Students speak out in silence

By Micah Wintner COLLEGIAN STAFF WRITER

For Natalie Plumb, Tuesday was a day to stand up for the rights of those unable to stand up for themselves. Plumb (junior-journalism) participated in the Pro-Life Day of Solidarity, a project that aims to educate others about the consequences of abortion. Students who participated in the event went through the day with red tape over their mouths, symbolizing the silenced voices of aborted babies. Students participating passed out flyers explaining what they Life president, said the club is were doing, since they were unable to explain vocally.

According to the flyer, 4,000 fetuses a year "have their lives ended in the name of choice.'

religious organization based out of was going on," DiBello said. Ohio.

Ethical Reform and held up pic- were not talking would break their tures of aborted babies to show silence if it was necessary. how abortion is similar to the Holocaust and genocide, Students break your silence and tell [peofor Life Vice President David Ogar said.

Ogar (senior-health policy and administration) said Students for Life did not show the pictures this year because the cost of bringing the Center for Bio-Ethical Reform back to campus was too high.

Despite the controversy caused by the pictures last year, Ogar said they will be back soon.

"I believe the pictures are worth a thousand words," he said. Stephanie DiBello, Students for against anything that "hinders people's lives from conception to natural life," such as suicide and abortion.

"[The event] would be a success The event was hosted by Penn if we got some people to just think State Students for Life, but is a about the issue a little bit more if project of Pro-Life Ministries, a they saw us and found out what

DiBello said some students Last year Students for Life part- opted to fast instead of tape their nered with the Center for Bio-mouths, and some students who To e-mail reporter: maw5438@psu.edu

"Sometimes it makes sense to ple] about it," she said. "It makes more sense to talk if they're going to miss out if you don't say anything.'

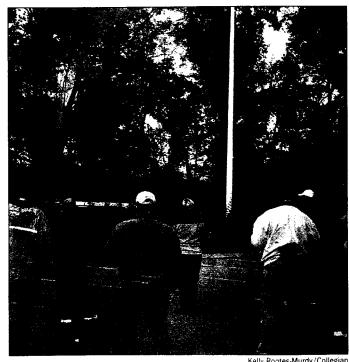

According to the event's official website, 3,847 colleges were registered for the event. Registration was not limited to the United States, and included participants from Ukraine and Australia, among others.

Bryan Kemper, president of Stand True Ministries, said the Pro-Life Day of Solidarity has been going on for seven years -Penn State was one of the first schools to register for the event when it first started.

Kemper said he was pleased with the number of colleges registered for the event.

He said he received word that his organization was responsible for seven canceled abortions Tuesday.

SMOKE SIGNALS

The Penn State Smoke School truck gives a demonstration to a group looking to get their smoke reading certification. The truck was used in a course at the Penn Stater Conference Center.

Observers: Onorato won debate

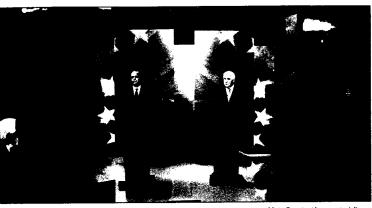

By Peter Jackson SOCIATED PRESS

Pa. HARRISBURG. nominee Dan Democratic Onorato won the final debate of Pennsylvania's gubernatorial campaign on technical points, political observers said Tuesday.

But he failed to weaken Republican rival Tom Corbett's status as front-runner or shatter the monotony of the race, they added.

Onomia, the elected executive of Allegheny County, and Corbett, the state attorney general, squared off for the third and last time in Philadelphia on Monday

'Onorato's a better debater. He has more facility with the language. He has more command of formance, Onorato presented the issues. Corbett is just steady as she goes — cautious and very plainspoken," said G. Terry Madonna, a pollster at Franklin & Marshall College in Lancaster.

Candidates for Pennsylvania governor Dan Onorato, left, and Tom Corbett debate at the WPVI-TV studio in Philadelphia on Monday.

Two weeks out from the Nov. 2 election, Onorato "... needs something that startles and motivates his voters" if he hopes to win, Madonna said.

Christopher Borick, a professor and pollster at Muhlenberg College in Allentown, said neither candidate was "clearly superior," but Onorato claimed a tactical advantage.

In terms of a head-to-head perhimself better than Corbett. ... But in terms of the big picture ... Tom Corbett could be very satisfied with the way the night went," Borick said.

In Monday night's hourlong debate in Philadelphia, the candidates broke little new ground.

"Each of them has a goal," Madonna said. "Corbett's goal is to make no mistakes, do no harm. Onorato's goal is to try to make the differences big enough to move voters, to change the campaign.'

Onorato questioned Corbett's repeated tweaking of his no-newtaxes pledge and charged that Corbett's opposition to a new tax on natural gas drilling reflects the more than $350,000 the industry has contributed to his campaign this year.

Military to accept openly gay recruits

By Anne Flaherty ASSOCIATED PRESS

SAN DIEGO — The military is accepting openly gay recruits for the first time in the nation's history, even as it tries in the courts to slow the movement to abolish its "don't ask, don't tell" policy:

Some gay activist groups were planning to send people to enlist at recruiting stations to test the Pentagon's Tuesday announce-

Meanwhile, a federal judge in California whose ruling last week brought the 17-year policy the closest yet to being overturned was likely to reject the government's latest effort to halt her order telling the military to stop enforcing the law.

The Justice Department will likely appeal if she does not suspend her order.

The Defense Department has said it would comply with U.S. District Judge Virginia Phillips' order and had frozen any discharge cases. But at least one case was reported of a man being turned away from an Army recruiting office in Austin, Texas.

spokeswoman Pentagon Cynthia Smith said recruiters had been given top-level guidance to accept applicants who say they are gay.

Recruiters also have been told to inform potential recruits that the moratorium on enforcement of the policy could be reversed at any time, if the ruling is appealed or the court grants a stay, she

While activists were going to enlist, gay rights groups were continuing to tell service members to avoid revealing that they are gay, fearing they could find themselves in trouble should the law be reinstated.

An Air Force officer and cofounder of a gay service member support group called OutServe said financial considerations are playing a big role in gay service members staving quiet.

Stay up to date on deadlines and promotions!

www.twitter.com/mycollegianad

WE TREAT INJURIES AND ILLNESSES FOR ALL AGES.

+ JUST WALK IN.

F ALWAYS A PHYSICIAN ON SITE

 MOST INSURANCE ACCEPTED BUT NOT REQUIRED

+ X-RAYS, LABS, EKGs, IVs, MINOR SURGERY.

Goday great care just got faster.

We're proud to announce the opening of our new location in State College. With no appointments necessary and convenient hours, we're here for you and your family delivering the best urgent care, fast. So you can quickly get on with the rest of your day.

Open Every Day 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

STATE COLLEGE

1613 North Atherton Street Across from Walmart

medexpress.com 814-238-1066

It starts with one visit. OPEN HOUSE

Sunday October 24 9 a.m.-3 p.m.

FOR INFORMATION AND TO REGISTER

www.pct.edu

degrees that work."

Pennsylvania College of Technology

PENNSTATE

Penn College* is a special mission affiliate of Penn State, committed to applied technology education.