

ALLIES CLAIM ALL BUT TWO TURK FORTS

ANGLO-FRENCH FLEET BOMBARDS
DARDANELLES FROM BOTH SIDES.

THE TURKS ARE CONFIDENT

Say Only Weakest Forts Affected
While Impregnable Inner Defenses Are Intact

CONSTANTINOPLE PREPARED

London, March 5—The allied fleets Thursday morning resumed their bombardment of the inner forts of the Dardanelles, according to a dispatch received by the Reuters Telegram Company from its correspondent at Athens.

A British officer of the allied fleet is quoted in the dispatch as saying that only two forts now remain intact.

While British battleships are battering Forts Nos. 8 and 9 in the narrows, French warships from the Gulf of Saros are bombarding the Turkish positions at Bulair.

The British Admiralty issued the following statement late tonight:

Shelling Continues.

"The attack upon the fortresses in the Dardanelles continued yesterday (Wednesday). The Admiral has not yet reported on the results obtained within the straits.

"Outside the Dublin demolished an observation station on the Gallipoli peninsula and the Sapphire bombarded guns and troops at various points in the Gulf of Adramyti.

"Six modern field guns at Fort B have been destroyed, bringing the total number of guns demolished up to 40.

"French battleships bombarded the Bulair forts and wrecked the Kavak bridge."

Berlin (via London, March 4—The Constantinople correspondent of the Frankfurter Zeitung sends his paper an interview with Enver Pasha, which is as follows:

"The action which began February 19 so far has achieved nothing more than heavy damage to some forts at the extreme entrance to the Dardanelles. On the second day the bombardment overturned six guns, killing four men and wounding 14, but on the first day only an observation officer was killed and one man was wounded. "Of the overturned guns, three were again placed in position on the following morning.

Outer Forts Weakest.

"The outer fortifications are the oldest in Turkey and their speedy subjection always has been counted on. The real defense line lies further in, where the difficult waterways deprives ships of the power to maneuver freely and obliges them to move in a narrow defile which is commanded by artillery and mines. The real defenses of the Dardanelles have not been affected in any way by what has occurred so far."

Washington, March 5—American Ambassador Henry Morgenthau is endeavoring to arrange for the definition of a neutral zone at Constantinople for the protection of foreigners and non-combatants in the event that the allied forces reach the Ottoman capital. Extensive measures already have been taken by the Turkish government for the protection of foreign and native population, it was said.

TWO COUNTY TOWNS ARE PROSPERING

Homer City and Marion Center
Are Working on Improvements to Benefit Them

THEY HAVE BEEN NEEDED

Two Indiana county towns that heretofore had been living sort of quiet lives, with an occasional political fight to cause a little excitement, are having a grand awakening and before long we expect to hear a much better report from the two communities. Reference is made to Marion Center and Homer City.

A petition has been received from Marion Center residents asking for aid in the building of a new road through the borough. A strange matter in connection with the petition is the fact that it is the first appeal for state and county aid for road making ever received from that section of the county lying north of White township.

The proposed new road would extend from the borough line, through the business section to Manor street, and then about 1500 feet along the Punxsutawney road. A special election will be held in May to secure the consent of the taxpayers for the bonding of the borough in a sufficient sum of money to take care of the expenses. Coupled with the new road will be the electric light and water systems and the town will boom.

Down at Homer City active steps are being taken for the placing of a macadamized road over the main street of the town, an improvement that has long been needed. The electric lighting of the town will be accomplished within a short time and it is said that a water system may be the next improvement to be placed. All this improving is costing money, but the taxpayers are evidently of the intention that it is a paying investment, as there has been no very serious objections to them.

Many True Bills Found by March Grand Jury

The March term of civil and criminal court opened Monday and from the list of cases for both of the courts already filed the sessions will be prolonged possibly two weeks over the allotted time. Monday morning Judge S. J. Telford heard the reports of the constables. Nothing of any decided interest was reported by the officers of the peace.

Charles Travis, of North Point, who was arrested on a charge of aggravated assault and battery, and who pleaded guilty in court last week, appeared before Judge Telford Monday morning for sentence. He was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution, a fine of $10 and undergo imprisonment in the Allegheny county workhouse for a period of one year.

A true bill on a charge of larceny was returned by the grand jury Tuesday morning in the case of the Commonwealth against Harry and William Palmer.

The grand jury also returned two true bills against Clyde Carney, one for assault with intent to kill and the other for burglary. Carney will be remembered as the man who was apprehended in the attempt to rob the home of Mrs. Shilling in Buffington township, and shot the woman while he was making his escape. After recovering in a Johnstown hospital Mrs. Shilling came to Indiana and positively identified Carney as the man who shot her.
