COURAGE.

All work of man is as the swimmer's. A waste ocean threatens to devour him. If he front it not bravely it will keep its word. By incessant wise defiance of it, lusty rebuke and buffet of it, behold how loyally it supports him-bears him as its conqueror along. - Thomas

l'acts Versus Fallacies

FACT is a real state of things. FALLACY is an apparently genuine but really illogical statement or argument

GEORGIA'S Prohibition law went into effect on May first. So peculiar is the law governing Georgia's indulgence in alcoholic stimulants that one of Philadelphia's foremost papers is moved editorially to comment on that State's cold water rules, as follows:

"GENTLEMEN in Georgia, hereafter, will drink sparingly of rye and Bourbon, whether from their own or their host's decanter. Under the prohibition law which went into effect in that State the first of May, no individual within the State may be in possession of more than two quarts of any distilled liquor within any calendar anonth, or forty-eight pints of beer or malts, or a gallon of wine. German bread and meat cards, issued to enforce the economies necessitated by war, are not more rigidly employed than will be the drink rations in Georgia, according to the promise of the cold-water folks.

AN expert purveyor to Philadelphia thirsts, from behind the mahogany, says there are seventy fair drinks to the gallon, which would make about thirty-five for the average Georgian in a month. This would supply the mornin's mornin, and a Sunday night cap, in the ordinary month, and make February the month of months with its surplus of seven. Highballs and juleps would have to stand more dilution.

HE principle of the scheme of regulation is not apparent. Why make allowance for the four or five extra drinks, or why forty-eight pints of beer? Possibly we never shall know, for the rulers of Georgia may never tell and may never be asked. No newspaper or magazine which contains an advertisement of intoxicating liquors of any kind may hereafter enter the sacrosanct jurisdiction of Georgia without having the corrupting reference to woozy-boozy drinks effaced, and mere expression of sympathy for the plight of the thirsty Georgian may be considered as contraband expression and be deleted by the censor when this paper shall cross the boundary line.

"POOR Georgia not because it is going dry, but because it takes such freak legislation so seriously."

NOT only does the above editorial point out that the assumption that Prohibition prohibits is a FALLACY, but the added FACT is shown that Georgia embracing Prohibition doesn't mean at all that Georgia—or Georgians—will be "dry!"
