Suffrage Amendment Is Introduced--Cloture Sidetracked

PROHIBITION FIGHT STARTS

Senator Hitchcock Would Put Embargo on Munitions--Lodge Wants to Tighten Chinese Exclusion Law. Senator Thomas Proposes National Incorporation of Railroads--Senate Adjourns Until Friday.

Washington, Dec. 8.—The senate, after a brief session devoted exclusively to the introduction of bills, adjourned till Friday.

The Democratic steering committee and the Republican committee will devote the time till Friday in trying to assign senators to committee vacancies.

The president sent to the senate several hundred nominations of persons now holding recess appointments and which will have to be confirmed by the senate. Secretary Lansing's nomination as secretary of state was one of these.

More than 1,000 bills were introduced in the senate the first bill day of the session. The record was made by Senator McLean of Connecticut, who introduced 150. The first bill to be introduced and which will be No. 1 is the measure to establish a department of public health, by Senator Owen. This bill has been No. 1 in the last two congresses.

Most of the bills introduced were of private character. Among measures of public interest were:

Wants Dry Washington.
Senator Weeks' bill to require the registration of legislative attorneys and legislative agents. Senator Shepard's bill for a "dry Washington," which enacts that the national capital shall be dry after Nov. 1, 1916.

Senator Thomas' bill authorizing an issue of $500,000,000 certificates of indebtedness by the government to meet the needs of national defense. Also a bill for federal incorporation of railroads. Senator Salisbury submitted a measure for civil government in Porto Rico. A bill for agricultural entry of coal lands in Alaska was reintroduced by Senator Smoot, who also put in a bill authorizing the secretary of the treasury to redeem bonds at his discretion with the surplus funds in the treasury.

Suffrage Amendment Presented.
Proposed constitutional amendments for woman suffrage were introduced by Senators Thomas and Sutherland. Senator Hitchcock offered a measure to make it unlawful to export munitions to be used against any country with which the United States is at peace.

The cloture resolution reported to the Democratic conference by Senator Owen was referred to the committee on rules. Many other amendments to the rules were offered.

Senator Lodge reintroduced a bill to dissolve the foundation for industrial peace which Theodore Roosevelt established with the proceeds of the Nobel prize awarded to him for the part he played in bringing about peace between Russia and Japan. The foundation proved to be an impractical scheme and Colonel Roosevelt finds that he cannot recover the money from the trustees without legislation from congress. He has announced that if ever he gets possession of the $40,000 once more he will devote it to the cause of labor.

Would Tighten Exclusion Law.
Mr. Lodge reintroduced a bill giving one cent postage to circulating libraries. He also reintroduced a measure to strengthen Chinese exclusion laws.

The immigration bill of the last congress was reintroduced by Senator Dillingham. The bill for a uniform bill of lading was revived by Senator Pomerene of Ohio. Senator Weeks put in a bill to correct the alleged injustice of the construction put on the Cummins amendment by the interstate commerce committee requiring passengers to make a declaration of value when they offer baggage for checking.

NAON REACHES ARGENTINE

Ambassador to U. S. Receives Welcome at Buenos Aires.
Buenos Aires, Dec. 8.—Dr. Romulo S. Naon, ambassador to the United States, reached here from Washington, having come on a vacation.

The returning ambassador was given a most cordial reception by the authorities and diplomatic representatives and other prominent persons.

Large crowds of citizens, among whom were thousands of students, also gathered to greet Dr. Naon.

LOGWOOD EMBARGO HITS U. S.

Staple Blues and Blacks Come From Jamaica Product.
New York, Dec. 8.—The action of Great Britain in declaring an embargo on logwood at the island of Jamaica is going to hit American dye-stuffs and cloth factories a harder blow than anything since the blockading of Germany. There is no doubt as to the severity of the English blow to American industries.

Easily Arranged.
A man took the following telegram to a telegraph office: "Mrs. Brown (enter Street: I announce with grief the death of Uncle James. Come quickly to read the will. I believe we are his heirs. John Black."

The telegraph clerk, having counted the words, said: "There are two words too many, sir."
"Cut out 'with grief,'" was the reply.—Chicago News.

Take a Sip of Tack.
While she attempted to take a drink from what she thought was a glass of water while in the dark at her home in Point township, Northumberland county, Pa., Miss Alice Rhoads, eighteen years old, swallowed several hundred tacks and pins. She was taken to the Marv M. Packer hospital, Sunbury.

An Old Verb.
To lase is an old verb. In Samuel Rowlands' "Martin Markell," 1610, we are told that "loysters lase in the streets, lurke in alehouses and range in the highwales." The word occurs, I believe, in some of Mortimer Collins' lyrics:
But Cupid lazeth 'mongst the falery lanes,
Whose elers complexion he oft sweareth pames.

—London Notes and Queries.

Anchovies.
The delicious little fish called the anchovy is found in large quantities in the Mediterranean sea and also on the coasts of Spain, Portugal and France where extensive fishing operations are carried on during the months of May, June and July.

A Far Cry.
Ella—Miss Antique says she wishes she could step to the phone and call up her happy college days. Bella—if she did she'd have to employ the long distance phone.—Florida Times-Union.

Nothing but the harmony of friendship soothes our sorrows. Without its sympathy there is no happiness on earth.—Mozart.

OUR MISNAMED RUINS.

The Mesa Verde Cliff Dwellings Are Really Complete Towns.

Many visitors to the prehistoric cliff dwellings of the Mesa Verde National park, in southwestern Colorado, says a government publication, are astonished to find that what is commonly described as a dwelling is not properly a dwelling at all, but a village or city. The celebrated Cliff Palace is not a palace. Neither is Spruce Tree House a house, nor Balcony House a house. Each of these is a complete town which once, in the dim ages before the earliest Indian tradition, was an organized community, often of considerable size.

The arrangement of houses in a cliff dwelling of the Mesa Verde National park, for example, is characteristic and intimately associated with the distribution of the social divisions of the inhabitants. The population was composed of a number of units, possibly clans, each of which had its own social organization more or less distinct from others, a condition that appears in the arrangement of rooms. The rooms occupied by a clan were not necessarily connected, although generally neighboring rooms were distinguished from one another by their uses.

Berthollet and Robespierre.

It is said that the celebrated savant Berthollet in the most dangerous times of the republic sustained his fearless love of truth. Some days prior to the ninth Thermidor a sandy deposit was found in a barrel of brandy intended for the army. The contractors, suspected of poisoning, were immediately arrested, and the scaffold was already prepared. Berthollet, however, examined the brandy and reported it free from all adulteration.

"You dare maintain," said Robespierre to him, "that that brandy does not contain poison?"

As his reply Berthollet drank off a glass, saying, "I never drank so much before."

"You have plenty of courage!" exclaimed Robespierre.

"I had more when I signed my report," replied the chemist, and here the matter terminated.

Seventh Century Needlework.

Before the end of the seventh century needlework was carried to great perfection in convents, where it was used for the establishment of the church and the decoration of priestly robes. Artists did not think it beneath their dignity to trace the patterns used for embroidery in their natural colors. A certain religious lady, wishing to embroider a sacerdotal vestment, asked no less a personage than St. Dunstan, then a young man, but already noted for his artistic skill and taste, to draw the flowers and figures, which she afterward worked in gold thread.—Exchange.

Chivalry.

"Do you know," said the particularly well groomed and elaborately vivacious lady in the full bloom of her second youth, "that I have the most wonderful gardener in the world—the tenderest hearted not only of gardeners, but of men? He has always made me up a very special bouquet on my birthday and presented it to me in person. But ever since I was thirty—well, he's only given me a birthday bouquet every third year."—New York Post.

Heroes and Villains.

Men are not made heroes by the performance of an act of heroism, but must be brave before they can perform it; so they were not made villains by the commission of a crime, but were villains before they committed it.—Ruskin.

Is This So, Ladies?

"They say that a Martian year has 680 days."
"Possibly it is in Martian years that our ladies give their ages."—Boston Transcript.

Sure Continuance of War Seen in Briand Cabinet.

ALL PARTIES REPRESENTED

France Acclaims New Ministry Greatest in Its History—Insures War to the Bitter End—New Premier Will Rule With Iron Hand—Colleagues Include Prominent Men of the Past.

Aristide Briand, who completed the formation of his third French cabinet, which contains several former premiers, will rule with an iron hand if he lives up to his reputation.

His political record is studded with masterly achievements.

He pushed through the law which separated church and state.

He smashed the railroad strike, the greatest labor disturbance France ever knew, without shedding a drop of blood.

He placed M. Poincare in the presidential chair.

Now he enters upon the titanic task of piloting France to victory with the assistance of the strongest cabinet of the Third republic and the support of every party in France.

Every shade of republican thought is represented in the ministry. The holy union, proclaimed by President Poincare at the outbreak of the war, is to be renewed when the Clerical leader, Denys Cochin, sits side by side with the Socialist leader, Marcel Sembat.

Gallieni Has Fine Record.

General Gallieni is a grim disciplinarian who will take a strong grip on the army. His greatest achievement before the war was the pacification of the rebellious colony of Madagascar, in which task General Joffre served under him.

The war minister was made military governor of Paris when the government was moved to Bordeaux. General Gallieni's mission being to defend Paris to the last if the Germans besieged the capital. He is a splendid organizer, whose greatest feat in this war has been to preserve Paris from Zeppelins.

The first action of the new ministry will be to modify radically the censorship, allowing greater liberty in the publication of war and diplomatic news and complete freedom to discuss political questions.

Universal opinion is that the constitution of this strongest possible cabinet is a plain warning to Germany that France intends to continue the war to the bitter end.

First Real Coalition Cabinet.

This is the first time in the history of the French republic that there is a coalition ministry of all the opposing parties and factions. It follows closely on the recent innovation of forming a British coalition cabinet of Conservatives and Liberals.

The action in forming the cabinet was the culmination of deep popular sentiment that at the supreme crisis of the war party division should give way to united action by all the parties in common support of the government.

As the cabinet of Viviani was representative of only a few political groups, the ministers presented their collective resignations, and President Poincare immediately charged Aristide Briand with the formation of a new organization, combining all elements.

Clever.
