PRINCE OF POPULAR LECTURERS

L. B. WICKERSHAM.

NO POPULAR lecturer in America surpasses L. B. Wickersham in his appeal to the average audience. Scholarly, yet never didactic; humorous, yet never clownish; uplifting, yet never dry and uninteresting, his addresses take hold of the heart strings. His record of return dates has never been surpassed in the Lyceum, 65 per cent of his engagements being in towns where he has appeared from one to four times, and his fund of material is practically inexhaustible. The late Sam Jones, who knew a lecturer when he heard him, said: "When committees ask me about a lecture, I tell them if they want a man who will do everybody good—and do them good forever—get Wickersham." Committees have been "getting Wickersham," on the advice of the lamented Jones, for years, and none has ever yet been disappointed. He is a man of spotless character, lofty purpose and great natural endowments; magnetic, brilliant, sympathetic and humorous. His lectures are strikingly original, built around some fundamental truth, and gain added charm from his rich, musical voice and dramatic delivery. To hear Wickersham is to hear the Prince of Popular Lecturers.

An Ancient Phrase.

The frequently quoted "I do not pin my faith upon your sleeve" is traced in sentiment to feudal times, when the partisans of a leader used to wear his badge pinned upon their sleeves. Sometimes these badges were changed for specific purposes, and persons learned to doubt; hence the phrase, "You wear the badge, but I do not intend to pin my faith on your sleeve."—New York American.

What Hurt Most.

"Why are you crying so bitterly, little man?" asked the kind hearted old lady as she patted the tearful youngster on his head.
 "Bill Jones hit me on the nose," was the boy's reply.
 "Did he hurt you much?"
 "Naw; he didn't hurt me at all, but he ran away before I could hit him back."—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

It Changed His Mind.

A switching engine prevented a Chicago man from committing suicide the other day. With a rope around his neck and fastened to the rails of the Rock Island railroad he was crawling between the ties, prepared to jump from a viaduct, when a switching engine came along and cut the rope. He had lost his chance of hanging himself, he thought better of his project.

Good Advice.

"What would you say," said the prophet of woe, "if I were to tell you that in a very short space of time all the rivers in this country would dry up?"
 "I would say," replied the patient man, "go and do thou likewise."—Stray Stories.

HEALTH AND WEDLOCK.

Conditions That Should Be Studied Before It is Too Late.

Marriage, from any point of view, is of course a serious proposition, as it may bless or wreck two human lives, if not more. Not the least important of these points of view is that of the health of both parties to the contract. The health commissioner of Pennsylvania in an official bulletin gives the following advice to those about to marry:

"First, a man should not marry unless into a family with a history of reasonable longevity, free from hereditary disease. He should not marry a woman advanced in life, delicate, feeble or afflicted with any inherited deformity. The age most proper for women in this climate is nineteen or twenty years and for men twenty-four or twenty-five years. Women of a nervous temperament, those who are extremely irritable, hysterical, subject to convulsions or to epilepsy from organic disease, ought to avoid matrimony.

"In this country marriages before the ages of twenty-five and nineteen respectively are contraindicated, because, as a rule, previous to these periods of life the body is not fully developed, the different functions are not perfect, and any offspring developed by them in their immature condition must be deficient in vital power."

Genuine Wit.

Benjamin Moore, the second bishop of New York, was a man noted in his day for his ready wit—a quality that his wife apparently shared with him. A dinner was given by some one of Gouverneur Morris' friends when he was about to depart for Europe. Bishop Moore and his wife were of the party. In the course of the conversation Mr. Morris observed that since he was going abroad he had made his will and, turning to Bishop Moore, said to him:

"My reverend friend, I have bequeathed to you my complete stock of impudence."

Bishop Moore replied: "Sir, you are not only very kind, but you are very generous. You have left me by far the largest portion of your estate."

Mrs. Moore immediately added, "My dear, you have come into possession of your inheritance remarkably soon."—Youth's Companion.
