Last Message of William Bigler, GOVERNOR OF PENNSYLVANIA.

Read in the Legislature, Friday, Jan. 5.

JCONTINUED FROM LAST WEEK. The councils of Philadelphia, by an ordinance passed in October, 1352, dedicated the necessary ground in Independence Square. to the erection of a monument commemorative of the Declaration of Independence; and tendered the possession of the premises to the representatives of nine or more of the original:States.

Since that time, the States of New York, New Jersey, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Connecticut Georgia and Pennsylvania, have signified their willingness to accept the proposition on the terms indicated by the coun-Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and the two

I cannot refrain from again expressing my single event which is worthy of commemoration by a monument, the declaration of Init is without a parallel, and stands above all others for the mighty influence which it has esteem as a proud privilege—one that, as i exerted upon the political, religious and social condition of mankind It has been justly said, it ushered in a new member into the family of nations and electrified all Europe. It opened new revelations of liberty, and changed the relations of people and government, by teaching the one how to resist and conquer oppression, and the other the absolute necessity to its own continuance of recognizing and respecting the rights of humanity. From that time forth, a new, vital and quickening spirit has pervaded the world. Thrones have been shaken, empires have forgotten, and its alienations, if any, forgivbeen overturned, society has been convulsed, of all Christendom have been so vivified, their rights, as will never be oblitterated or forgotten; but will advance, enlarge, and in- or any narrow and unworthy prejudice. crease, until the moral and social preparation for the appreciation and enjoyment of liberty shall be effected, which, in the divine economy is so indispensable to the permanence of free institutions.

As the third generation of that posterity for whom the men of the revolution chiefly labored and suffered, and died, it is peculiarly fitting that we should erect such representations of their great and controlling acts as dren's hearts, and shall testify to God and and would cultivate and desseminate the mighty truths and principles which brought ted by providence to be-the special defender and protector.

I believe we should have a monument to perpetuate the remembrance of the great event from which such manifold and inestimably blessings have sprung; some imperishable memorial of our gratitude to the authors of the Declaration of Independence; to the heroes who participated in the mighty struggle; an enduring witness of the great things done amongst us and for us; an embodiment of the origin and principles of our governto the General Assembly, the propriety of again calling the attention of the original riveted in the affections of the honest mass-States to the subject, by resolution or other-
