

The Democratic Whirlwind.

Democracy is triumphant every where through-out the land. In every State where elections have been recently held, the banner of freedom has been triumphantly carried aloft over the blood and dust of Know-Nothing treason and horror.

North Carolina, too, so long regarded as a firm and unwavering Whig State, has solemnly repudiated the dark-lantern oligarchy, and bowed in submission to the banner of freedom.

Tennessee, one of the four States which voted for Gen. Scott, has been gloriously redeemed from the pestiferous and murderous embraces of the dark-lantern conspirators.

Alabama, true to her Democratic faith as the flint to the steel, or the needle to the pole, was not to be caught napping by the midnight prowler, in his dangerous and fanatical garb of bastard Americanism.

Texas has gallantly met the cohorts of the enemy, and strangled incontinently this hydra of faction and corruption.

In Missouri, the late municipal election in St. Louis, where the Know-Nothing Federalists carried the day by three thousand votes last year, the Democrats have reversed the tables and swept away the traitorous bands.

Indiana and Iowa are now right side up—regenerated and disenthralled from the shackles of piebald Federal-Whiggery-Abolition-Know-Nothingism.

In Main the overthrow of Know-Nothing-Abolitionism is complete. The people have risen against bigotry and intolerance and unjust and illegal enactments.

Kentucky and Vermont alone remain bound neck and heels to the procrustean bed of baneful and traitorous Know-Nothing-Whig-Abolition-Fusion Demagoguism.

Maryland and Georgia will speak with the voice of the waters of Niagara in the course of a few days. Though the allied enemies are concentrating every power to the overthrow of the citadel of freedom, there is a moral certainty that the Democracy will give their opponents a complete and utter overthrow.

Pennsylvania and Ohio are to follow next. We think we may safely answer for the chivalry of the "Keystone." Her Democracy never were in better spirits, or more eager for the fray.

"Under which King?—Speak or Die!" The changing of names is an old game, inherited by the Know Nothing party from its ancestor, Federalism.

The title of "Sons of the Sires of '76" did not set with grace upon the new party, because many of the members could not show a clean record as to which side their sires belonged to in '76—while others could not go back half a generation without stumbling over an Irish or German ancestor.

title had to give way—there were too many fighting under it who had no claim to it.

Next came the "Supreme Order of the Star Spangled Banner." To baptize an order with the name of the national escutcheon of our country—a flag that gained a "name and local habitation" by the valor of patriots from foreign climes, as well as our own feeble band of Revolutionary heroes—was an act of vandalism that could scarcely have been exceeded by adopting the rattle-snake flag of John Paul Jones, a foreigner, but the first naval commander in the service of our country.

And lastly, driven to desperation, with defeats crowding thick and fast upon them, presto! and the name is again changed, and now we have the American party, par excellence, that claims a monopoly of all the patriotism, all the honor and glory arising from an intense love of country—and all the—offices, providing dupes enough can be drawn into the order to elect the great rejected and over looked of both parties who now wield the destinies of the American—yes that's the word!—American Star Spangled Banner Sons of the Sires of '76 Know Nothings!

In our simplicity, we always thought that any man born upon the soil was an American; indeed we had an idea that men who escaped the iron heel of oppression in Europe, took refuge in this glorious country, and swore allegiance to its laws and institutions, were Americans, too.

Alabama, true to her Democratic faith as the flint to the steel, or the needle to the pole, was not to be caught napping by the midnight prowler, in his dangerous and fanatical garb of bastard Americanism.

Texas has gallantly met the cohorts of the enemy, and strangled incontinently this hydra of faction and corruption.

frightful atrocities have been committed.—Many, if not most of my friends, are of my way of thinking. They knew I was leaving home for the purpose of hunting up a location in Eastern Virginia. They authorized me to purchase farms for them there, also, and willingly agreed to abide by such bargains as I might make for them.

Comment is unnecessary.—Washington Union.

How Stands the Case?

There can no longer be any doubt that numbers of the know-nothings of the northern and western States are rapidly following the example of their quondam brethren in the South by severing all connection with the order.

And lastly, driven to desperation, with defeats crowding thick and fast upon them, presto! and the name is again changed, and now we have the American party, par excellence, that claims a monopoly of all the patriotism, all the honor and glory arising from an intense love of country—and all the—offices, providing dupes enough can be drawn into the order to elect the great rejected and over looked of both parties who now wield the destinies of the American—yes that's the word!—American Star Spangled Banner Sons of the Sires of '76 Know Nothings!

COMMUNICATION.

Sunday School Celebration at Mill Creek.

On Thursday the 6th inst., the different Sunday schools of Mill Creek and vicinity met for the purpose of celebrating the Sunday school enterprise which has become such a blessing to the youth of our land.

At 9 o'clock A. M., three different Sunday schools met and formed in procession under the direction of their superintendents.

1. The exercises were opened with prayer by Rev. N. S. Buckingham. 2. Introductory address by Sarah Ginter. 3. Singing by the schools. 4. Music by the band.

5. An address by Rev. J. B. Williams on the nature and tendency of the Sunday school enterprise. The address was appropriate and instructive, showing conclusively that the speaker understood the subject and knew how to present it in order to make a good impression.

6. Singing by the schools. 7. Music by the band. 8. Declaration by Morrison Davis. 9. The ladies of the community then proceeded to arrange the good things prepared by them for the occasion.

10. We then reassembled and had singing by the schools. 11. Music by the band. 12. Singing by the Mill Creek singing class.

13. Speech by Sarah Ginter on the observance of the Sabbath. This was delivered by a Sunday school scholar, thirteen years of age, whose performances show talent as well as diligent study and good training.

14. Singing by the schools. 15. Mr. F. H. Lane then delivered an address which was listened to with interest and attention. 16. Singing by the class.

The singing, speaking and declamation by the children were conducted by Mr. J. Milton Stonebreaker, who deserves the thanks of the community for the interest he has taken in the welfare of the youth.

The Result in Maine.

The Maine election has resulted in a complete victory of the friends of civil and religious liberty and the constitution of our common country. The unsurpassed combination of abolitionism, Know-Nothingism, and fanaticism, has been routed, horse, foot, and dragons. The triumph seems to lack no element of completeness.

I now dismiss you until Friday evening next after election, when you will again meet here to consider the result of the election, and to impose proper punishment upon such members as may so far neglect my present instructions as not to vote this ticket.

The brethren, of course obey instructions. The purchaser gets the votes he paid for, and Mr. Manner has the quid pro quo—or feels satisfied he will get it. This is the way the Order has been, can be, and will be used.

The Chicaneros or Templars.

Though we are prepared to look for almost any desperate movement on the part of the Know Nothings to brace up their falling fortunes, yet a report of the last step staggers even our belief. Lest our readers should doubt our veracity, we will not attempt a description of it ourselves, but copy it from the Philadelphia Sun, an old and leading Native American paper:

"THE TEMPLARS.—The New York papers are giving accounts of a new organization under this title, which appears to be formed within the Know Nothings and to control them. Members are compelled to swear strict obedience to the majority, at all hazards, under all circumstances, and as against all other alliances and associations under penalty of death. They are to abjure Catholicism—not to marry Catholics nor hold any social intercourse, nor to trade with them, or in any way recognize them as fellow citizens.

Ohio—Tuesday, October 9, State officers. Louisiana—Monday, November 5, State officers and four representatives. Mississippi—Monday, November 5, State officers and five representatives. New York—Tuesday, November 6, State officers.

Wisconsin—Tuesday, November 6, State officers. Maryland—Wednesday, November 6, six representatives. Massachusetts—Monday, November 12, State officers.

In Tennessee, Alabama, California, Indiana, Wisconsin, and Pennsylvania, the legislature in each State elect one United States Senator.

The Fever at Norfolk.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 15.—The news from Norfolk is better. The number of new cases has diminished. During the past 24 hours, ending at noon yesterday, the deaths at Norfolk were 29. At Portsmouth, the deaths for the same period were 12. Among the deaths at the latter place, are Mr. Bartlett and Miss Patterson, the latter a nurse from Philadelphia.
