University Park Forecast for Monday, Oct. 18

After a beautiful October weekend, a drastic change in the weather is in store for Happy Valley this week. With the passage of a cold front today, the recent warmth will be replaced with chilly air. Later in the week, a fast-moving system will bring scattered showers to the area and contribute to the cooler temperatures. High pressure will bring warmer air into the region for the weekend.

Today  Breezy with AM sprinkles then gradual clearing High 59	Tonight  Mostly clear with patch frost Low 32	Tuesday  Mostly sunny High 50

Regional Forecast Map

How to interpret this map Shades of gray indicate the expected high temperatures for today. Today's forecasted high and tomorrow morning's low are also shown for selected cities.
Legend SU(Sunny), MS(Mostly Sunny), PS(Partly Sunny), MC(Mostly Cloudy), CY(Cloudy), RN(Rain), RS(Rain/Snow), SH(Showers), SN(Snow), SF(Snow Flurries), IC(Ice), TS(Thunderstorms), WY(Windy).

Weather Highlight

This past weekend, Hurricane Irene made its way up the Atlantic Coast much like hurricanes Dennis and Floyd, meaning eastern North Carolina has been soaked once again. As of Sunday evening, Irene was a minimal hurricane with winds of 75 mph moving to the NE at 13 mph. The forecasted track takes it away from the coast as it starts to increase in speed.

Buckeyes ————— Difference

 Kevin Thompson, who left the game in the second quarter with a mild separation in his throwing shoulder, hit Cerimele on a screen pass two plays later. It also set up a week full of heckling for McCoo. Despite finishing the game with a career-high 211 yards rushing, McCoo's inability to get in the end zone on his first big run of the day will be the thing remembered most by his teammates. "That doesn't bother me; it's part of the game," McCoo said. "I expect stuff for the rest of the week. I might have ran out of gas on the 20-yard line, but, hey, things happen." Led by outside linebacker LaVar Arrington, the Penn State defense made things happen. Courtesy of an aggressive pass rush, five different Lions were able to sack Bellisari eight times. All-Big Ten tailback Michael Wiley was held to a season-low 18 yards rushing on 10 carries. Ohio State completed less than 33 percent of its passes and was intercepted once by Lions safety James Boyd. When the clock had expired, Penn State's defense held the Buckeyes to just 143 yards of total offense and opened the eyes of the Buckeyes coaching staff — but apparently not their mouths. "They got a good defense. Hey, thanks a lot, guys," Ohio State coach John Cooper said as he stormed out of the visitors' media room.

 Prior to the community service needs and the university has a lot of volunteers, and our goal is to bring those two together as best we can do," said Mohamed Iqbal (senior-biochemistry and molecular biology), a student coordinator for the AT&T Center for Service Leadership. This is the first year Penn State has worked with another university during Make a Difference Week. Last year Ohio State collaborated with Northwestern University for a similar event. "I see this as something that will happen every year, if not between Ohio State (then) with another school in the Big Ten. We are grateful to Ohio State for getting us on board with this great idea," said Stephen Rupprecht, assistant director of greek and community life and one of the project's organizers.

Prior to the community service activities Saturday morning, Ohio State students met with Penn State students for a pep rally in the White Building. Cheerleaders from both schools were present, performing cheers and motivating students to get excited about the game later that day. The vice presidents and athletic directors from Penn State and Ohio State spoke to the students about the importance of putting competition aside and working to serve the community. "One of the things we believe in very strongly here at Penn State is making a difference outside the classroom," said Tim Curley, athletic director at Penn State. Andy Geiger, director of athletics at Ohio State, said the activity links Big Ten universities outside of sports events.

Lions' Fields escapes harm in postgame car accident

Penn State wide receiver Chafie Fields was involved in a minor car accident about an hour after the Ohio State football game Saturday. A car driven by John Pristas, 29, of Pittsburgh collided with Fields' vehicle at about 4:30 p.m. Saturday on the 300 block of Vairo Blvd., said Ferguson Twp. police officer Brian Sprinkle. Sprinkle said Pristas, in town for the game, failed sobriety tests and will face a DUI charge this week, Sprinkle said. Fields, the Lions' leading receiver this season with 21 catches and four touchdowns, was not injured, he said. The senior wideout had one reception for 13 yards in the Lions' 23-10 win against the Buckeyes. Earlier in the season, Fields caught the game-winning pass as Penn State downed Miami, 27-23. Pristas and passengers James Fryer, 30, and Joseph Muczynski, 26, all from the Pittsburgh area, were extricated from the vehicle. Fryer was taken by ambulance to Centre Community Hospital, where he remains hospitalized. Muczynski suffered minor injuries. —by Ryan Hockensmith
