Bolled Corned Berf.

This is a staple food in a majority of families during several months of the year, and in most cases the cooking may be greatly improved. The two chief errors are, first, in not cooking it long eaough, and second, in losing a large proportion of real nutriment. We always prefer it prepared as follows: Soak in warm, not hot water, just long enough to take out all excess of sait. Then covor it so that the steam will condense upon the under side of the cover and fall back. This will prevent of the nutriment, which, in open vessels, you a bottle ob whiskey corked shut roes off with the steam.
