Chat.

The President has appointed ex-Governor Daniel H. Bayne, Governor of Kansas. The first snow of the season fell here on Friday last to the depth of more than an inch. The subject of the increase of the tariff excites the minds of our prominent statesmen. A disposition to fall back upon the act of 1846 seems to prevail.

The Washington Star cautions its readers against receiving the notes of a bogus concern which are in circulation in this city. It is called 'The Bank of the District of Columbia.' The notes are dated the 1st instant, and signed A. C. H. Rose, Cashier, and Charles E. H. H. President. There is no such bank in existence there.

The Detroit Free Press, of the 10th instant, says 'every probability' is in favor of the election of Davis (Democrat) to Congress in the Fourth District of Michigan. If this is so, the Democrats of Michigan have gained two members of Congress, and have half the delegation.

Since the first of the present month, more than 40,000 bushels of potatoes have been received in Boston from Nova Scotia alone.

The cheapest, as well as the most pleasant and profitable entertainment for long winter evenings, is the reading of a good Family Newspaper—just such an one as 'The Compiler'—price only one dollar and seventy-five cents a year in advance. Try it.

A letter from Burlington, Iowa, states that wheat is worth from 35 to 40 cents per bushel; oats 25 to 30; butter 12 for good; eggs 10; beef $2 to $2.50, live weight.

We have already alluded to the 'Reform Association,' organized in Baltimore for the purpose of protecting the rights and lives of citizens. On Monday last, large bills were posted about Baltimore, containing the names of the members of this Association in large and conspicuous type, with the evident intention of pointing them out as victims of Plug-Ugly violence. A similar poster, with a black border, was stuck up in the office of the Baltimore Clipper—the organ of this crowd.

The Boot on the Other Leg.

It has been a favorite charge of the Black Republican papers and politicians, that the Supreme Court, in its famous Dred Scott decision, declared that 'negroes possessed no rights that white men were bound to respect.' Now, while it is notorious that the aforesaid Court made no such assertion, in the sense imputed to it; still, if it did it has been more than sustained by a recent decision by the Supreme Court of the State of Michigan, composed of four very ultra Republicans. The facts of the case are about like this, after reading which our readers will doubtless conclude with us, that 'the boot is now on the other leg.' Last year while a steamer was lying at the wharf in Detroit, a colored man stepped up to the captain's office, and wanted to purchase a ticket which would entitle him to a passage in the cabin. The clerk of the boat refused to sell him such a ticket. He was offered a deck passenger ticket, and was told that by the regulations of the boat negroes were not permitted to take passage in the cabin. The negro's name is William H. Day, and he brought a suit against the owners of the boat for damages in not permitting him to enjoy a passage with white persons. The Circuit Court denied the validity of Day's claim, when he was induced by the Black 'Republicans' and Abolitionists to remove the case to the Supreme Court of the State, which Court deliberately affirmed the judgment of the Court below, with the necessary costs. The Detroit Free Press, in commenting upon this case, concludes with the following pertinent and opportune remarks:

When the Supreme Court of the United States, in the famous case of Dred Scott, pronounced the opinion that negroes were not citizens of the United States under the Federal Constitution and laws, we have a distinct recollection of the whole Black 'Republican' press, from the eastern boundary of New York to the western boundaries of Illinois and Ohio, was hysterical and overwhelmed with the most virtuous indignation. It declared the act to be barbarous, and the vocabulary that has been resorted to for epithets, hurled at the tribunal which had laid down such monstrous doctrine as law; and up to this day every abolitionist has been seized by the Black 'Republican' press and by the Black 'Republican' orators, in Congress and out, to assail the dignity of the Supreme Court of the United States and to bring it into popular disrepute.

It is small credit to some interest and curiosity in the treatment of the Black 'Republican' press and the Black 'Republican' orators will deal out on this decision of the Supreme Court of the State of Michigan, because, if the decision in the Dred Scott case had not been reversed, it is with good reason that the Black 'Republican' press and the Black 'Republican' orators, in Congress and out, to assail the dignity of the Supreme Court of the United States and to bring it into popular disrepute.

Prospects of the Democracy.

In the course of an able article on the Congressional Elections at the North, the Star says:—But let the present state of things be what it may, the prospects of the Democratic party of the Union will not greatly suffer in any event. These elections over, the Kansas difficulty will be at an end. There will be no discordant element in the way of the perfect co-operation of all sections of the party in the next Presidential election. On the other hand, the disorganization of the Opposition will become every day more intense and impracticable; the chances of an effective coalition will constantly diminish, in proportion to the increase of candidates and the multiplication of irconcilable issues. The most determined of the Republicans will adhere to the anti-slavery article of their creed, to the bitter end; but the occasion for its immediate application past, and the excitement subsided, the conservative portion of the party will begin to reflect upon the ultimate consequences of such a purely sectional movement.— Republicanism will appear in the next Presidential canvass as fiercely sectional as ever, but with such diminished proportions, as to render it powerless for mischief. The 'Americans' will doubtless preserve their organization, unless, meantime, they become merged in the controlling element of the Opposition. In either event, the position and prospects of the Democracy will be the same. We shall be victorious in 1860, whatever the character of the Opposition; and, for our part, we care not how soon they combine their scattered forces.

What of the Future? The Olean (N. Y.) Advertiser, a leading Opposition organ, in the course of a recent article on 'The Future,' thus speaks of the path it intends to pursue hereafter:— In future, we shall advocate Democratic principles, Democratic measures and Democratic men. For three years past we have been 'outside of a healthy political organization,' and while this position affords many pleasures, it is entirely and wholly opposite to our tastes and inclinations. In the Democratic party, we see many, aye, a large proportion of the distinguished statesmen of the Union, who give respectability and renown to the party all over the world. Upon all the great questions which agitate, or have agitated the country for years past, the Democratic party has, with few exceptions, been uniformly upon the right side. Its nationality is, and has been since its formation, maintained, and is now, more than ever, established and rendered impregnable. Faction and fanaticism have alternately battled with it, and in every contest, it has become the purer and more firmly engrained upon the bulwarks of constitutional liberty and constitutional law. With such a party it will be our duty hereafter to do battle, and in seeing hold of it now, we ask the co-operation of all who feel, think, act and defend the principles we herein and hereafter advocate.

The future is dark to the Black Republicans. They hope, but cannot calculate with certainty. They see the solid and substantial basis of the Democracy, which has steadily increased since 1854 and 1856, and also the unstable union of Abolitionist and American for the contest of 1860. They see that a great sacrifice of principle must take place—an uttering of all old issues—to make any headway against the Democracy. The doubt and uncertainty of such an arrangement is at this time oppressing them very much. Shall Bewardism or Crittendenism prevail—shall rank Abolitionism or liberal Republicanism control the next contest in the Opposition ranks? That now is the great point between the 'discordant elements' of the Opposition. The Democracy can look on as calm as a summer's morning.

We will see how cleverly the Democracy will change position on Popular Sovereignty.—Star. The reader will appreciate the audacity of the Star in this particular, when he recollects that the Opposition in 1856 hooted at and 'spit upon' the doctrine of Popular Sovereignty—a doctrine which they now affect so much regard for! But such somersets are 'trifling obstacles for unscrupulous politicians to surmount.'

The Star controllers, in common with their Republican Know Nothing brethren throughout the country, are no little exercised in regard to Judge Douglas, and any some things of him which sound rather queerly when it is considered how lavishly they praised and puffed him but a few months back. We have, with the great majority of the Democratic press, sincerely deprecated his course towards Mr. Buchanan's Administration, but when the character of the mongrel Opposition is taken into view, there is some comfort in the fact that he has unbranded their chosen champion in Illinois, and robbed their party of a triumph which they confidently and fondly anticipated.— He has spoiled a large amount of Black Republican 'glory' anyhow.

The Outrage Acknowledged.

The Washington has published an article on the burning of the Star at New York, which is a subject with which the Star is well acquainted. They most devoutly hoped the affair would never get 'into the papers,' because they knew they would not be able successfully to deny it, and that, failing to do so, the effect would be damaging to their party hereafter. Hence their extraordinary efforts to twist out of the difficulty, 'by hook or by crook.' But 'facts are stubborn things,' and there is no evading the charge which we have so directly made. If it is not true, why have they not denied it? 'There's the rub.'

We call public attention to this implied acknowledgment of the outrage on the part of the Star managers, and trust that all Democrats will bear it in mind when solicited to 'cut' their own vote for Know Nothing candidates.

The Late Election in Michigan. The summing up of the result of the election in Michigan presents a very encouraging figure to the Democracy. The Detroit Free Press says:— She has elected George B. Cooper, Democrat, to Congress, in the place of Howard, Black Republican. It is more than probable that she has also elected Robert W. Davis, Democrat, in place of Leach, Black Republican, and that too, against a majority of 6,754 two years ago. She has reduced Waldron's majority in the 2d Congressional District, from 4,403 to about one half of that number. She has reduced the majority for Kellogg, in the 3d district, from 7,564 two years ago, to less than four thousand.

She has reduced the majority on the State ticket full one-half, bringing it down to about eight thousand. She has increased the number of Senators from three in the last Legislature to twelve or more, and the Representatives from sixteen to more than thirty. These facts show that, notwithstanding the rejoicings of the coalition, the Democratic party is still strong, vigorous, and possessed of that recuperative principle which will enable it to overcome any temporary defeat, and to recover its accustomed supremacy when the sober second thought shall have shown the people the errors into which they have been led.

The following will show the total foreign imports and exports at all the ports of the United States for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1858:—

|                                    |               |
|------------------------------------|---------------|
| Durable goods for the year 1857-58 | $392,293,875 |
| Free goods                         | 61,644,779    |
| Specie and bullion                 | 19,274,490    |
| Total imports for the year         | $473,213,150 |
| Exports for the year 1857-58       | $251,321,033 |
| Foreign produce & merchandise      | 29,660,241    |
| Domestic specie and bullion        | $2,407,246   |
| Foreign do.                        | 10,225,801    |
| Exports of the year                | $32,293,288  |

This shows an excess of exports over imports of $42,031,271, an amount just about equal to the exports of domestic specie. Included in the exports of domestic produce for the year were $131,265,061 value in cotton, against $131,565,850 for the previous year—a remarkable coincidence of figures.

Meeting of Congress. We are within three weeks of the meeting of Congress, and already the members are dropping in at Washington. The session will be short, beginning the first Monday of December and expiring the fourth of March. We hope the time will be profitably spent. There are subjects of vast importance that should engage the attention of the Representatives of the people. There has been enough of unprofitable Kansas uproar in Congress, as well as out of it, and it is to be hoped that subject will be permitted to rest. Nevertheless, as agitation is the nourishment of the opposition, that party will probably make some Kansas move or other in Congress and thus consume precious time that ought to be devoted to practical legislation. The people of Kansas are reacting quietly and contentedly in their Territorial condition. Let them rest, and let whoever attempts to disturb or excite them be held to a strict accountability. If left entirely to themselves, they will in due time form a Constitution to suit them and be peacefully admitted into the Union under it.—Valley Spirit.

The Washington correspondent of the North American, after stating a rumor that Republicanism had been introduced in the Albany district, New York, by the aid of the Republicans, will unite with the Democratic organization in the effort to control the next House, says:— 'Indications conspire to show that the anti-Leocompton Democrats mean to maintain their position in the party, and by compacting their small force, to dictate terms, if they should hold the balance of power. No other course ever appeared probable to the eyes of those who looked below the surface.— It will be their game to stave off any Kansas complication, and by this means become restored to full political communion, after proper contrition for temporary aberration.'

The truth is, that those Democrats who have been induced to co-operate with the Republicans in the recent elections for members of Congress, will soon be compelled, by the force of circumstances, to take their position definitely with SEWARD, or show a determination to return to the Democratic organization. The shape political affairs are taking indicates that there will be no middle ground.—Harrisburg Patriot & Union.

Western Hog Trade.—At Indianapolis 2,000 hogs have been slaughtered, with sales for December delivery at 86, the highest price, for choice lots. The Central Pork-house, at Lexington, Ky., commenced killing on the 10th inst. and had slaughtered 2,000-head, with sales at $4.50, gross. At Indianapolis, Ind., a few hogs were slaughtered at 85, and at St. Louis
