over by shades of pink Tuesday when Victoria's Secret representatives hosted the PINK Fall Campus Tour.

A growing crowd of about 50 students gathered around the PINK popup shop at 10 a.m. and waited to purchase items from the Penn State line, the new fall fashion line and regular PINK items.

PINK Campus Representative Michelle Turli (senior-advertising and public relations) said the pop-up shop offered clothing that wold make students stand out.

"It wasn't raining. It wasn't snowing. The Pollock Halls quad was taken The weather is pretty normal," she said. "If they came back in two months when it was 20 degrees out, then it would be a different story.'

Kate Olsen (junior-communications arts and sciences) bought a sweatshirt from the Penn State PINK line. "The Penn State line breaks it up,"

Olsen said. "You have more options than what you can normally find here.'

Turli said new thermals would be a warm fashion choice for football games, she added.
