

KING AND QUEEN OF ROUMANIA.

According to the late reports Roumania has closed the Danube to Russian ships carrying supplies and ammunition to the Serbs and several Russian men-of-war, which had fled into the harbor of Gruia, had been disarmed, and the crews numbering 860, had been interned.

This action is believed to mean simply that Roumania is insisting on a strict neutrality pending the government's final decision on the war issue. It is practically certain that the king favors the allies.

What the Atlantic Refining Company Means to Me.

"Most people do not realize the indispensable service which many of our great Pennsylvania industries are rendering every day," said a farmer from the Western part of the state recently. "Let me try to show you what the Atlantic Refining Company means to me and how much better I can live because of the progress this company has made in the manufacture of petroleum products. We haven't any gas out our way and I would not use it if we had. I do all my reading by a Rayo Lamp filled with Atlantic Rayo Lamp Oil, and in the summer my wife does all her cooking on an oil cookstove, in which I use the oil of the Atlantic Refining Company and in the winter I use Rayo Oil in my oil heater to keep my rooms warm."

"Out in the barn is where I appreciate the real worth of the Atlantic Refining Company. I have a little car which I use for business trips to town and I keep that going with Atlantic Gasoline and Polarine. My wagons are all greased with Nica Axle Grease and I make the harness last by regular applications of Eureka Harness Oil. When harvesting season comes, I get the most out of the harvesting machines when I lubricate them with Ruddy or Prairie Harvester Oil. My cream separator is always in the best of condition and I attribute that fact to the constant use of Standard Hand Separator Oil."

"I think you can see from this what the Atlantic Refining Company has done for me. I could mention candles, ironing wax, cheese coating and any number of things which this company makes for me but I think I've said enough to prove that as far as I am concerned there is at least one of our big industries which is absolutely indispensable."

This statement is a rather remarkable one when we consider that the petroleum industry began less than 60 years ago. That one company, which began in comparatively humble circumstances in 1865, is able to supply so many of our needs, is a remarkable tribute to the foresight and industry of those early Pennsylvanians. The Atlantic Refining Company is only one of our great industries but it certainly must be classed as one of our most important.

Tibetan Penal Code.

The Tibetan penal code is curious. Murder is punished with a fine varying according to the importance of the slain, theft by a fine of seven to one hundred times the value of the article stolen. Here, again, the fine depends on the social importance of the person from whom the theft has been committed. The harboring of a thief is looked upon as a worse criminal than the thief himself. Ordeals by fire and by boiling water are still used as proofs of innocence or guilt, exactly as was the custom in Europe in the middle ages. And if the lamas never inflict death they are adepts at torture.

Too Deep For Him.

A Britisher was announcing his views on things in general and summed up his own position by the statement, "Well, I've seen life." "But," said his American friend, "one of your own bright poets has said, 'Life's a job.'" The Britisher is still exploring the remark.—New York Times.

A Lost Mine.

Among the famous lost mines of the western world and one which is again being sought is the Tisingall of Costa Rica. It is said to have yielded great quantities of gold in the time of the Spanish domination. After quelling the Indian uprisings, however, the Spaniards failed to relocate the mine. It is thought that it lies hidden in the bed of one of the larger streams. Many legends are heard dealing with its wonderful richness, and many attempts have been made to find it, but so far without avail.—Argonaut.

LIFE'S PURPOSES.

Life's purposes are the attainment of personal perfection and to help in the whole life of the world. Men are given their lives and the possibility of dying natural deaths only on condition that they serve the life of the whole world, whereas the suicide exploits life as long as it is agreeable and refuses to serve the life of the world as soon as it becomes unpleasant, ignoring the likely fact that his service began only at that moment when his life became burdensome. Every work is at first unpleasant.—Tolstoy.

Eye Strain.

There are two common kinds of eye strain. It is a strain for a person who is farsighted to do close work, and it is a strain for one who is nearsighted to use the eyes for distances. Both kinds of eye strain produce the same symptoms—headache—and both require that the eyes be examined and glasses be provided.

Trap For Quotation Experts. If any one wants a catch question to spring on a gathering of self confessed literary sharps let him ask whence comes the quotation, "One touch of nature makes the whole world kin." This is one of the six best sellers in the world of quotations, yet not one person in a hundred knows where it comes from. It is comparatively easy to guess the author, but almost impossible to find a person who can name the work.

One could build any number of parlor games around "One touch of nature makes the whole world kin." Try it.—Spokane Spokesman-Review.
