Dr. Samuel G. Dixon, of the state health board, has appointed Dr. J. J. Condran, of Easton, a deputy to see that no children under fifteen years of age enter the state on trains from New Jersey, except with doctors' certificates.

The Connellsville city council, in the language of base ball, made a bonehead play when it bought a site for a central fire station for $3500. A new look and ladder truck, costing $6250, was delivered from the factory and it is too big for the site.

A Proof.

"That girl is trying to make a fool of me." "Oh, no! She never tries anything ready made."—Exchange.

His Sage Method.

"Since I have given my best thought to the problem I have not found it especially difficult to take care of my sister-in-law's two-year-old baby while she goes shopping," said the bachelor brother-in-law. "For a time, until I mastered the subject, I must confess that it had me considerably obfuscated. But now I merely put the dear little fellow under a tub, weighted down so that by no possibility can he over-set it, and then go out to the barn and read and smoke in peace."—Judge.

COURAGE.

"All work of man is as the swimmer's. A waste ocean threatens to devour him. If he front it not bravely it will keep its word. By incessant wise defiance of it, lusty rebuke and buffet of it, behold how loyally it supports him—bears him as its conqueror along.—Thomas Carlyle.

The Baireuth Festival.

The Baireuth Festival theater was the dream of Richard Wagner's life. That he was able to carry it to fulfillment was largely the result of the co-operation and financial aid given by the unfortunate King Ludwig II. of Bavaria. Wagner first conceived the idea of his Festival theater in 1853, but the foundation stone was not laid at Baireuth until May 22, 1872. The Festival theater was opened with the Ring cycle in 1876. The festival then lasted from the 13th to the 17th of August. Since the first performance of "Parsifal" in 1882 there has been a music festival at Baireuth almost every year.—New York Times.

Presidential Farewells.

Two of our presidents have delivered farewell addresses. Under date of Sept. 17, 1796, Washington issued a farewell address in anticipation of his retirement the following March. It was chiefly the work of Washington and Hamilton, though portions of it were taken from a draft prepared by Madison at Washington's request when the latter had expected to retire at the end of his first term. A farewell address was also issued by President Andrew Jackson on March 3, 1837, the last day of his official life.

Dodged It.

"Time is money." "Yes, but I haven't a moment I can call my own."

YOUR WORK.

It is no man's business if he has genius or not. Work he must, whatever he is, but quietly and steadily, and the natural and enforced results of such work will always be the thing that God meant him to do and will be his best. If he be a great man the things he does will be great things, but always, if thus peacefully done, they will be good and right.—Ruskin.

An Authority.

Peter McArthur, the writer, was once talking with a friend when he quoted another man as a financial authority. His friend disputed the right of the person quoted to be considered an expert. Mr. McArthur insisted that the man had a right to speak like an oracle. "What is your definition of an authority?" asked his friend. "My idea of an authority," retorted Mr. McArthur, "is a person who bluffs beyond my limit."

Hotels and Thirteen.

One of the big hotels in the uptown shopping district considers the number of superstitious travelers sufficient large to justify a concession to them. The elevator indicators in this hotel show that there is a twelfth floor and a fourteenth, but the figure 13 does not appear on the dial. From the 1200's the rooms jump to the 1400's. Clerks in hotels which have a thirteenth floor say that the number of patrons who insist on avoiding the hoodoo number is large. Frequently a person assigned to that floor asks to be transferred even if his removal to another floor means the exchange of an outside room for one inside.—New York Sun.

Brave Man.

"Do I understand you to say," said the lawyer, looking hard at the principal witness, "that upon hearing a noise in the hall you rose quickly, lit a candle and went to the head of the stairs—that a burglar was at the foot of the stairs and you did not see him? Are you blind?"

"Must I tell the truth?" stammered the witness, blushing to the roots of his hair.

"The whole truth," was the stern reply.

"Then," replied the witness, brushing aside his damp, clinging locks and wiping the perspiration from his clammy brow, "my wife was in front of me."—London Tit-Bits.
