INDIANA, PA. SATURDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1915

FIVE CENTS

HALLOWE'EN... WILL IT BE CELEBRATED HERE?

Time For Some One To Get Busy.

If Indiana is going to celebrate Hallowe'en it is time to get busy on arrangements. In the past the Hallowe'en celebration has proved one of the best which the town has fostered, and it would not be proper to let it go by the board this year.

In the first place, it is an inexpensive affair, costing less than any other jollification in which the townspeople might indulge.

It is said that Thursday evening in the Municipal building the following assembled to suggest ways for making the proposed celebration a success:

Burgess J. Irven Shaffer, Squire J. A. Crossman, W. Pearl Walker, B. H. Lichteberger, Alex M. Stewart, J. Blair Sutton, Ira A. Myers and Robert E. Young.

Commerce Chamber Made Money at Encampment Here

With all but a few scattered bills paid, the Indiana Chamber of Commerce announces that it has a balance of something over $500, resulting from concessions at the grounds during the recent encampment of the second brigade National Guard of Pennsylvania.

A smoker and business meeting will be held the evening of the first Tuesday in November and William Smedley of Philadelphia, secretary of the state chamber of commerce will be the guest of the local men.

Another Fatal Automobile Accident

Thomas P. Kirkendall, an aged resident of Saltsburg, was struck and almost instantly killed by an automobile, said to have been driven by Andy Tressler, of Spring Church, while returning from his farm to his home.

He was returning on horseback and on being struck by the machine was knocked off his horse sustaining injuries which caused his death shortly afterward. The machine was ditched and rolled down an embankment into a field.

Indiana Countians In Great Parade

A large number of Indiana and Blairsville men took part in the parade of the Holy name society in Pittsburg Sunday. There were more than 30,000 men in line.

X-Ray Test for a Local Boy

James, the three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Fisher, of South Sixth street, was taken to Pittsburgh, where he will undergo an X-Ray examination. He was taken ill a week ago and the examination is to determine whether he has infantile paralysis or rheumatism.

CIVIL COURT OPENS

Civil court of the September term opened Monday with the calling to trial of the case of W. L. Neal, of Young township, against the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg Railway Company. The jury was taken to view the land, as it is a trespass for right of way taken by the defendant company through the plaintiff's farm.

Gust Bikanish, who had been arrested on a charge of selling liquor without a license, pleaded guilty and was sentenced on Monday to pay the costs of prosecution, a fine of $500 and undergo imprisonment in the county jail for a period of three months.

Expenses of County Candidates

It cost the Hon. J. N. Langham of this place $1,622.62 to win the nomination for judge of Indiana county at the recent primary election, according to his expense account filed here. Judge S. J. Telford, one of his opponents, spent $191.50, and E. Walker Smith the other opponent spent $150.20.

A number of the candidates for the various county offices spent less than the $50 limit, and did not file accounts.

Harry A. Boggs, the Republican nominee for sheriff, spent $316.34. J. C. Connor, an opponent, spent $232.18.

Candidates for commissioner who have filed accounts are S. J. Sides, $102.20; D. P. Bothel $142.33; J. M. Marshall $105.20; Adam P. Lowry $96.60.

F. M. Smith, the Republican nominee for county treasurer, spent $323.79. The amounts used by some of his opponents were: Walter H. Jackson, $200.36; W. W. Brillhart, $117.75; J. L. Shaffer, $105.71.

Joseph W. Weaver, the only candidate for register and recorder to file an account, spent $110.76.

William M. Liggett, successful candidate for district attorney, spent $213.55, while his opponent James W. Mack, spent $233.65.

Two Aged Residents Of Cherrytree Dead

Cherrytree lost two prominent citizens by death recently when E. P. Baker, aged 79 years, a lifelong resident of that vicinity, and Aaron Brillhart, aged 66 years, a well-known farmer residing near the historic town, died of general debility.

Creekside Woman Hurt In Dynamite Outrage Is Dead

Mrs. Frank Antonucci, injured when her home was dynamited by alleged Black Handers Thursday morning, died Saturday morning in the Indiana Hospital.

Unremitting search is being made for the perpetrators but there were no new developments today, although the state police and detectives have a well defined clue and hope to be successful in bringing the guilty parties to justice.

Elkin Leaves All to Widow

The will of Supreme Court Justice John P. Elkin, probated here last Saturday leaves his entire estate to his widow, Mrs. Adda Prothero Elkin.

OLD SOLDIERS AT ANNUAL REUNION

With but five of the known survivors present, the tenth annual reunion of the survivors of Co. D, 206th regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, was held in Municipal building Wednesday.

At 11 o'clock in automobiles furnished by patriotic Indiana residents, the veterans and the lady visitors were given a sight-seeing tour around Indiana and nearby towns. The ride was concluded at the various hotels and restaurants where dinner was served through the courtesy of the respective proprietors.

In the afternoon the veterans were guests of Frank Wood, manager of the Grand theatre.

The company originally had 100 members and of this number 79 are dead, 14 are living and seven are unaccounted for.

Hunting Season Has Opened.

The hunting season of 1915 opened October 15, when squirrels and pheasants may be legally killed for a certain period. Indiana nimrods, today are cleaning up their guns, securing their licenses and red caps preparatory for the fray. A number of out-of-town hunters are expected. Regardless of penalties attached for those persons who violate the law in deliberately hunting out of season, the action is practiced to a large extent. Dozens of squirrels have been killed during the last two weeks, but as yet there have been no prosecutions.

Savan Coal Is Being Mined in This County

The Savan Coal Company has resumed operations in this county. A small wreck last week interrupted the operations for a short time. Several cars were piled up, but no one was injured.

Strand Theatre Serves as Grandstand

There was much excitement Monday afternoon at the Strand Theatre where several hundred baseball fans gathered to get the returns of the third game of the world's series. Returns on the screen held thrill after thrill.

AVIATION OFFICER FALLS TO HIS DEATH

San Diego, Cal., Oct. 12.—Lieut. Walter D. Taliaferro, aged 35, stationed at the United States army aviation corps school at North Island, fell 1,800 feet into San Diego bay yesterday and was killed.

Washington, Oct. 12.—Taliaferro was reputed one of the best aviators in the service. He won the army duration contest at San Diego Sept. 17 last. The lieutenant rose from the ranks. He was married on Apr. 29 last.

"Impossible for Rumania To Stay Out of War"

MILAN, Italy, Oct. 11.—"It is impossible for Rumania to stay out of the war," said Take Jonescu, former Rumanian minister of the interior, as quoted by the Bucharest correspondent of the "Corriere Della Sera."

M. Jonescu affirmed his "absolute certainty" of the defeat of Germany and her allies, and continued:

"I believe moral forces are invincible. Germany represents reaction and therefore must be crushed. I pity the Bulgarian people, who are rushing into an abyss."

"I shall use all my strength to induce Rumania to throw her sword into the balance. I can state that this is the nation's greatest desire."

Clymer Man surely Has Share of Bad Luck

A nemesis seems to be following George McNulty, of Buck Run, and as he believes in bad luck running in threes, he is confidently expecting the third blow, but not just knowing where it will strike.

Monday he motored to Coalport, Clearfield county. Upon returning, the front cross-member, the part that holds the front spring to the bottom of the radiator, was broken. This punched a hole in the radiator and as a consequence, the water wasted away, the motor became overheated, stopped, and the bearings were burned. McNulty, not knowing what was the trouble, descended from his seat and started to crank the machine, but to no avail. Turning it on the batteries, he attempted to spin the motor, when it back-fired breaking his arm. He was later brought to Clymer, where the fracture was reduced.

Of course this would not put Mr. McNulty in a very good humor, and when he reached home there was more trouble. One of his youngsters had accidentally fallen from a chair and a bad fracture of the right arm resulted.

ITALY WILL TAKE A HAND

LONDON, Oct. 14.—Italy probably will take part in the allied movement in the Balkans, Rene Viviani, the French premier, told the French senate today.

That Russia would participate in the Balkan operations of the allies, begun by Great Britain and France already, had already been announced by premier Viviani. Sir Edward Grey, in the British House of Commons today, made a similar announcement, saying that the Russian troops would be sent as soon as they were available.

The French premier's announcement today follows the news from Rome last night that premier Salandra of Italy had returned from the front, where he conferred with King Victor Emmanuel and General Cadorna, chief of the Italian army staff, presumably with regard to war policies.

A possible clue to the methods by which Russia may join her allies in Balkan warfare is furnished by a Bucharest newspaper, which states that Russian troops have been withdrawn from Bessarabia and are being concentrated at Odessa for a movement against Bulgarian Black sea ports.
