In elections to important public offices, and especially those of an executive character, it is unfortunately too common to pay little regard to the qualifications of the candidates. The opportunity is now afforded the people of this State of engratting upon the Constitution several most important and necessary reforms. By the adoption of these amendments they can limit State indebtedness, restrain corporations from travelling out of that path prescribed by their charters, annul or repeal any charter, act of incorporation. or general law, whenever such charters, acts or laws in their operation are injurious to the interests of the citizens of the Commonwealth; and thus protect in the most solemn manner the credit of the State and the rights of the people.
