Last spring, soon after Brewster got hold of the establishment, and I had moved to the holds the following language: Factory in Hill Valley, a friend of mine directed my attention to an editorial published in the Journal, charging me with having collected, or having tried to collect money due Brewster, on the books of the office for advertising and subscription. In the presence of these gentlemen and Mr. Rickets, I genteelly and peaceably asked the Doctor from whom I had collected or tried to collect money due him on the books of the office? He gave meno intentions and movements. They act in sesatisfaction, as the gentlemen above can test cret, and exclude us from all participation in tify. I then, thinking it was my right, after the benefits of the victory. Unless we place such charges, to know from whom I had cola better party in power, patriotism requires lected or tried to collect money due him on that we should let the Democrats rule yet a the books, and having received no satisfaction, told the Doctor that he had lied in reference to the matter, and that his publication feat them in many things. individual from Huntingdon in whom I have confidence, informed me that Brewster had. endeavored to collect some money from the Affairs" which is lawfully and justly coming to me. In consequence, I put a notice in the Shirleysburg Herald two weeks ago, which by request was copied into the Globe of last week, as the readers of that paper can see, in order that those indebted to the Journal editorial career, might know to whom payment of the same should be made. Now if I have been trying to collect his dues, would it be reasonable to suppose that I would have got such an advertisement inserted? Last week Brewster inserted a notice in his paper which in substance is precisely the same as mine, as the readers of the Globe, Herald and Journal can see, but he states further that, he has been well informed that I have been collecting and am still trying to collect money due him on the books. This is slanderous and maliciously false, and the man who utters it lies in the face of God and man. I collect any money due Brewster, since he has thing about it, are we willing to place it in had hold of the Journal. ### A Party of Vitality.

Our friends behold clearly now what many of them saw but darkly before. Except the Democratic party, there is no public political organization in Michigan of any vitality.—Detroit Advertiser

Such is the confession of the Detroit Advertiser (Whig) in an article concerning the recent charter election in Detroit, at which cept the Democratic party, there is no public political organization in Michigan of any so hopelessly distracted, and in different and isms, that it cannot be said to have any "vitality." There has been during the last six or eight months an attempt to form a composed of the whigs, the Abolitionists, "fusion," but we hardly think it can be campaign.

The Know Nothings constitute the only party except the Democratic, which can now be said to be really alive "and kicking."-But their is a sort of spasmodic "vitality," which has no element of life to sustain it permanently, and which, however lively and active it may be for a time, must with no great delay expire.

The Democratic party has the "vitality" of full developed, vigorous manhood. It rests upon principles sound and enduring, and embracing the whole country in their scope. It can rally its followers throughout the length and breadth of the land, animated by a common purpose, and co-operating in ly "public political organization of any vitality."-Albany Argus.
