

EVENING SESSION.

Prayer by Rev. N. S. Buckingham. A paper was then read by Mr. Benedict, on the subject of the reciprocal duties that exist between the School Teacher and the School Director, and adopted.

On motion Resolved, That a copy of the report just read be requested for publication. Addresses were then delivered, and remarks made by J. Sewell Stewart, Esq., Rev. N. S. Buckingham, William Colon, and others.

The following committees were appointed to report at the next annual meeting of the Institute, on the subjects assigned them, viz: The importance of securing a uniformity of text books—A. W. Benedict, Henry Wilson and B. F. Brown.

Best methods of enlisting the interest, and securing the co-operation of parents, in the cause of education—R. McDivitt, H. W. Miller and Miss Kate M. Shaw.

The convention then adjourned till the next annual meeting of the Institute. J. S. BARR, Prest. R. McDIVITT, Sec'y.

The County Superintendent has appointed B. F. Brown, Samuel Keith and Henry McKibbin, a committee to make the necessary arrangements for holding a Teachers' Institute at Spruce Creek, for the Districts composed of Morris, Porter, Franklin and Warriorsmark townships.

Public examinations will be held at the conclusion of the sessions of each Institute. The Committees for other Institutes proposed to be held, will be announced in due time.

Know Nothingism. There will be no want of materials to write its epitaph. Its rise was rapid, but the rapidity of its fall is marvelous.

There will be no want of materials to write its epitaph. Its rise was rapid, but the rapidity of its fall is marvelous. Last year it was a vigorous young giant, with a fair reputation for purity, now it is a decrepit old sinner, reeking with corruption and offensive from its disgusting rottenness.

But the game is all up, the bubble has burst, and a most profitable lesson may be learned from the fate of this secret Order by all who may hereafter attempt to form a new party.

The cause of this sudden fall are mainly to be sought in the un-American characteristics of the order, and in its intolerable prescription and oppression, both in and out of the order.

From the Holidays Standard, July 25. Horrible Accident. One of those dreadful accidents, the bare recital of which causes the blood to curdle in the veins, occurred on the New Portage Railroad, near the foot of Plane No. 9, on Monday, between 6 and 7 o'clock P. M.

Ann DeArmit, daughter of John DeArmit—fatally scalded; Jemima Long, a young lady residing at Mr. J. DeArmit's—severely injured; Porter DeArmit—foot smashed; Mary Brisbane—severely injured internally.

Nothing can equal the tyranny of Know-Nothingism except the unblushing impudence which it exhibits in assuming the hallowed name of "Americanism." It is by "putting on the livery of heaven to serve the devil in" that has heretofore enabled Know-Nothingism to hold up its head in decent American society; and, now, that its true principles are being made known, its secrets exposed, and its policy proclaimed abroad in the light of day by a free people and a free press, hundreds and thousands of American citizens are leaving its tyrannical councils, determined that hereafter they will be free men in the noblest sense of that term.

Americanism, in the true sense of that term, is not afraid or ashamed of its policy or its principles, and never attempts to fetter the utterances of free speech by free men.—Know-Nothingism, on the contrary, is a secret, oath-bound society, that would both fetter the limbs and put a padlock upon the lips of its members. Americanism is willing at all times to admit its policy to the reason and judgment of the American people, but Know-Nothingism would ignore the great mass of the people, unless they are willing to be governed by its edicts and controlled by its secret councils. All organizations, societies or churches in this country, with which we are acquainted permit their members in good standing to leave at any time without let or hindrance. But the tyrannical and corrupt leaders that control the Know Nothing councils have the cool impudence to tell American citizens, that they shall not withdraw from the order until it suits the interests of the Know Nothing party to permit them to do so. A tyranny more oppressive, a surveillance more galling, or a secret espionage more objectionable, does not exist in any free country upon the face of the earth. It is no wonder, therefore, that true Americans are leaving the organization by hundreds and thousands. It is no wonder that, in its extremity, Know-Nothingism is changing its platform to suit all creeds and all localities. Nor is it any wonder that the sober second thought of true hearted American people is consigning the spoils-seeking originators of Know-Nothingism to the depths of political degradation and infamy. Let every true American bear in mind that he who would be free, himself must strike the blow."

The Steady Progress of the Abolition and Know-Nothing Coalition.

There is something audacious and defiant in the triumphant march of abolitionism since it has gathered the new secret party under its black and pestilential banner. It moves along with the majestic tread of a conqueror. It seems to exult, for the first time, in the prospect of the success of its accursed plans. For years it has struggled against mighty odds. At one time it had the Church against it; then the press took up the assault; then the politicians; and at last it had become as odious in the North as it was hated and feared in the South. The population of our great cities responded to no sentiment more enthusiastically than that which held up to scorn these enemies of the constitution. They were treated as outlaws, and their assemblages of whites and blacks were always sure to provoke the utmost excitement. At no time were the people of the South so secure in their homes, so strong in their rights, so fraternally united with the northern people. But the abolitionists did not rest quiet. They persevered with stubbornness and zeal, and now at last they rejoice with exceeding joy over the promise of coming victory. They feel that they have secured an ally more formidable than any that has heretofore enlisted in their ranks.

Wielding with consummate tact the anti-slavery prejudices of the North, and taking advantage of the necessary conflicts of opinion in Congress, whenever the rights of the States have been sought to be invaded by cunning lawyers and sectional leaders, they have finally contrived to bring under their influence a sentiment which is as hostile to their assumed idea of the perfect equality of all the races of man, as that idea, as hypocritically advocated and presented by them, is hostile to all the understood and covenanted obligations between the citizens and States of our blessed Union.

Now, for the first time, we say, does abolition rear its horrid front in stern and confident contempt of all the fears of the patriotic citizen. Now does it hurl its "fire-brands, arrows and death" among those it has so long and so recklessly assailed. State after State has presented the spectacle of a congregation of all the isms under the lead of abolitionism. We have already counted Ohio, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Indiana, Massachusetts, Maine, Vermont, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Jersey, Michigan, Iowa, and New Hampshire. Every day presents new evidences of the magnitude of this fusion. There has as yet been no exception to it in the North. Nowhere has the new party, which arrogates to itself the name of "American," been effectual to stop the advance of this monstrous anti-American and anti-Union crusade. Everywhere has it yielded before it. Everywhere has it sold out for a price, until at the moment we speak there is scarcely a considerable body of know-nothings in any free State that dare honestly say they regard the constitution and will honestly carry its provisions into effect. Over all the mantle of abolition is spread like a pall. The little politicians who were the first to blow up this tempest against the foreigners and the Catholics, against Protestants who were adopted citizens, and native citizens who were Catholics, are unceremoniously ordered to the rear, leaving Seward, Chase, Giddings, Hale, L. D. Campbell, W. F. Johnston, Henry Wilson, &c., in the advance as the generals in command of the great fusion army.—Washington Union.

From the Holidays Standard, July 25. Horrible Accident. One of those dreadful accidents, the bare recital of which causes the blood to curdle in the veins, occurred on the New Portage Railroad, near the foot of Plane No. 9, on Monday, between 6 and 7 o'clock P. M. The locomotive Hercules left the foot of Plane No. 8, taking on board, before starting, a huckle-berry party on their way home; and, proceeding at a rapid rate, came upon a land slide, which had occurred during the afternoon, at the east end of the deep cut, near the foot of Plane No. 9. The locomotive in its rapid course passed over the slide, the concussion throwing those on board down an embankment thirty feet high, the locomotive following. The tender and a train of cars attached parted from the locomotive, and remained upon the track. All were more or less injured, and William Berry, son of Jacob Berry, of Gaysport, aged about 14 years, was most horribly mangled and instantly killed. The following is a list of the injured:

Ann DeArmit, daughter of John DeArmit—fatally scalded; Jemima Long, a young lady residing at Mr. J. DeArmit's—severely injured; Porter DeArmit—foot smashed; Mary Brisbane—severely injured internally. Mrs. Longanecker, wife of Jona Longanecker, Gaysport—badly bruised and cut; James Jones, Gaysport—severely bruised; Eli Yoder, Engineer—severely bruised and arm scalded; Richard Shellhorn, son of Ed. Shellhorn—legs and shoulder bruised and eye cut; two German girls named Lohmeyer, one a leg broken and the other severely bruised; Lucy Lowe, daughter of John Lowe, of Gaysport—hand injured; Daniel Kneeder—leg hurt; Geo. Crawford, freeman—head cut; Geo. Aughinbaugh—slightly bruised. A number of persons who were on the coal cars attached, made their escape by jumping off.

Owing to the confusion and distress existing, and the many contradictory reports current, as well as the early hour at which we go to press, the above are all the particulars of the melancholy event that we can glean. Fortunately, the embankment over which the locomotive was precipitated, had been rendered soft by the recent rains, or the probability is that more than half of those injured would have been killed.
