

Climate change, aging populations, earthquakes, tsunamis, computer crime, global recession. Take your pick.

Risky place, Planet Earth. But as the world's leading reinsurer, risk is our business. Risk in every shape and form, in every walk of life. As a graduate at Swiss Re, your job will mean coming to grips with all those global issues that make life today so risky - and so challenging. Whether your discipline is science, philosophy, law, finance, medicine, or just about anything else for that matter, we're looking for exceptional people who are up for spending 18 of the most intense months of their life in our fast-track graduate programme. At Swiss Re, risk is the raw material we work with, but what our clients value are the opportunities we create. And - hey - this could be yours.

We look forward to visiting with you at our October 18 Information Session (with Swiss Re Client Executive and former engineer, Mauro Dudine) and at our on-campus interviews on October 19.
