

Reflect Before Acting.
The worst thing a man can do is to act without reflection. Your hasty person is generally a fool. He is always in hot water himself, or plunging his friends in for him: he cannot be trusted; with the best intentions often nevertheless does wrong. You might as well throw lots as take his advice; for his decision is never worth the breath expended in giving it.

If a man looks back over his life, he will generally discover that his errors have arisen from a want of reflection. He has entered into a partnership without properly considering the character of his associate, the capital required, or the fitness of the company for the work to be done. He has purchased a farm without duly examining the soil, its vicinity to market, or the amount required for necessary repairs. He has begun a business without measuring his means to the end. He has married a wife in a sudden whim, without studying her disposition or acquirements. He has embarked in a speculation, without fully counting the cost. In short, whatever has turned out ill will usually be traceable to an omission on his part to proper reflection.

Municipalities, commonwealths, and nations are as liable to involve themselves in difficulties as individuals; and, therefore, reflection is as indispensable to them, before acting, as to private persons. It is easy to embark in improvements, and even to pay for them in loans; but when pay-day comes, it is sometimes hard to meet the creditor; and even many a corporation wishes that it had thought more seriously before it was too late. It is not difficult to plunge a nation into war; but it is an Herculean task often to bring about a peace.

Young men, when starting life, especially in this "fast" age, are too apt to aim for a character of doing things quickly. They forget that, unless things are well done, or a project well considered, their quickness is more apparent than real. Davy Crockett said a thing as wise as the wisest of Bacon's aphorisms, when he gave the honest advice, "Be sure you're right, then go ahead."

Cheap Pleasures.
Did you ever study the cheapness of pleasure? Do you know how little it takes to make a man happy? Such trifles as a penny, or a smile, do the work. There are two or three boys passing along—give them each a chestnut, and how smiling they look—they will not be cross for some time. A poor widow lives in a neighborhood who is the mother of a half a dozen children—send them a half a peck of sweet apples, and they all will be happy. A child has lost his arrow—a word to him and he mourns sadly; help him to find it, or make him another, and how quickly will the sunshine play upon his sober face. A boy has as much as he can do to pile up a load of wood—assist him a few moments, or speak a pleasant word to him, and he forgets his toil, and works away without minding it. Your apprentice has broken a mug, or cut the vest too large, or slightly injured a piece of work; say "you scoundrel!" and he feels miserable—remark, "I am sorry," and he will try to do better.—You employ a man, pay him cheerfully, and speak a pleasant word to him, and he leaves your house with a contented heart, to light up his own hearth with smiles and gladness. As you pass along the street, you meet a familiar face—say "Good morning," as though you felt happy, and it will work admirably in the heart of your neighbor.

Pleasure is cheap—who will not bestow it liberally? If there are smiles, sunshine, and flowers all about, let us not grasp them with a miser's fist, and lock them up in our hearts. No. Rather let us take them and scatter them about us—in the cot of the window, among the groups of children in the crowded mart, where men of business congregate, in our families, and every where. We can make the wretched happy—the discontented, cheerful—the afflicted, resigned—at exceedingly cheap rates. Who will refuse to do it?

No Sabbath.
In a "Prize Essay on the Sabbath," written by a journeyman printer in Scotland, there occurs the following passage:
"Yoke fellow! I think how the abstraction of the Sabbath would hopelessly enslave the working classes, with which we are identified. Think of labor thus going on in one monotonous and continuous and eternal cycle—limbs forever on the rack; the fingers forever playing, the eyeballs forever straining, the brow forever sweating, the foot forever plodding, the brain forever throbbing, the shoulders forever drooping, the loins forever aching and the restless mind forever seething.
Think of the beauty it would efface; of the merry heartedness it would extinguish; of the giant strength it would tame; and of the resources of nature that it would exhaust; of the aspirations it would crush; and of the sickness it would breed; of the projects it would wreck; of the groans it would extort; of the lives it would immolate; and of the cheerless graves that it would prematurely dig! See them toiling and moiling, sweating and fretting, grinding, and heaving, weaving and spinning, sowing and gathering, mowing and reaping, razing and building; digging and plowing, unloading and storing, striving and struggling—in the garden and in the field, in the granary and in the mill, in the warehouse and in the shop, on the mountain and in the ditch, on the roadside and in the wood, in the city and in the country, on the sea and on the shore, on the earth, in the days of brightness and of gloom.—What a picture would the world present if we had no Sabbath!"

The Huntingdon and Broad Top Mountain Railroad and Coal Company respectfully call the attention of Capitalists and those having money to invest, to their Bonds now being issued.

THE entire length of their road and branches now under contract is thirty five miles, the grading and masonry of more than two thirds of which is finished, and the balance rapidly progressing toward completion. A mortgage of the entire road and its equipments, and on two thousand acres of coal land owned by the Company, clear of incumbrance, has been executed to Jesse Godley of Philadelphia, Thomas E. Franklin, Esq., of Lancaster, and H. Easton, of Franklin County, as Trustees for the security of the bond holders. This is the first and we expect it to be the only issue of bonds by the Company; and the Stockholders will have, upon the completion of the road which the negotiation of the bonds will secure, property as security to the amount of a million and a quarter or a million and a half of dollars, say three times the amount of the issue. We expect after the road is in operation one year to pass down three hundred thousand tons of coal, per annum, and within five years near double that amount. Our bonds are issued in sums of five hundred dollars each, bearing seven per cent interest, with coupons attached, and form a very desirable investment for Guardians, Executors, &c., as by detaching a coupon, the half yearly interest can be collected through the nearest bank.
The bonds will be ready for delivery at the office of the Treasurer, on or after the first day of October next. Below is a statement of the sources from which the Company expect to derive revenue.
L. T. WATSON, President,
Transportation of 300,000 tons of coal at a net of 25 cts. per ton $75,000
Profit on transportation of iron, fire-clay, lumber, merchandise, ore, &c. 15,000
Rent of mines of company—say 50,000 tons per annum at 25 cts. 12,500
Miscellaneous 2,500
$105,000
Deduct interest on $500,000 of bonds at 7 per cent. per annum, 35,000
$70,000
Leaving a large amount to be divided among the Stockholders.

ARMITAGE'S Electro-Magnet Lightning Rods

AFTER many years' close investigation and numerous experiments, the Patentee's success in informing the public that he has arrived at the true principle of protecting families, dwellings and property from the destructive influence of Lightning. The calculations that every City, Town, Village and Country falls victim to annually, through the gross negligence of its inhabitants, is beyond calculation, especially when the remedy is so easy to obtain—this is found in Armitage's Patent Magnetic Lightning Rods, and in this alone. This Rod has been examined by the most scientific gentlemen in the world—Professors M'Murtrie, Johnson, Wallor and many others that have examined them, recommend and speak of them in the highest terms of approbation, and have pronounced them the only safe rods in use in this or any other country, for the protection of Lives and Property.—One advantage is to divide and throw back a part of the electric fluid harmless to the clouds; in time of a stroke this enables the rod to conduct that portion of fluid that belongs to the earth without the slightest danger of leaving the conductor. This rod has many other advantages over the old one. The only place of manufacturing is in Vine St., 3 doors above Twelfth, Philadelphia, where all persons are respectfully invited to call and examine for themselves.

Satisfactory recommendations can be seen by calling on the subscriber. All rods warranted.
