

8,000 Turk Troops Are Taken on Troy Plain

London, April 29. — A dispatch to the "Express," from Athens states that a demonstration by an allied landing party on the historic plains of Troy has resulted in the capture of 8,000 Turks. At other points numerous prisoners have been taken.

London, April 29. — With the battle in Flanders seemingly at an end, except for the attacks which the allies are making to recover the rest of the ground which they lost last week, the interest of the public has turned to the Dardanelles where French and British forces have been landed and, with the co-operation of the fleet, are making attempts to force the straits and open the way to Constantinople.

Sporadic attacks characterize the campaign in Belgium and France, and on the whole the troops have remained comparatively quiet in the last 24 hours. The Germans have been repulsed at two points, by the Belgians north of Ypres and by the French at Les Eparges.

Officers Were Brave

Milan, Italy, April 29. — Details of the and of the French cruiser Leon Gambetta, torpedoed and sunk by the Austrian submarine U 5, in the Strait of Otranto Monday night, tell of heroism by her commissioned officers. Practically the entire starboard side of the cruiser was blown out when the Austrian torpedo hit her almost amidship. The officers rushed to the bridge and the engines were started full steam ahead in an effort to make shoal water. It was plain from the start that this would be impossible, as within less than a couple of minutes the boiler rooms were flooded and the machinery stopped. The engine room crew drew most of the fires to prevent boiler explosions.

"The crew was assembled at quarters and the order given, 'Every man for himself.' All of the commissioned officers assembled on the bridge as soon as it was certain that the cruiser must go down and as she listed just before turning over they united in the cry: 'Vive la France!'"

A number of the bodies of the victims have been recovered and buried with full military honors in the cemetery at Brindisi.

Naturalization Fees Decision Is Rendered Against Court Clerks

Philadelphia, April 27. — The 50 per cent of the fees contributed by aliens seeking naturalization papers in the courts of this state which the federal law authorizes court clerks "to retain," belongs, under the laws of the state, to the counties and not to the individual clerks or prothonotaries, according to a ruling of the supreme court in a decision handed down today by Justice Stewart. The decision reverses the judgement of the common pleas court of Schuylkill county, which had decided a test case in favor of John W. Reese, prothonotary of that county.

Justice Stewart [held that under the state constitution and acts of assembly, prothonotaries and court clerks being salaried officers, receive such half of the fees collected only as trustees for their respective counties, and not for their own personal benefit and use.
