The Philadelplus Press, in its bitter personal war against the President, exceeds all bounds of decency and propri-ety. With all its professions of devo-tion to popular signts and Demosratic principles, the Press has not succeeded in drawing even a thinveil over the real motives of the war it has waged against the former friend and patron of its conductor. These are transparant in the whole tone of the paper, its editorialm, its correspondence, and even its local reports. Without mentioning others, we shall stick a pin in one of these manifestations of this blind and reckless enmity and malice, which appears March, 1681, to the present time; with the names of the various Secretaries and Deputy to be unusually gross and reprehensible. We cannot construe auch language as this into any other but a traitorous and dishonest intent and desire. Tho man who thus wrote of an expedition man who thus wrote of an expedition sent forth under the authority of the Government, to punish an insolent foreign fos, who has grossly insuited our flag and destroyed the life and pre-perty of a citizen, is already in alliance with the enemy.
