The "Pennsylvanian" and its Correspondent.

This paper, of the date of Monday last, publishes a letter dated Huntingdon, Feb. 21, in which the following occurs:

"The fearless course pursued by the Pennsylvanian in exposing the corruption of Simon Cameron, is winning for it golden opinions from all parties in this vicinity. A 'corporal's guard' could hardly be found in this county willing to second the pretensions of this trickster to the high station of U. S. Senator. It may seem astonishing that in view of this fact and with a full knowledge of the antagonism of the people of this region to Simon Cameron, that an editor could be found with the moral hardness, or rather turpitude, who would endorse the perfidy of John Cresswell, the Senator from this district, in voting for Cameron."

The creature who wrote the letter published in the Pennsylvanian, is well known to us, and this community, and is anything but favorably known; and if the Pennsylvanian has no more respectable or creditable correspondents than this one, we think the "golden opinions" will be very much at a discount.

The assertion that Mr. Cameron's friends in this county do not amount to a "corporal's guard," is simply a bold, naked lie, and devised and uttered by the little writer with premeditation, for effect on the election of United States Senator. The truth is, no matter what the result of that election may be, there are not over a score of men in this town of all parties who do not favor Mr. Cameron's election; and the "burst of indignation," spoken of by the writer, with which Mr. Cresswell's votes were received, is news to every one here. It must have been about the little fellow's own person, and judging from the law of forces, could hardly have extended beyond his own inexpressibles. If the Pennsylvanian knew his correspondent, as well as he is known here, it would hardly consider itself honored by his company. So pure a paper as it professes to be, would certainly be amazed to learn that the Democratic standing of its correspondent in this county has been tested by the constant rejection of his claims to little party distinctions by Democratic County Conventions for the last five years, which aforesaid distinguished evidences of his political and personal standing has not been in any way increased by his opposition to the only candidate the Democrats had to support for a county office last fall.

Applications for Tavern Licenses.

All persons who intend to make application at April Term of Court for licence to keep public houses, should hand in their petitions for publication immediately.

We observe by a card published in a Hollidaysburg paper that Dr. J. C. Hirst, of Salsburg, purposes locating permanently in Altoona. The Doctor was surrounded by a large circle of warm and ardent friends, had an extensive practice, and by all his acquaintances was regarded as occupying the first rank in our county as a man of skill, energy and moral worth. His position amongst his professional brethren is highly praiseworthy for a man of his years. The Huntingdon County Medical Society elected him their President by acclamation at their last meeting. May similar success attend his labors in the prosperous village of Altoona.

NO ELECTION OF U. S. SENATOR.

The two Houses of the State Legislature met in Convention at 12 o'clock yesterday, and resumed the balloting for an United States Senator. The Hall was crowded and much excitement prevailed throughout the town.

First Ballot—For Simon Cameron, 55; C. A. Buckalew, 23; scattering, 50. Necessary to a choice, 65.

128 members voted, there being 5 absentees, viz: Messrs. Mellinger and Pratt of the Senate, and Messrs. Lathrop, Ross and Allegood of the House. The latter was kept away by sickness.

Of the Senators, Messrs. Hoge, Platt and Quiggle, who previously voted for Mr. Buckalew, cast their ballots for Mr. Cameron.

Mr. Mellinger, one of the absentees, voted on the previous ballot for Mr. Stevens.

Of the members of the House, seven who had previously voted for Mr. Cameron, now divided their ballots among the minor candidates. Mr. Stockdale voted for Mr. Cameron, though he had previously voted for Mr. Buckalew.

Second Ballot—Cameron, 54; Buckalew, 23; scattering, 51.

After a severe struggle a third ballot was offered and stood:

Third Ballot—Cameron, 55; Buckalew, 23; scattering, 50.

The Convention then adjourned to meet on the first Tuesday of October, next.

We are indebted to Hon. John McClellan, Col. John Cresswell, Geo. Leas, Geo. W. Smith and A. W. Benedict Esq's, for favors received.

Let Justice be Done.

As we have said elsewhere, it is not our purpose to mingle in the Senatorial controversy before the Legislature. It belongs to a new party in which we have no part or lot. But while such is our position, we cannot refrain from expressing our deep regret at the unscrupulous vindictiveness with which one of the candidates is assailed in his private as well as public character. This gross violation of all the laws of political warfare merits the earnest rebuke of every friend of justice and fair dealing. No man stands so high that he may not be blackened by the reckless calumniator at a moment when serious wrong will be inflicted, before reflection and better knowledge vindicate his fame. The Junata Sentinel, a Whig paper, says of Gen. Cameron, amongst other things equally malicious and groundless, that he "has stood at the head of a band of plunderers in this State for years, who have robbed the Commonwealth through that lazar house of corruption, the public works, and have grown rich upon the spoils." We cannot feel that we are doing our duty to a neighbor if we pass by in silence such a foul and unjust aspersion. In this county, where Gen. Cameron has resided over thirty years, there is no man whose moral character stands fairer, or whose word would command more confidence. His fortune, whatever it may be, is the reward of diligent application to business—of a life of unremitting toil and untiring perseverance. In saying this, we but say what nine-tenths of the people of Dauphin county will unreservedly endorse. If he has some enemies here, where is the man of positive character who has not? Who but the imbecile driveller, he who crosses no man's path, who neither loves nor hates, requires no resents, is the man who has no enemies? In saying this much for a worthy neighbor against whom the flood-gates of calumny are thrown wide open on every side by heatless rivals, seeking to profit by his overthrow, by venal cormorants, panting for black mail, and by embittered partisans, whose ambitious schemes he may have thwarted, we perform but a simple act of justice, ever due from the candid to the wronged and persecuted. We conclude with the following article from the Huntingdon Globe, which does Gen. Cameron no more than justice:

[The article appeared in the Globe of last week—Ed. GLOBE.]

We may be allowed to add, that when the new party took possession of the government they gave out that in the distribution of offices no reference would be had to the former political associations of men. Thus far the fates have been marvellously propitious to former Whigs, as no others have been placed in a single important position. The last note to bestow is the Senatorship. A Democrat was nominated. The result will be seen—His treatment thus far have been certainly peculiar, to say the least. We wonder whether he would have been so roughly handled had he been a Whig.

Bribery.

By a joint resolution, which passed both branches of the legislature on the 13th inst., a committee was appointed for the purpose of investigating certain charges made in relation to the bribing of members to vote for particular persons for United States Senator. We supposed at the time, the intention was to defeat the election of Gen. Cameron, and possibly it may have operated so far as to induce an adjournment of the election. So much has been said about the Middletown Bank, and the use of its notes to effect particular legislation, as well as other objects, that it was not at all surprising, in a contest where the General was a conspicuous actor, that the allegation should be repeated often enough to give it the semblance of reality, and that a committee should be appointed to investigate.

If, however, this was the object, so far as we have been enabled to ascertain the facts, it has proved a failure. Not a title of evidence has been elicited implicating Gen. Cameron in any transaction that even bears the slightest imputation of bribery. Other parties, we believe, the evidence implicates, and the public will be made acquainted with the whole matter in due time, but thus far, the notes of the Middletown Bank have been more talked about than fingered.

We have thought proper to state these facts, not because we desire to mix up in this controversy, but because we believe every man in the community has a right to a public vindication from the effect of charges in which there is no truth. This we should do to the very best enemy we have on earth.

But we have something more to say. Gen. Cameron has connected himself with the American party. He submitted his name to the American caucus, as a candidate for United States Senator, and, so far as we could ascertain the facts, he was fairly nominated. If those, then, who were in that caucus desired to maintain the moral force given to that party, by the allegation that the minority was bound by the will of the majority, the American party should have elected him without a single word. Had Gen. Cameron not been a Democrat—or rather had he been an old Whig, there never would have been a split in that caucus, and the reason is because those who have been brought up in the Democratic school mean and do what they say. Those Democrats who have connected themselves with that party, to a man, voted for Mr. Strong, as Speaker, and Mr. Silver, as Treasurer, both Whigs, and now, when Gen. Cameron received the nomination as fair as either of the others, a split is created, no doubt because he did not also come from the Whig side of the house. This looks indeed like as if the organization was intended to get Democratic votes for Whig men and measures.

Of course, we regard this fight as one belonging exclusively to an organization, with which we have no connection whatever, and what we have said may be regarded as an officious intermeddling with what does not concern us. Be it so. We could not let the opportunity pass by without saying that the whole entire action of the secret party was anything but favorable to a general distribution of the spoils of office among the members, regardless of their original political affinities.

The Democrats, few in number to be sure, put in nomination Mr. Buckalew, and voted for him. The evening after the Know-Nothing had held their caucus, the Democratic and Whig caucuses, were held. It is said the seceders were also in caucus and made propositions to the Democrats, that if they would nominate Judge Woodward, he would be sustained. This was authorized to say, is untrue. No proposition was made at all touching upon a compromise candidate, to be supported by a fusion of Democrats, Whigs and seceding Know-Nothings. This is one of the idle stories which Madam Rumor daily sends forth from the seat of government, to fool editors at a distance, and we only refer to it now for the purpose of relieving Democrats who voted for Mr. Buckalew from the imputation which such a story might otherwise create.

THE LAST DOGS.—Not content to fan the flame of intolerance by the most prejudiced and untruthful newspaper statements, the Know-Nothings, patterning after their abolition allies, have betaken themselves to the army of the novelist, as a new means of incalculating their proscription and bigoted doctrines. A book is heralded forth in all the Know Nothing prints under the title of "Stanhope Burleigh; or the Jesuits in our Houses," which contains revelations concerning the awful doings of the Jesuits in this country that will keep all our grandmothers awake o' nights for fear of having their precious jugulars cut by those terrible monsters. The Know-Nothing game must be getting desperate when, in the attempt to crush out the spirit of hospitality and brotherhood among us, they are obliged to resort to such a contemptible means of procuring proselytes. There never was a grosser attempt to debauch and mislead public opinion.—Williamsport Gazette

THE OHIO WHEAT CROP.—The Trumbull Democrat remarks that the farmers in that region of country say that the wheat crop sowed last fall looks exceedingly well at the present time, and the prospect of a good crop is very flattering. The farmers in Lawrence county, according to the Journal, report similar news in relation to the crops there.—The fall of snow is very opportune for this crop, and it is providential that the fall grows deeper and more serviceable as you advance into the great wheat-growing sections. The whole crop in the West and Northwest is now comfortably clothed with its winter covering, and everything bids fair to assure us of a bountiful yield.

THE MORMONS HAVE COMMENCED, in New York, the publication of a paper, called the Mormon, devoted to the spread of their principles. It defends polygamy as an ordinance from God, the Christian world having been laboring under a delusion, on this subject for over eighteen hundred years.—Mahomedanism is in danger of extinction on the Eastern Continent. It would be a little curious if it should spring up in full force on the Western Continent.
