Farmer's Own Book.

A TREATISE ON THE NUMEROUS DISEASES OF THE HORSE, with an Explanation of their Symptoms, and the Course of Treatment to be Pursued. It treats also on the “Taming of Horses;” how to throw or make a horse lay down; rules for horseshoeing; sizes of bits; bridle driving; kicking horses; how to make a horse follow you; a complete list of steeds belonging to the horse, and their uses; a list of Medicines belonging to the horse, their properties and uses.

Also, a list of Medicines, Domestic Receipts, &c., each item being worth more than the price of the book—including Dr. Wickey's celebrated Cholera Medicine. Take in all, it is one of the most useful works of the kind ever published, and should be in every family. The instructions and receipts are given in plain language, so that anybody can understand them.

A copy of the Farmer's Own Book may be had at the cost of having an inconsiderable amount of suffering and money.

Great Improvement.

IN COOKING STOVES.—Consumption of Smoke and Gas, and Saving of Fuel.—The subscriber would respectfully inform the public that he has added to his former variety of Stoves, a new Patented Gas-burning COOKING STOVE.

It is well known that all combustible matter requires an equal amount of air for perfect combustion, and if the supply is insufficient, it is impossible to produce a flame.

The heat of the fire, in ordinary cooking stoves, decomposes the fuel, and as all the fresh air is admitted under the grates, its oxygen is exhausted before it passes through the fire-chamber. The close flues at the top of the stove, then act as an extinguisher, tending to put out the fire, instead of assisting the combustion. A large portion of the fuel, therefore, passes off in the shape of smoke, clogging up the sides of the stove and impeding the draft, and instead of the baking or of invisible gas which combines with the lime and as destroys the mortar of the chimneys, loosening the bricks, and exposing the dwellingsto the danger of fire.

The introduction of an additional supply of cold air, would cool the gas below the ignition temperature, but by the proper application above the fire, of air previously heated to a temperature of several hundred degrees (which is one of the prominent features of the patent), the gases are inflamed in numerous jets, and their combustion is sufficient to heat the air even before it draft through the chimney, and dryify the smoke.

In addition to the ordinary direct draft under the grate and through the fire-chamber, the gas-burner has an additional draft through the top plates, which is of itself sufficient to maintain combustion. The upper draft not only consumes the gases, but it helps to strengthen and preserve the centre pieces, which are most exposed to the direct action of the fire, and which are made double instead of the usual single plates. By means of this draft alone, all the operations of cooking can be carried on in the same time, but partly, lighter, and the fuel consumed is burned more slowly and more economically.

A sufficient evidence of the effect of the gas in heating the oven, is found in the fact that the oven will be ready for baking, even before the fire is thoroughly kindled, and much sooner than in any other stove.

As Gas-burning Stoves are the order of the day, the Gas-burning Cooking Stove will not only be the leading stove of the present season, but it will undoubtably supersede all others. Purchasers will, therefore, consult their own interest, by seeing and examining it before giving any order for a stove.

The improvements are a Two-story Brick Building, Log Barn, Wagon Shed, Corn crib, and all necessary outbuildings, in good order, two never-failing Wells of Water near the door, with pumps in them; several springs on the farm; 2 good orchards containing a variety of fruit, Apples, Peaches, Pears, &c.

Persons wishing to view the property are requested to call on the subscriber, residing in the same.

Particular Attention!

THE Railroad will without doubt be finished to Gettysburg by the first of October next, and it is consequently expected that the board of Directors will give a full dividend on that day. Mr. Montague Pickering would much appreciate it if you would inform those 500 men who purchased their Overcoats from him last fall, and those 499 who have already procured their Summer Clothing, and the public generally, that he has just returned from the city with another beautiful assortment of COATS, consisting of Cloth, Cambric, Cashmere, Italian cloth, Ducks, Linen, frock, sack and raglans. PANTS of every possible description, and at prices that can not fail to please the most economical purchaser. VESTS will be well supplied with black and white, the best custom made and styles. For the past encouragement, I hope you desire to please a strict attention to business, and by giving you all good and cheap clothing, to merit a continuance of your patronage. Remember the place, Chambersburg street, opposite the English Lutheran Church.
