New Year Equals New Changes

The start of a new year brings the promise of change. Resolutions are being made and new images are being created. Here at Career Services, we are doing the same! When you visit the Career Services website, you will see a brand new design that is user-friendly and informative. While the features you have come to expect remain intact, we have added cleaner navigation and more information to assist you in achieving your professional goals. Some of the highlights include:

- Improved access to Nittany Lion Career Network – the primary online resource for connecting students with employers
- Strategies to enhance your resume and carry out a successful internship/job search

- Career Library resources, such as Vault and Going Global, are readily available with the click of a mouse
- Online workshops addressing resume prep, the job search, and interviewing
- Career guides and handouts focused on specific industries

Though information is now more accessible, nothing can replace a one-on-one consultation available to you every day with a Career Counselor. Utilize the website as a resource, and visit the drop-in counselor to have your questions addressed in a personal and confidential setting.

Of course, the upgraded resources and enhancements are not limited to students. Faculty and staff, employers, parents, and alumni can also benefit from expanded features on the website, with a specific page targeted to the individual needs of each population. Learn how to request a workshop for your class or organization, post a job opening, or connect with Penn State students through on-campus interviewing, guest presentations, or online via LionLink, Facebook, Twitter or LinkedIn.

No matter how you are connected to Penn State, visit the new website and check out all it has to offer.

Have suggestions? Send them our way through Ask Career Services on our "About Us" page or AskCareerServices@sa.psu.edu

But wait, there's more. Not only do we have a new website for 2010, but we also have more ways for you to be and stay connected to Career Services and potential employers. Check out the following and "join in" today.
