engelberg visited the Yankee Clipper yetsrday.

He visits every morning and evening and wants to dispel notions that his health is deteriorating.

Dear University Permit Holder:
Parking is taking a turn for the better for patrons attending Bryce Jordan Center Events. In the university's ongoing efforts to improve parking and traffic patterns for such events, an Events Parking Committee has been meeting for the past 18 months to recommend possible enhancements to the current system. The new system, which began in part on November 1 for the Billy Joel concert, enhanced traffic movement by separating patron groups and directing them to distinct parking lots.
Patrons attending an event who have not purchased a parking permit in advance will be directed to park in either Lot 44 located just east of the Bryce Jordan Center or in the Orange A Stadium lot located just west of Beaver Stadium. General public patrons are asked to use Porter Road and/or Park Avenue when attending an event. Persons with accessible needs will find accessible parking spaces available in Lot 44 and in the first row of the Stadium lot. If required, persons with special needs may be dropped-off at the turnaround in front of the Bryce Jordan Center. Pick-up at this point may occur fifteen minutes after the event unless otherwise directed by authorized traffic control personnel.
Another recommendation implemented to make traffic flow more efficient impacts university permit holders. The Orange B Shields parking lot will be reserved for current university permit holders attending Bryce Jordan Center Events. This lot and all other lots west of University Drive will be dedicated to university permit holders at no cost. Access to Orange B Shields is gained via Bigler Road to Curtin Road due to restricted access on University Drive. Lot 44 and Orange A Stadium lot are reserved as event lots and a $5.00 fee will be charged to all patrons upon entering.
Any questions regarding the changes to event parking may be directed to the Director of Transportation Services at (614) 863-4006 or to the Manager of Parking at (614) 865-1436. Parking information is also available on the Bryce Jordan Center web site at www.bjc.purdue.edu. Thank you in advance for your cooperation in helping us achieve our goal of making event parking a non-event!

Unbeaten swimmers crush Syracuse

By ANTHONY MILLER
Collegian Staff Writer

Depth always has been a key to success in team sports.

That philosophy was evident Saturday as the Penn State men's swimming team soundly defeated Syracuse 166-76 in front of a large Alumni Day crowd at McCoy Natatorium.

"We're a private university with only 20,000 students," Syracuse coach Lou Walker said. "We swam well, but we don't have the numbers they do. There is always more depth at state schools like Penn State."

The Nittany Lion diving team also defeated the Orangemen in dominating fashion, as Steve Bohner won the one-meter diving competition with a score of 305.03 and Chris Alderman won the three-meter competition with a score of 304.80.

In the swimming competition, the Lions (2-0, 1-0 Big Ten) had a first-place finisher in eight of the 10 individual events and won both relay events. Paul Monyok led the team by winning the 1,000-yard freestyle with a time of 9:25.91 and the 500-yard freestyle by putting up a 4:35.67 time.

"(The distance swimmers) have pounded out some hard work," coach Peter Brown said. "Their workouts have been intense so their times were very good."

Another of the Lions' top finishers was Josh Weaver, who set a new pool record of 1:48.70 in winning the 200-yard backstroke.

"It was a good swim for him," Brown said. "But as a freshman, he can't get too excited about it."

The two individual victories for Syracuse took place in the 200-yard individual medley and 200-yard butterfly. They were won by Daniel Karlsson (1:52.53) and Djordje

Filipovic (1:50.90), respectively.

In the 400-yard medley relay, Penn State teams took the first- and third-place spots. The first-place team finished with a time of 3:22.44. In the 400-yard freestyle relay, the Lions had first- and second-place finishes with times of 3:03.57 and 3:06.03.

Despite the dominance of Penn State, Walker was happy with his team's performance.

"Timewise, we were faster than last week (against Pittsburgh)," Walker said. "We competed well and raced tough. I am pleased with the performance."

Penn State now will prepare for its next meet Saturday on the road against Villanova. Meanwhile, Syracuse will take next weekend off.

"We had a decent team last year," Brown said. "We have a shot at being better this year. We have taken it up a notch."

Swimwomen sweep Orangewomen

By JENNIFER BARTOLINI
Collegian Staff Writer

The Penn State women's swimming team defeated Syracuse 151.5-91.5 at McCoy Natatorium Saturday. The Lady Lions (2-0, 1-0 Big Ten) finished first in eight events.

The women's diving team also edged out the Orangewomen, with junior Jaime Jaax winning both the one- and three-meter competitions.

Penn State coach Bill Dorenkott was pleased with his team's performance, but saw room for improvement.

"We were OK. This is decent swimming for November, but there was nothing outstanding," he said. "We need to work on our skills, our starts, turns and breakouts."

Penn State sophomore Katie Anderson thought the meet went well.

"(Dorenkott) didn't know what the outcome of the meet would be, but he knew he could put people in different places to try different things," she said.

Senior captain Arianne Adams again swam well, earning 27 points for the team.

Adams finished first in the 50-yard (24.26), the 100-yard freestyle (52.32) and the 500-yard freestyle (4:56.61).

In just her second Penn State meet, freshman Barb Mulshine finished first in the 200-yard individual medley with a time of 2:07.28, and the 200-yard breaststroke (2:22.65).

Mulshine described her Big Ten experience thus far as exciting. As for her two first-place finishes, she remained modest.

"I was really excited for the team," she said. "I knew we needed the points."

Anderson edged out a victory in the 200-yard freestyle with a time of 1:52.77. Syracuse's Erica Brobrek finished second at 1:52.78.

"You can't see the times from the pool," Anderson said.

"I didn't know it was that close until I was walking back. I was ahead of her for most of the race and that last lap she just pulled ahead. I was hurting so I was relieved I could get it done."

Syracuse senior Lynn Johnson-North added to her team's score with a first-place finish in the 1,000-yard freestyle with a time of 10:19.58.

Penn State junior diver Melanie Jackson was happy with Penn State's victory, but added that there is room for improvement amongst the divers.

"Overall, I think things went really well," she said. "A lot of promising things are going to happen. We just need to work on the consistency of our dives."

The women's swimming and diving team will join the men's team Saturday in a dual meet at Villanova.
