THE 411 ON JOB CATEGORIES

Fall Career Days, like life, is not divided by majors. Choose job categories that suit your career interests, not necessarily your major.

For instance, say you are a marketing major looking to go into real estate. Marketing falls under several job categories, but you noticed that marketing doesn't fall under insurance and real estate, your true passion. Because marketing isn't listed under insurance and real estate doesn't mean that companies hiring for that job category will not hire you.

Search for what you are interested in!

Go online to view the employer database and search by the job categories best suits your interests. Also, check out the "Employer Snapshot," which is a quick list of employers and booth locations, updated daily Monday - Friday.

ACE THE INTERVIEW!

Interviewers have three major criteria in mind:

Can you do the job? (skills)
Will you do the job? (interest/ motivation)
Are you a good fit with the organization? (personal qualities)

Sample questions for each format can be found on the Career Services website. If you would like to set up a mock interview, please stop by the Bank of America Career Services Center or call (814) 865 - 2377.

YOU'VE GONE TO THE FAIR...NOW WHAT?

Apply online. Many recruiters will be on the lookout for your résumé online as the next required step in the application process. By presenting yourself at the Fair and talking to recruiters, they are more likely to be looking for your application.

Send your thank-you notes. Use thank-you notes to express your continued interest in specific companies. Be sure to personalize your thank-you note to the recruiter with whom you spoke at the Fair. Include details about the company that impressed you or that were of particular interest. If you choose to e-mail the note, make sure it retains the same degree of professionalism you would use in a hard-copy version.

Attend your College's career orientation sessions or career fairs.

Register with Nittany Lion Career Network for full-time positions. Registering gives you access to job listings, on-campus interviews, résumé posting, and more.

Network with anyone who will give you information on career opportunities. While these people might not have specific information on job openings, they might refer you to influential people.
