Congress.

No Speaker yet. The Know Nothings and Abolitionists are in the majority, and are taking care of the people's interests with about as much honesty of purpose as they engrafting the obnoxions section for that purdid last winter in our State Legislature.

Pennsylvania Legislature.

The Pennsylvania Legislature will assemble on Tuesday next. The Senate will be Democratic by one majority—the House by a large majority. The first business will be the organization of both Houses by the election of Democratic officers, and we hope none but honest, competent, and dyed-in-thewool deserving Democrats may be selected. The Governor's message will be laid before our readers as soon after received as possible.

A HANDSOME PRESENT .- Yesterday morning we received from Messrs. TAYLOR & CREMER, a handsome Christmas present in the shape of about a peck of very fine apples, the same that took premiums at our county fair. If any of our country friends want good fruit they should secure trees from the nurseries of these gentlemen. They have our thanks for the very handsome present.

We have been informed that one of the ladies we named last week as having sent us a few feet of sausage, was surprised and felt like giving us fits when she found her name in print. Can't help it-we always acknowledge publicly such friendly gifts. But to compromise, we'll agree to 'never mention it' if she will send us a few more feet.

Map of Huntingdon County.

By refference to an advertisement in another column it will be seen that WILLIAM become know-nothings. It is true, that CHRISTY, Esq., late County Surveyor, intends. if sufficient encouragement can be obtained, to publish a map of this county.-That the publication of a correct map of the warfare is against the Romish Church with county will meet with a sufficiently liberal the plain teachings of Christ and his Aposencouragement there can be no doubt; and tles; but they invariably fail to impress any as Mr. Christy's qualifications for getting with the soundness of their reasoning, save up such a map are well known to our readers those who are as bigoted as themselves, and we feel certain they will give his project an who believe with them. Much less can I early consideration.

Know-Nothing Consistency.

If the total want of all principle which pervades the Know-Nothing party in Pennsylvania, needed any new conformation, it is given in the votes of our Congressmen for Speaker. It will be seen on looking over the different ballotings, that on many of them every Know-Nothing from this State, except Broome, Millward and Fuller, voted for N. P. Banks, of Massachusetts, a notorious abolition free trader. The Daily News, a K. N. paper of Philadelphia, gives its brethren a terrible castigation for deserting Fuller and voting for Banks. It says of the latter:

"He is one of those men, in the last Congress, who united with the Southern Free Traders, in the attempt to strike down the coal and iron interests of Pennsylvania, by pose on the Civil and Diplomatic Appropriation Bill, and which but for the persevering and active afforts of our Senators, would now be the law of the land."

Mr. Banks last session was the leader in the movement to admit railroad iron free of duty, and went so far as to advocate the refunding of duties to Railroad Companies which had already been paid into the Treasury. His recorded votes and speeches prove this. And yet the Know-Nothing delegation from Pennsylvania labor to elevate this enemy of Pennsylvania's vital interests to the Speakership of the Congress of the United States! Place Mr. Banks in that position. power against our State. The Know-Nothings at the North are reduced to a mere abohearts than our furnaces and rolling mills .-Banks, we are at a loss to comprehend .can he vote for a free trader? His constituents are anxious to hear from Mr. Edie on this subject .- Johnstown Echo.

DEATH OF WILLIAM P. BROWN. A deep veil of sadness has been thrown around our community by the news of the death of WILLIAM P. BROWN, formerly of this county —recently of Grass Valley, California. The circumstances attending his death are painful indeed. Mr. Brown and his partner were engaged in mining on their claim, on Poor Man's Creek, Saturday Nov. 3d, 1855. They had un. mining purpose, when a large portion of rock and ground, disengaged itself frem the bank upon them, entirely burying Mr. Brown beneath it and causing instant death. His partner barely escaped with his life. Mr. Brown's skull was fractured and his body otherwise mutilated. His remains were taken to the little town of Washington in Nevada country and intered in the Village Grave Yard.

Mr. Brown, whilst here, was extensively known as a first class school teacher, and was eminently successful in that vocation. He ever manifested a deep interest in the cause of education, and was an ardent admirer and advocate of the Common School System. He was one of the number of teachers, who assembled in Huntingdon, in the winter of '52 to organize and hold the first Teacher's Institute ever held in Huntingdon county, and was an active and distinguished member of that body. Mr. Brown was esteemed and beloved by all who knew him. His honesty and integrity of character, were proverbial. He left the home of his childhood for California, April 1st, 1853, and up to the time of his death, was actively and variously employed—first as the proprietor of a book store in Grass Valley-next as a co-editor of the Grass Valley Telegraph—and more recently in mining. From the testimony of several individuals in Grass Valley and vicinity, it would appear, that amidst all the allurements and temptations to vice and dishonesty, incident to life in California, he preserved his integrity, unshaken, and that his intelligence and noble bearing had drawn around him many friends in his new home. Above all we have most ample testimony that he was truly a christian-a meek and lowly follower of Jesus. The following is an extract from a letter of J. Curry Foster, of Grass Valley, formerly of this county, and an intimate friend of the deceased: "I was up to see him about 20th of October. I remained three days with him. I found him more than usually solemn and religiously inclined. He spoke much about home, and of his dear mother whom he was very desirous to see -and more especially was he solemn on the Christians above the rest, in such a manner evening preceding his death, While in conthat all ecclesiastical persons whatever shall versation with a friend, he spoke of the uncerwhich he declares that he shall fight, "on his enjoy the full, free, and unquestioned liberty tainty of life and the necessity of a preparation for death, and also repeated the Dirge of Croly: "Earth to earth and dust to dust," &c. He had lived almost the whole summer alone—he told ingism." He thus writes of Know-Nothing- Jesus Unrist nath appointed a regular governme he onjoyed it much. He spent all his leisure ment and discipline in his church, no law of in reading his Rible and other good books. I in reading his Bible, and other good books. I ean bear witness that all his business transactions, conversations and acts were those of a christian-and though called away suddenly, we have every reason to hope all is well with him. I deeply deplore his loss- He was my first friend in Grass Valley and best while liv.
