An Old Larch Tree.
Italy can boast of a larch tree the age of which is estimated to be 2,000 years. It is situated on the northern bank of Mont Chetip in the direction of the huts of Pian Veni, above Courmayeur, a few steps from the footpath that skirts the limits of the meadow land. Due allowance being made for the extreme slowness with which the larch grows, for the altitude above sea level (1,650 meters) at which it is rooted and for its northerly exposure in the near neighborhood of the glacier, where the cycle of its development is barely five months every year, this venerable larch, untouched alike by woodman's ax and thunderbolt, cannot be less than 2,000 years old.—Scotsman

Handling Coins.
Coin handling machines have reached such a degree of perfection that a machine will take a bucketful of coins of all denominations, sort them out, pick out all the mutilated pieces and reject them, do all the others up in neat bundles of standard sizes—such as twenty-five pennies in a bundle—count them, add them all up together, and print out a slip of paper on which is printed the total sum in dollars and cents. An electric motor turns the work that does the work.

Overheard.
"Finker has placed an old railroad sign. 'Stop, look and listen!' at the entrance to his driveway."
"What's the idea?"
"His wife is running the touring car."—Judge.

Her Mean Brother.
She—Alme's twin brother annoys her dreadfully. He—How? She—You see, everybody knows they are twins, and poor Alme can't pass for only twenty-four because he tells people he's thirty!—Exchange.

Very Temperate.
"He was very temperate. He got drunk only once a week." remarked a friend of a man who had been a member of the Temperance Society.

A Demonstration.
"I distinctly saw you with a policeman's arms around you."
"Oh, yes, mum! Wasn't it nice of him? He was showin' me how to hold a burglar if I found one in the house."—Life.

Descriptive.
"Is she homely?"
"Well, I wouldn't say that exactly. But after taking one look at her no one would ever think of asking why she had never married."—Detroit Free Press.
