

THE ITALIANS OF AMERICA ORGANIZING

The Bureau of Economic Zoology of the State Department of Agriculture is putting forth a strenuous effort to encourage the beekeepers of the state to do their bit during the present scarcity of foodstuffs, by aiming to produce larger crops. Pennsylvania beekeepers must do their part to help produce one hundred billion extra pounds of honey in the United States this season. This is the figure aimed at by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Several Apiary Advisers are now visiting the beekeepers of the state and a number of field meetings will be held in various sections. It is hoped that the beekeepers will avail themselves of the free help, which these experts are ready and willing to give.

These advisers will be able to visit only a very small portion of the beekeepers of the state, and it is hoped that the beekeepers will make it a point to attend one or more of the meetings which are now being scheduled, and which will be duly advertised in the papers of the various counties.

A field meeting will be held in this county next week. The first meeting will be in the apiary of Alonzo Sides, Clymer, Pa., on Monday, May, at 1:30 P. M. Mr. Sides' apiary is located at Pine Flats.

All beekeepers within easy reach are urgently asked to attend, and heartily invited to cooperate in this movement for better beekeeping in Pennsylvania.

BOARD FOR WAR METALS.

Members to Deal With Supply of Brass and Aluminum.

Washington.—To deal with problems of brass and aluminum supply for the army and navy the Council of National Defense created two committees to act in conjunction with the raw materials committee of the Civilian Advisory Commission. The two new committees are expected to bring highly valuable technical information to the army and navy. Committees to deal with other raw materials vital to the conduct of the war are being formed and will be announced later.

The two committees announced follow:

Brass—Charles F. Brooker and C. D. Goss, Waterbury, Conn.; Lewis H. Jones, Detroit; Barton Hazelton, Rome, N. Y., and F. J. Kingsbury, Bridgeport, Conn.

Aluminum—Arthur F. Davis, New York; E. E. Allyn, Cleveland, and Joseph A. Janney, Philadelphia.

JAIL DE LUXE, BUT EMPTY.

Westchester Offers Marble Baths, Etc., but Can't Get Convicts.

New York.—V. Everit Macy, multi-millionaire commissioner of correction of Westchester county, has taken over the new penitentiary de luxe at East View, but he cannot get any prisoners to fill it.

There are plenty of Westchester men serving sentences—200, in fact—but they were committed to Blackwell's island for their full terms, and there seems no legal way to transfer them. New York would like to let go of them, but can't. Mr. Macy needs at least forty at once or there will be no garden truck in the summer, there being no one to plant the garden.

The prison has marble shower baths, writing desks, real linen for the tables and pretty much all the comforts of home except freedom.

ONE HUNDRED BILLION POUNDS OF HONEY

Loyalty to their adopted country and keen interest in matters military were evidenced by a committee representing those Italian residents of the District of Columbia who assembled Wednesday evening, April 4, at the office of Dr. Enrico Castelli, 2025 Q Street, Washington, D. C.

With enthusiasm, these men expressed for themselves and the many men they represent an earnest desire to show their appreciation of the Nation's hospitality, their love for this and their own country. As an Italian unit they offer their services to the United States of America's military force.

This volunteer of service has been presented in writing to the War Department by Dr. Castelli, who has served nine years as a Line Officer in the Regular Royal Italian Army, and whose name leads the list of men to serve under the colors.

The plans mapped out by Dr. Castelli and the committee aim to let this formation of men as an Italian unit be an incentive for the same formation of Italian units in every town and city in the United States. An Advisory Headquarters will be opened at Dr. Castelli's office, 2025 Q Street, Washington, D. C., where application for information, counsel and aid may be addressed.

The committee thinks it possible to raise throughout the United States 50,000 Italian volunteers.—The American Leader.
