

Penn State beat Michigan State in the annual blood drive competition
LOCAL, Page 3.

The gang is back
Rascal Flatts will perform again at the BJC in January
LOCAL, Page 5.

Personality 'Battle'
John Mayer's newest effort proves sweet but disingenuous
ARTS IN REVIEW, Page 14.

The Daily Collegian

psu.collegian.com

Published independently by students at Penn State

Vol. 110 No. 64

Friday, Nov. 20, 2009

30 cents off campus

Peter Tesonero/Collegian

Navorro Bowman (18) puts pressure on Michigan State quarterback Brian Hoyer (7) during the 2008 game between the Lions and the Spartans.

Lions to end Big Ten play against MSU

By Matt Fortuna
COLLEGIAN STAFF WRITER

A Penn State win over Michigan State will give the Nittany Lions a 4-0 road record, potentially clinch a berth in a BCS bowl game and salvage a two-loss season that began with national title aspirations.

Right, Joe Paterno?
"You know, you guys know more than I do," the coach said. "The only thing I know is we're playing Michigan State this week. Don't make a darn bit of difference. You guys speculate all you want. If we don't beat Michigan State, none of that makes any ... none of it's important. So I don't waste time with it."

Paterno is simply preparing Penn State for 3:30 p.m. Saturday, when it will take on Michigan State (6-5, 4-3 Big Ten) inside Spartan Stadium in the two teams' regular-season finale.

Aside from it being Paterno's last game as an 82-year-old — his birthday's Dec. 21 — or his team's chance to defend the Land Grant Trophy — a four-foot-tall, 50-pound keepsake given to the winner of this rivalry — the game presents a chance for the Lions to go undefeated on the road for the first time since their perfect 1994 season.

See MSU, Page 2.

Seat requirements change

A $100 donation must be made by Nittany Lion Club members to keep their current seats in Beaver Stadium.

By Matt Fortuna
COLLEGIAN STAFF WRITER

Associate Athletic Director Greg Myford said Thursday the proposed seating plan for Beaver Stadium will reward committed alumni with improved seat locations. But Penn State's student body president said that may come at the cost of students.

Currently, there is a $100 minimum donation for Nittany Lion Club members to retain their seats from the previous year. Under the new proposal — to be mailed out sometime after Penn State's regular season ends and to take effect in 2011 — seat position will play a role in each club member's expected donation.

Myford

"This is built on options," Myford said. "The vast majority of Nittany Lion Club members will stay in their current location because they currently meet the new requirements."

Those who do not meet new annual giving levels, Myford said, would simply move into less expensive seats. But those who have contributed heavily and have remained in less-than-desirable locations could get better seats.

"The focus now is that everyone is negatively impacted," Myford said. "But the positive is rewarding supporters." See SEATS, Page 2.

Aardsma Murder Causes Fear University Sets Reward for Murder Information

Forty years ago,
a string of headlines.
But no answers.

addition to people are in the area. By that stopped to of the lib around Mis forta, includ

Betsy Aardsma's death still a mystery in 2009 | Page 7

Little progress made in Aardsma query

By BARBI STINE

simple: matter to find out who did it." Unfortunately, he add-

1969 murder goes unsolved

Spirituality, music fuse at venue

By Kevin Sullivan
COLLEGIAN STAFF WRITER

TobyMac's performance at the Bryce Jordan Center on Thursday night fused hip-hop, soul, rock 'n' roll, folk, and most of all, a message of the love of Jesus Christ.

The group's four vocalists and six musicians brought their wide-ranging talents to the stage but kept the diverse approaches focused on this message throughout the set.

"From time to time we all make mistakes but don't get it twisted — we're all in this together," said TobyMac, whose real name is Kevin Michael McKeehan. "You may lose your way but don't lose your soul because your soul has been bought with a price. You don't have to trudge through all that junk to get to God, just turn and he's right there."

The band's high energy performance took the lights and the tempo down after the speech and

Michael Felletter/Collegian

TobyMac holds onto a microphone stand during his performance on Thursday night at the Bryce Jordan Center. He is headlining the Winter Wonder Slam Tour, which also features Relient K and Stephanie Smith.

TobyMac sang the slow "Lose Your Soul," a departure from the set's mostly rap oriented content. The beginning of the set See VENUE, Page 2.

To view a photo gallery of performances by TobyMac, Relient K and B. Reith: psu.collegian.com

4,000 more doses of vaccine arrive

By Laura Nichols and Somer Wiggins
COLLEGIAN STAFF WRITERS

Dec. 3

Primarily vaccine appointments with some walk-ins available

Dec. 4

Likely all walk-in appointments for student vaccinations

University Health Services (UHS) has received 4,000 additional doses of the injectable H1N1 vaccine, UHS Marketing Manager Beth Collitt said today.

The vaccine will be available to students on Dec. 3 and 4, Collitt said.

Dec. 3 will consist primarily of vaccine appointments with some walk-in times available, and Dec. 4 will likely be all walk-ins, Associate Director of UHS Doris Guanowsky said. The vaccine will be free to students, although organizers have not yet released where it will be distributed.

Director of University Health Services Margaret Spear said she is excited UHS has received more injectable doses but is concerned student interest in the vaccine has waned.

When information on the flu was first developing, many more students expressed interest in or sought out the vaccine. "It's kind of out of sight, out of mind," Spear said.

While vaccination clinics will not be held until after the Thanksgiving break, Spear said UHS will e-mail parents to alert them to the available vaccines. She hopes students' families will encourage them to receive the vaccine once they return to campus.

This shipment is only the second batch of injectable vaccines See VACCINE, Page 2.